PACIFIC FLIERS BELIEVED NEAR U. S. MAINLAND

Couple Thought Speeded Toward Seattle by Storm.

AIRPLANE, ON LONELY ROUTE, HAS NO RADIO

Craft Not Seen Since Soon After Departure From Japanese Field.

Tokyo, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Two fearless Americans, Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, although unsighted since shortly after leaving Samushiro at 5:30 a. m. today (3:30 p. m. Monday, Eastern standard time), were believed to be nearing the North American mainland tonight on the first nonstop Pacific flight between Japan and America.

Their monoplane was thought by officials to have outraced a storm blowing down from Nome, Alaska. The plane was scheduled to have passed over the Aleutian Islands at about midnight and to be crossing the Gulf of Alaska.

Predictions were made the aviators would finish their 4,485-mile flight at Seattle or some inland field between 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. (Eastern standard time) Wednesday, to win the $25,000 offered by the Tokyo newspaper Asahi for the first continuous flight between Japan and America.

Believe Storms Aided.

Friends they made in Japan could not picture Moyle and Allen succumbing to the perils of the vast wastes of water overhung by sudden storm or blinding fog. Rather, they envisioned their plane aided onward toward its destination by a 30 to 40 mile wind which blew across the Aleutians and the Gulf of Alaska. The fact that no word of sighting them came aroused no pessimism.

Experts praised the performance of the plane in lifting its weight of 11,500 pounds from the sands at Samushiro.

They cited its speed in bearing the starting load 110 miles to Point Erimo in 70 minutes. They predicted that as the 1,020 gallons of gasoline diminished in flight the lightened plane would increase its speed.

The fact that both fliers were experienced pilots was stated as a big factor for success. In the 40 or more hours of flight, friends recalled, Moyle and Allen planned to take turns at the controls permitting rest and sleep.

Carry No Radio.

The fliers carried no radio. This and the fact they were traversing one of the loneliest regions of the earth led to the belief they might not be seen again until their arrival in America.

Their course lay northward of the great circle of shipping across the Pacific, as they planned to lessen the distance by flying across the Behring Sea and then swinging southward over the Aleutians. Only when approaching Seattle would they be in the steamship lane.

Meanwhile, all ships plying the North Pacific were being urged to keep a sharp lookout for the airmen. Isolated radio stations in the thousand miles of volcanic Aleutian Islands were alert to offer assistance if need be.

Firearms Merger Called duPont Plan

Remington and Winchester Linked in $60,000,000 Project.

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The American says it learned today that the du Pont Company will furnish capital for a $60,000,000 combination of firearms manufacturing companies.

Under the plan, Remington Arms and Winchester Arms will become one colossal organization, the paper said, pointing out that the du Ponts are the largest manufacturers of gunpowders and explosives in the United States and that Remington Arms Co. is the leading producer of ammunition, other than for military purposes.

Winchester Repeating Arms Co. (of Delaware), another of the country's leading firearms manufacturers, is now in receivership. The American says it was told the du Ponts will finance acquisition of Winchester Repeating Arms by Remington, provided the Remington bid for the Winchester concern is accepted.

Senate Investigation In New York Is Urged

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 8 (U.P.).—A proposal for an investigation by the United States Senate of Federal officials in New York City was placed before the extraordinary Legislature tonight by the Democratic floor leaders.

A resolution to that effect, citing certain conditions which were described as a "public scandal," was introduced by Senator John J. Dunnigan. A similar resolution proposed in the Assembly by Assemblyman Irwin Steingut was blocked by a ruling by Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies. Steingut announced he would redraft the resolution as a bill to overcome McGinnies' ruling.

Treasury's Bond Issue Given Lighter Response

(Associated Press.)

Oversubscription by $140,599,540 of the Treasury $800,000,000 3 per cent 20-24 year bond issue was announced last night by Secretary Mellon.

The response to the bond issue was unexpectedly low, and while no Treasury officials would comment, it was pointed out the interest on the bonds was ⅛ per cent less than had been anticipated by financial interests of the country.

The issue also was for a longer term of years than had been expected, and it was believed the two factors combined toward making money interests chary of the issue.

At the same time the other section of the Treasury's $1,100,000,000 security issue, which was in short-term certificates, was oversubscribed four times.

HUGHES MENTIONED AS ARMS CUT HEAD

Rumor From Europe Is That Chief Justice Will Be Asked to Preside.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

A suggestion—evidently wafted here from Europe—that Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes head the American delegation to the League of Nations world armament congress in Geneva, Switzerland, next year, stirred up considerable speculation yesterday.

There was a further suggestion that the league council might ask Chief Justice Hughes to preside over the conference, just as he presided over the Washington conference on limitation of armaments in 1921, at which time he was Secretary of State.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, just returned from Europe, was asked about Chief Justice Hughes as he emerged from the White House yesterday. He shied from the question. However, if he and other officials did not specifically deny that the idea of sending Mr. Hughes over was under consideration, neither did they say anything that could be remotely regarded as indicating that the idea was under consideration.

The idea, as has been said, was born in Europe. The League of Nations is extremely anxious that the United States take a leading part in the Geneva conference. How better today than send over the man who, with his famous "bombshell" proposal for battleship reduction in 1921, started the disarmament ball rolling?

Here, however, three important questions arise:

First, would President Hoover want to thus take the lead? The impression has been that, while he is extremely anxious to have the Geneva conference succeed, he feels that Europe, rather than the United States, is the chief offender in maintaining excessive and costly armies; and so, consequently, should take the lead in the conference.

Second, could Chief Justice Hughes take part in the conference even if the League of Nations Council were to ask him to preside, and even if President Hoover were agreeable that he should preside? The answer to this is not clear. It was pointed out yesterday that members of the United States Supreme Court have frequently served in outside conferences, a case in point being the conference to settle a dispute between Panama and Costa Rica. This was presided over by the late Chief Justice White. Then there was the A-B-C conference growing out of the American occupation of Mexico, which was participated in by the late Associate Justice Lamar.

Third, if the arms conference is held next February, as scheduled, how could Chief Justice Hughes abandon his duties in the Supreme Court, which also will be in session at that

MEXICO PLANS TO ACCEPT BID FROM LEAGUE

Note Will Be Forwarded Today, Subject to Senate Approval.

GRANDI SEEKS TRUCE IN ARMS PRODUCTION

Italian Minister Says World Security Depends on Cut in Fighting Expenses.

Mexico City, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Foreign Secretary Genaro Estrada announced tonight that Mexico would accept an invitation received today to join the League of Nations.

The acceptance will be forwarded to Geneva tomorrow.

It will be subject, however, to ratification by the Senate. Senor Estrada said that, immediately after receiving the invitation, he informed a Senate committee that a proposal would be sent to the Senate for ratification, which is necessary inasmuch as acceptance implies Mexico's adhesion to the Treaty of Versailles and the pact of the league.

Geneva, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—An invitation to Mexico to enter the League of Nations was extended today by the league's assembly, which also heard Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy propose an immediate armaments truce to be effective until the end of next year's disarmament conference.

Friendship Is Manifest.

The invitation to Mexico was delivered with a manifestation of friendship for that republic and in the confident expectation that the Mexican government would accept it and soon adhere to the league covenant.

The assembly's cordial extension of its hand to Mexico with a view to bringing her into league membership was described by statesmen as a rectification of an unfortunate "error" by which the league organizers twelve years ago omitted Mexico from the list of states invited to membership.

President Wilson was said to have played a large part in excluding Mexico from the league. Associated with him in this action, which the assembly today deplored, was Lord Cecil of England.

Remembering this, Lord Cecil announced to his colleagues from 50 nations today that "this invitation is a correction of an omission made at Paris when the formation of this league was considered."

"That omission," he said, "has lasted much too long and I am not sure that I ought not to acknowledge that I was in part, I suppose, to blame. It therefore gives me particular pleasure to take part in remedying an omission which never should have been made."

He further asserted that the collaboration of Mexico in the league's work was most important and described the Mexicans as a people of "remarkable energy and self-reliance."

Expresses Appreciation.

"This is the happiest day of my life," responded Martinez de Alba, Mexican observer. "I am proud as a man and as a Mexican. I thank all those concerned in this question and especially Viscount Cecil for his strong and generous declaration."

Signor Grandi's proposal for an armaments truce was delivered in an address in which he said Italy regards disarmament as the world's most pressing need and the base on which political tranquillity and economic stability may be reestablished.

He made it clear that Italy expects the general disarmament conference to take place as scheduled next February.

Security could not be realized until the burden of fighting expenses is reduced, he said.

HOOVER SEEKS FINANCE AID IN COTTON CRISIS

Favor Seen for Plan to Carry Surplus and Limit Crops.

RESERVE BOARD HEAD AND PRESIDENT MEET

South Turns Eyes to Texas as Legislature Strives to Effect Control.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday sought a way out for American cotton growers, buried under the highest September crop estimate in sixteen years.

Eugene Meyer, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and William L. Clayton, of Houston, Tex., a leading cotton merchant, were called to the White House as the official September estimate of the Department of Agriculture forecast 15,685,000 bales.

Observers believed the President was looking for a way to carry out a scheme advanced by some Southern senators under which the Government would carry over several million bales of this year's crop for those farmers who agree not to plant any cotton next year.

Conferred With President.

Senator Smith (Democrat), of South Carolina, who conferred recently with the President, is known to favor such a plan. Senator Caraway (Democrat), of Arkansas, came here yesterday to press such a proposal upon Mr. Hoover.

No announcement, however, was forthcoming from the White House, where George R. James, of Tennessee, a member of the Federal Reserve Board, joined in the conferences late in the day.

Under the Smith-Caraway proposal, the cotton farmers would be financed for a share of this year's surplus, sell the cotton next year and take the difference between prevailing low prices and the increased price expected to result next year from their refusal to plant new crops.

Forecast No Surprise.

Senator Caraway would have the Government buy 8,000,000 bales at not less than 8 cents a pound. He then would have this allocated to those farmers who agree not to plant next year, permitting the farmers to collect the difference between the 8 cents a pound and the prospective higher price in 1932. The Agriculture Department's forecast of 15,685,000 bales was not unexpected in view of the August forecast of 15,584,000 bales and apparently the market was

Hughes Will Call Parley of Judges

Returns Tomorrow After Trip Abroad; Will Air Wickersham Ideas.

(Associated Press.)

A conference of senior Federal Court judges will be called by Chief Justice Hughes upon his return to New York tomorrow from a summer vacation in Europe.

In its consideration of conditions in Federal courts throughout the country, the conference is expected to take up the recommendations of the Wickersham commission for speeding court procedure and altering certain court conditions. In addition, reports by each judge upon conditions in his circuit and recommendations by Attorney General Mitchell will be studied.

Many of the justices have been working during the summer recess on the 300 cases which have accumulated, to which approximately 100 more will be added before the court meets. Chief Justice Hughes will come to Washington September 20.

Lindbergh Is Decorated By Emperor of Japan

Tokyo (Wednesday), Sept. 9 (U.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was presented an honorary decoration today by Emperor Hirohito of Japan in recognition of his services to aviation. The medal is "The Third Order with the Middle Cordon of the Rising Sun."

The emperor did not receive Col. Lindbergh personally, but had officials of the imperial household pin the decoration on the aviator's coat. He sent a message that the gift was also intended as a token of appreciation for furtherance of Japanese-American friendship by Lindbergh.

Dominican Aid Is Here To Seek Further Loans

(Associated Press.)

William E. Dunn, financial adviser to the Dominican Republic, arrived in Washington yesterday on a mission in connection with a desired loan for that country.

Dunn called briefly upon Minister Despradel, who said they would confer further during the next few days. The minister did not comment on Dunn's plans. The United States must approve any further loans obtained by the island republic.

ACCUSED POLICEMAN TO SEEK EARLY TRIAL

Joseph H. Hunt, Excoriated in Staples Inquiry, Will Demand Charges.

A formal request will be made to the District Commissioners by counsel for Patrolman Joseph H. Hunt to have charges preferred against him to bring the question of his excoriation by the grand jury, which "vindicated" former Policeman Orville Staples, before a trial board for review.

Because of this decision by Albert W. Jacobson, the attorney for Patrolman Hunt, who is accused of "framing" Staples, the report of the grand jury, which was seemingly charted to the courts, again shifted to the District Commissioners, who are holding in abeyance their proposal to appoint a civilian board to review the recommendations of the grand jury. In substance, the recommendations are that Staples be reinstated, Hunt dismissed and officials connected with the investigation be punished.

There were strong indications last night that the District Commissioners would like to have the Department of Justice embrace the Staples case and alleged corruption in the Police Department in its present inquiry into alleged "third degree" methods in use by the department.

This, the Department of Justice is reluctant to do, it was learned. Before Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby went on his vacation, it is known, representations were made by his office to the Department of Justice to have that body investigate the then current rumors of corruption. The Department of Justice refused to undertake the investigation, it was learned, saying it was a local problem and not within its scope.

In connection with the investigation of the alleged third degree tactics, the Department of Justice has obtained a lengthy statement from Louis J. Jones, colored, 32 years old, of Q street near Second street northwest, who is held in the Marlboro jail for action of the grand jury on theft charges.

He claims that he was arrested here on August 4 and that he was taken to the Second Precinct where a confes-

General Editor Resigns From Associated Press

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—M. A. White, general editor of the Associated Press for the last five years, has resigned, effective September 21, to become assistant general manager of the International News Service and Universal Service.

Announcement of the impending change was made public today.

U. S. Begins Drive On Alien Smuggling

Racketeers' Ring Accused of Bringing Known Criminals Here.

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Federal authorities today opened a drive against what they termed smuggling of aliens into the United States by racketeers, who charged from $100 to $5,000 a head.

Three men were arraigned as the result of a Federal investigation, begun six months ago under United States Attorney George Z. Medalie, following instructions from Secretary of Labor William N. Doak.

Assistant Secretary of Labor Murray W. Garsson charged that eight criminals of international repute have been smuggled into the country by the immigration racket ring.

2 Youths Die as Train Crashes School Bus

Wake Forest, N. C., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—A Seaboard Air Line railway train struck a school bus here today killing two 20-year-old youths, Robert Gardner and John Cadell, jr.

Cameron Shearon, the driver, the only other occupant of the bus, suffered a fractured skull.

MacDonald, Tears in Eyes, Appeals to Lost Following

Labor Party He Helped Form Becomes Opposition as Socialist Prime Minister Heads Government Made Up Chiefly of Conservatives and Liberals.

London, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The House of Commons this afternoon witnessed one of the most poignant dramas of its age-old and colorful history.

Members of Parliament, foreign diplomats and distinguished visitors crowded its ancient precincts to listen to the declaration of policy by the new national government, which has been created as an emergency measure to deal with the financial crisis.

That is what they came to hear. They heard what was, in effect, a touching personal appeal—a great leader pleading for those friendships which he has lost by aligning himself with this new government against the wishes of his party.

They saw Ramsay MacDonald take the floor and with tears in his eyes deliver a remarkable and at times impassioned speech in justification of his action. And they saw Mr. MacDonald's recent colleague and lifelong friend, Arthur Henderson, rise as the new leader of the Labor party and, in biting, cold, analytical language, try to show that his former chief had deserted the principles for which socialism stands.

It was a strange scene upon which American Ambassador Charles G. Dawes and other distinguished personages looked down from the galleries when the house reassembled in response to the emergency call.

Every member's seat was filled—the Conservatives and Liberals consolidated on one side of the house as supporters of the new government and the big Labor membership on the other as the official opposition.

But the most unusual thing about this wholly strange setting was in the government front bench where, for the first time in history, a socialist prime minister was flanked by conservative and liberal members of his cabinet.

The occupants of the front bench appeared unhappy and they certainly were uneasy as speech time approached. Some of them stood at the parting of the ways in their political careers.

In the center of the bench, with his handsome head bowed, sat Mr. MacDonald, obviously laboring under great nervous tension. On his left gleamed the pale, seamed face of Philip Snowden, the little iron chancellor, who chose to follow his chief out into the wilderness when the split with the Labor party came.

No one had to be told that Mr. Snowden was ill and in physical pain. His face was so drawn that his profile had the appearance of being twisted

Sale of U.S. Wheat Reported in Berlin

Farm Board Lacks Data on Purchase Claimed by Germans.

Berlin, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The Telegrafen Union said today that the German government had concluded a contract to buy 200,000 tons of wheat from the United States Farm Board, deliveries to be made during the second half of the current agricultural year as from next January. As an intermediary organization to accept deliveries the government designated the Deutsche Getreide Handels Gesellschaft.

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Stone of the Farm Board said yesterday he hoped a report that the German government was to buy 200,000 tons of Farm Board wheat was true. Carl Williams, who has been acting as spokesman for the board in Chairman Stone's absence, said he knew nothing of the reported negotiations.

A previous German offer for both wheat and cotton was turned down by the Farm Board because it considered the terms unsatisfactory.

Former Kaiser Ordered To Reinstate Employe

Potsdam, Germany, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Former Kaiser William of Germany was ordered by a court of this monarchical stronghold today to reinstate a discharged employe on his nearby estate of Bornstedt and pay legal costs.

The former Kaiser's bailiff summarily dismissed the laborer, Franz Voss, for refusing to work overtime when he claimed he was sick. Voss brought action for recovery of wages and reinstatment.

Three Children Burned To Death in Home Fire

Marlboro, Mass., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Three small children were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed the home of Louis Ouimet. The dead are: Irene, 4; Noella, 3, and Paul Ouimet, 2.

One other child, aged 5, was overcome by smoke and was taken to a hospital. An infant boy was carried from the flames by his mother. The father said he lighted an oil stove about 4 a. m. and then went out to perform his farm duties. While he was away the house took fire.

Son of Senator, 17, Elopes in Maryland

Bride of John C. Neely Is Daughter of Metal Worker.

Fairmont, W. Va., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—John Camp Neely, 17, youngest son of M. M. Neely, United States senator from West Virginia, and Mary Kathryn Faust, 16, eloped to Cumberland, Md., and were married August 31, it was made known tonight.

The bride is the daughter of a Fairmont metal worker. The two are seniors in the Fairmont High School and the marriage has met the objection of the parents of both due to their youth.

The marriage was revealed by young Neely, who called at the desk of the society editor of a local newspaper tonight. Asked if he was Senator Neely's son, he said, "Yes, but you don't need to mention that."

The newlyweds are at the home of the bride's parents. They said that they planned to finish their senior year in high school. Senator Neely said he was first informed of the marriage today, but beyond that had nothing to say.

Street Car Crash Hurts 68 Persons

Trolley En Route to Dance Overturns on Outskirts of Windsor, Ontario.

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Sixty-eight persons were injured tonight as the street car in which they were riding to a public dance at Devonshire Race Track split a switch and overturned in the outskirts of this city.

The first check of the injured indicated that most of the passengers had miraculously escaped critical hurts. The 68 men, women, young girls and youths were taken to three Windsor hospitals.

The street car, said by witnesses to have been moving at the rate of 40 miles an hour, jumped the track and turned over on its side in the street. Some of the passengers were able to crawl out unassisted, but others were rescued by firemen, policmen and volunteer workers, who used axes and blow torches.

VICTORY OF 309-250 CHEERED BY THRONG

Debate Boisterous and Bitter as "Tax and Ax" Parliament Convenes.

London, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—Great Britain's coalition government, created as the nation's bulwark against financial disaster, was given a vote of confidence tonight after bitter and boisterous debate in the House of Commons.

By a vote of 309 to 250 the Commons, convened in extraordinary session, empowered Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald's new cabinet to present its drastic program for economies and new taxation.

The opening session of Parliament, considered the most important since the World War, revived the tumultuous "class" controversy over reduction of the unemployment benefits, which caused the fall of the Labor cabinet and the revolt of Socialists against MacDonald's leadership.

"Tax and Ax" Session.

The press hailed it as the "tax and ax" Parliament. Because of the cabinet program for new taxation and salary cuts. The anxiety of the nation was reflected in the House of Commons, where MacDonald revealed the desperate plight of national finances last month.

Unmoved by the jeers of the Laborites, who were without his leadership for the first time in twenty years, MacDonald said the pound sterling was saved from "tumbling without control" only by loans advanced by American and French bankers.

He appealed for the Parliament and the nation to aid the cabinet "on the hard road to security," but was bitterly opposed by tight-lipped, embattled Arthur Henderson, who succeeded him as leader of the Labor party, and by the belligerent, thin-faced James Maxton, leader of the extremist independent Labor party, who warned the Commons of a danger of revolution.

Crowds Show Anxiety.

It was a tense and unfamiliar scene when the Parliament convened its extraordinary session. The huge crowds which collected outside obviously were anxious about the outcome of the government's battle to prevent financial collapse of the nation. Extra police squads were summoned to hold back the spectators.

MacDonald, his son, Malcolm, and his daughters, Ishbel and Sheila, were loudly cheered as they drove from Downing street to Parliamentary Square.

The House of Commons convened at 2:45 p. m. and the House of Lords began its session a short time later. In both houses the seating arrangement was reversed by the fall of the Labor cabinet and the new position of the Labor party as the opposition. Although MacDonald still sat on the government bench, with the white-haired Philip Snowden at his side, the party which he formerly led was on the opposite side, headed by the stocky, determined Henderson. The Laborites were silent to the cheers of the Liberals and his former foes, the Conservatives, whose leader, Stanley Baldwin, sat on the government bench, when MacDonald entered.

Galleries Packed.

The galleries were packed when MacDonald read a brief message from King George. The message said:

"The present condition of national finances, in the opinion of his majesty's ministers, calls for imposition of additional taxation and for effecting economies in public expendi-

Campbell Sues Gun Expert For $750,000 in Baker Case

Arlington Man, Acquitted of Murder Charge, Alleges Goddard Made False and Malicious Report Which Involved Him in Sensational Trial.

Judgments totaling $750,000 will be sought against Calvin H. Goddard, ballistics expert, who testified against Herbert M. Campbell in the now famous trial for the murder of Mary Baker, at the next session of the Richmond Circuit Court, according to notice served yesterday on the sheriff of Richmond, J. Herbert Mercer.

Campbell, who was acquitted of slaying the Navy Department worker and throwing her body in an Arlington County culvert, will claim $500,000 damages for mental and physical pain to which he was subjected in his long confinement, and an additional $250,000 libel for a published interview with Goddard.

Herbert S. Ward, attorney for Campbell, yesterday filed notice of motion for the two judgments with Deputy Clerk Alex Campbell in the Richmond Circuit Court. The notice was delivered to Sheriff Mercer, who turned it over to a deputy, S. J. Wingfield, for service today.

Goddard, one of the two men who originated identification of bullets, and head of the laboratory of scientific crime detection of Northwestern University, will be served as he delivers a luncheon address before the American Legion Luncheon Club at the Richmond Y. W. C. A. at 1 o'clock today, Sheriff Mercer said.

In the notice of motion for the $500,000 judgment, Campbell charged he would never have been indicted or put to trial for murder "had it not been for the false, untrue and malicious report" of Goddard, made allegedly after "negligent, incomplete and ill-considered tests."

Campbell said he requested Arlington County authorities to forward the revolver taken from his house to Goddard, after the latter had represented himself "as an expert in a science which he called the science of forensic ballistics" and advertised that he "could determine whether or not a certain projectile had been fired from a particular firearm."

He said at the time there was no other evidence which directly or by implication connected him with the murder of the Government worker.

Campbell charged that Goddard "did not use reasonable care, caution

JOB PARLEY CALLED BY AMERICAN LEGION

Governor and Mayors and Other Leaders Asked to Meet Here Sept. 14.

(Associated Press.)

The American Legion assumed a leading role in the nation-wide war on unemployment yesterday with the announcement it has called a conference of governors, mayors and representatives of labor, capital and industry to consider the problem here September 14.

Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander, said the "full strength and influence" of the legion would be offered to President Hoover's unemployment relief organization and municipal, State and other governmental agencies to aid in preventing distress.

Invitations to the conference were extended to all State governors and mayors of the fifteen largest cities and other municipalities where big public projects have been started.

O'Neil said responses to invitations are coming in rapidly and indicate a majority of the State governors will either attend or send personal representatives.

Plans for the conference have been under consideration for several weeks, he said. The American Federation of Labor and the Chamber of Commerce will have officers and committees present, he added, to provide advice and information.

"One main purpose of the conference," O'Neil said, "is to get ideas and suggestions that will enable the legion's national employment commission to be most effective.

"We believe the legion through the agencies of its many posts can be very effective in helping to solve this very serious problem which now confronts our Nation.

"It is our intention to cooperate with all existing agencies, both public and semipublic. I have called this conference at this time so that the suggestions and ideas we receive can be submitted by our employment commission to the national convention to be held in Detroit September 21-24.

"We believe the legion will be able to increase employment during the coming winter and also help to outline a program that may be of some permanent benefit during any period of depression."

While O'Neil was announcing the conference, Walter S. Gifford, national relief director, was speeding up his activities with a view to completing his organization this week.

Britain's Majesties, Too, Join in Retrenching Job

By JOHN J. DALY

The king was in his counting house
Counting out his money;
The queen was in the parlor
Eating bread and honey;
The maid was in the garden
Hanging out the clothes—
Along came a crisis
And here is what arose:

THE King and Queen of England, like many another George and Mary, decide to cut down household expenses.

After looking over the situation, it is agreed that the queen can have no more new hats this season—not even an Empress Eugenie.

King George must get along as best he can with his old topcoat.

For the first time in English history the royal household goes on a strict budget.

The cook is ordered to use lard instead of butter, whenever possible.

If the gas and electric bills are not paid on time, heartless corporations suspend service. Hereafter, the queen, following her lord and master through the palace, will be turning out the lights.

"What about the royal car?" asks the king. "Do you think it will last another season?"

"It'll have to," declares the queen, "then you can trade it in. By the way," she asks, "what mileage are you getting on a gallon of petrol?"

"The last time I checked up," the king informs her, "we were getting only 8 miles to the gallon, in traffic—but on the open road, we sometimes got as high as 10 and 12—going to Balmoral."

"In that case," the queen decides, puckering her brow, "you'll have to use the buses—except when we go driving on Sunday."

"Okey," sighs his majesty, willing to make any sacrifice.

THE milk bill was running rather high—so they cut out the cream for the king's coffee. "The top o' the milk'll do," explains the queen.

"And those imperial cigars you've been smoking," she suggests, "don't you think you could find a cheaper brand?"

"There's only one box left," replies the king, with a sigh, "and when they're gone, I'll get a pipe, like the American Ambassador's, or bum a fag from Eddie."

A splendid example to the people. Gold must be tried by fire. Character is developed by self-restraint such as this, exemplified by the King and Queen of England—monarchs of a mighty nation.

Fortunately, there has been no sickness this year at Buckingham Palace, and it gives the queen an idea: "This royal physician," she says, offhand, one day, "hasn't earned his fee. Don't you think we could put him back in circulation?"

"So far as I'm concerned," says the king, smiling, "he can take his kit bag and resume the general practice of medicine, making house to house calls."

The queen is pleased. "I think you'll be better off with that man out of the house. Besides, we can save heat with his room closed."

"Incidentally," says the king, after all expenses are pared to the bone, "I really need a new topper, and a pair of spats."

"I'm sorry, dear," says the queen, "but you'll have to make your last year's hat do—same as I have done."

"But," interposes the king, "we've got to live."

"I know that," says the good wife, "but things are in pretty bad shape. Remember the old ballad, my dear."

* * * *

King Stephen was a worthy peer
His breeches cost him but a crown;
He deemed them sixpence all too dear;
'Tis pride that puts this country down:
Man, put thy old cloak about thee."

King George, without a word, put on his old hat and went for a walk in the garden.

Pistol Team Wins Trophy; District Marksmen Take Medals at Camp.

Special to The Washington Post.

Camp Perry, Ohio, Sept. 8.—The United States Cavalry pistol team, boasting one entry from the Fort Myer, Va., cavalry post, today displaced the United States Marines as national pistol champions by a score of 1,261 to 1,256.

It was the first time in five years the Marines have bowed to another service. The U. S. Infantry scored third, with 1,253 points; the Coast Guard fourth, with 1,223, and the Navy fifth, with 1,221.

Lieut. George A. Rehm represented Fort Myer on the victorious Cavalry team, which comprised four other members from posts in three States. District Marksmen Win.

Marksmen of the District of Columbia National Guard declared field day, placing in three of the final team competitions of the National Rifle Association.

In the enlisted men's team match the District Guardsmen won second prize in a field of 40 entries.

Staff Sergt. Harry B. Parsons, Company E, 121st Engineers, former George Washington University Rifle Squad star, participated in all three of the competitions, shooting a 49 out of 50 three times in succession in the standing position and twice prone at 600 yards. Lady Astor Is First At Commons Seat

Cries With Glee and Puts Card on Government Side of House.

London, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Lady Astor, first woman to sit in the British Parliament, today was the first member of either sex to stake a claim for a seat in the special session of the House of Commons.

She was among 40 eager M. P.'s who burst into the chamber when the doors opened at 8 o'clock and made a wild rush for places. She nimbly emerged from the scrimmage and reached her chosen position an easy first.

With a cry of delight she placed her white card on the seat at the end of the third row on the government side of the house, corresponding to the one she had occupied among the opposition during the session which closed in July.

Trunk Stimson Took Was 'Traveling Office'

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Stimson's "traveling office" returned to the State Department yesterday, covered with railway, steamship and hotel stickers.

The "office" was a large steamer trunk. It contained all his private and official correspondence and memorandums and other official documents, except the copy of the State Department code. The code book was carried by one of the staff at all times.

Of some 5,000 words sent in code while the Secretary was aboard the Conte Grande, en route to Europe, only one group of five letters was so badly garbled that it could not be decoded. During the trip the Secretary received some 50,000 words by cable or radio.

HUGHES MENTIONED AS ARMS CUT HEAD

Rumor From Europe Is That Chief Justice Will Be Asked to Preside.

time? It hardly seems that he could. There are several European leaders, however, who favor a postponement of the arms conference until June. By that time the Supreme Court would be adjourned. The United States, however, is planning to make a vigorous protest against a postponement.

There are other questions involved, too, including the one as to whether Arthur Henderson is to give up his position as president of the world armament conference, now that he has been ousted from the British cabinet. He does not have to give it up, it would seem, for he was appointed as an individual, not as a member of the British cabinet.

Then there is the question of Chief Justice Hughes' feelings in the matter. Would he want to take part in the Geneva conference? His record in the Washington conference was a brilliant one. Would he want to risk marring it at a conference which many observers are predicting will be a failure?

Secretary of State Stimson was a dinner guest at the White House last night, and outlined to President Hoover his experiences in Europe. In the course of his tour he saw government leaders of all of the important countries, discussing economic conditions and disarmament wherever he went.

Leaving the White House earlier in the day, after attending the regular Tuesday Cabinet meeting, Secretary Stimson said he was very hopeful of an early stabilization of economic conditions abroad.

Asked whether the French leaders had indicated that they favored a postponement of the Geneva arms conference, he answered with an emphatic, "No."

"The primary purpose of my trip," he said, "was to get personally acquainted with the men with whom I have constant dealings through letters and messengers. I believe that if the heads of the various governments could get together and talk, then good feeling between nations would advance with more rapidity than ever before in history."

He added that the bilateral conferences that are now going on, such as those between Premier Laval, of France, and Chancellor Breuning, of Germany, should be regarded as highly significant and helpful in connection with the future welfare of Europe.

CHILEAN INSURGENTS AWAIT PUNISHMENT

Planes Fly Over Ships With Bombs Ready at Sign of New Outbreak.

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Chile today was trusting in the erstwhile rebels of her navy to adhere to their surrender pact, but she was also keeping her powder dry as she brought the last of them to port for punishment.

While the rebel ships made their way to harbor and retribution, a squadron of airplanes hovered above, ready at the first sign of any new outbreak to deliver some more of the persuasive bombs that brought the rebellion to an end Sunday.

"Discipline has been reestablished over all armed vessels of the fleet," a government statement said, "but the government will not consider the situation settled until it is certain that discipline again fully prevails among the crews."

Ring Leaders Face Arrest.

Orders have been issued to arrest the ring leaders of the mutiny as they land and to place them in custody, incommunicado.

Admiral Campos, commander in chief of the fleet, reported that the name of the leader of the mutineers aboard the battleship Almirante La Torre is Furriel Gonzalez. He also said the rebels had just completed plans to shell the city of La Serena, near Coquimbo, when the airplanes began the bombing attack Sunday which resulted in the crushing of the revolt.

The loyal arm and especially the air force, whose bombs ended the mutiny in short order, were the idols of Chile today. Sections of the army were brought in from the provinces to Valparaiso to guard their rebel former colleagues of the navy. As the troops marched through the city bands played and flags flew.

Air Corps' Increase.

Because of the success of the air force in battering the fleet, it was said, the navy budget would be cut and that of the air corps increased. Previous to the revolt, it had been planned to make a cut in the air force budget in the interest of economy.

The staff of the American Embassy under Ambassador William S. Culbertson relaxed after being on 24-hour duty since the beginning of the revolt. At all times, it was said, the government cooperated to the fullest extent with heads of American business interests here in the protection of American property.

Chile's Troubles Bring Concern to Peruvians

Lima, Peru, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Peruvian concern following recent rebellious disturbances in Chile is revealed in a bulletin issued by the National Junta. The government announced in the bulletin last night that it would not permit disturbances to take advantage of the permission given political parties to hold meetings by carrying on radical propaganda.

The bulletin charged disorderly persons have been preaching individually and collectively, verbally and by handbills, destruction of national institutions. The government was prepared to maintain public order in connection with the general elections October 11.

Machado Urges 1932 Elections.

Havana, Cuba, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—President Gerardo Machado again expressed his desire for prompt passage by congress of the proposed constitutional reforms which provide for elections in 1932 at a joint meeting today of his cabinet, governors of provinces, army and navy officials and financial leaders.

U. S. Man in Mexico Denied Bail.

Mexico City, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Judge Francisco Monteyano Lanz today denied bail to Joy P. Harper, whose extradition has been sought for two years by authorities in the United States where he is wanted to face charges at Pittsburgh, Cleveland and other cities on charges of passing fraudulent checks and accusations of other crimes.

Mexico City, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—The newspaper Grafico said today that it had learned that Arturo Elias, half-brother of former President Calles and former consul general at New York, soon will replace Carlos Lardo de Tejada as governor of the northern district of Lower California. There was no official confirmation.

Carlos Davila Denies He Is in Chilean Jail

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Former Ambassador Carlos Davila denied today a published dispatch from Washington saying he was in jail on charges of plotting the return to power of former President Ibanez.

Describing the story as "ridiculous," he said he had been ill since his return from Washington, where he served until the overthrow of the Ibanez government in July.

Errors Bar 3,000 Seeking U. S. Jobs

Many Veterans Failed to Give Evidence of Having Been in Service.

Three thousand Civil Service applicants for the position of statistical clerk, many of whom have come from out of town to take the examination, this morning will find they have been disqualified by the Civil Service Commission for failing to fill in correctly the application blanks.

Among the reasons for disqualificatiton was the failure to complete the preliminary questionnaire or to make an error in filling it out. Many applicants did not have their medical certificates properly filled out and another large group of veterans of the World War, who are given preference in appointments, failed to produce evidence of having been in the service.

Officials of the commission explained last night that all applicants were warned in advance that disqualification would follow should they fail to fill in properly the application blanks.

Salem, Ohio, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—George Schmidt, 23, meat market proprietor, was murdered in his shop here today by robbers who cut his throat with his own butcher knife and then hacked him with a cleaver. About $300 which Schmidt was known to be carrying was stolen.

Policemen Cleared In Using Revolvers

Report by Stoll Holds That Firing Was Justified in Traffic Cases.

Policemen John O. Hite of the Traffic Bureau and W. R. Perry of the Third Precinct were held justified yesterday in resorting to gunplay in two wild automobile chases last week, after Inspector Louis J. Stoll investigated the cases.

In his report to Maj. Henry G. Pratt, Inspector Stoll stated that the drivers of the machines deliberately attempted to run down the policemen in attempting to escape. Both cases involved traffic violations.

Perry told his superiors that he fired at a machine at New Hampshire avenue and N street northwest, as a last resort, after a chase lasting about 20 minutes. He said he was standing in the road when a car bore down upon him and narrowly escaped being run down. Hite reported that he fired at the driver of a car after the vehicle had sideswiped C. L. Smith, also of the Traffic Bureau, knocking him from his motorcycle.

ture. His majesty recommends the matter to the consideration of the Commons and trusts they will make provision accordingly."

MacDonald began his speech, tracing the crisis in Britain's finances, due chiefly to a threatened $600,000,000 budget deficit, and said that on August 8 he received a statement from the Bank of England that it was considering the possibility of a serious situation due to the withdrawal of deposits and the depletion of the gold reserve. In mid-August, he said, a "further loan was required to keep the pound sterling from tumbling off. Each day was more gloomy than the preceding."

Denies Bank Intervention.

The prime minister was interrupted frequenty by jeers from the left-wing Laborites, but he was calm and self-contained and ignored the thrusts. Henderson looked worried and serious, but the majority of Laborites were laughing boisterously at MacDonald's defense against charges that bankers deliberately forced the crisis to crush Socialism.

Henderson had questioned MacDonald repeatedly about the order of business but the prime minister replied coldly to his former associate Lady Astor, Conservative, was the object of repeated Laborite jeers when MacDonald was speaking.

"What about Nancy?" shouted various members, when the prime minister mentioned the banks.

"Never once in the whole course of the negotiations did the banks interfere with political proposals, but simply confined themselves to expert advice on the effect of various proposals," MacDonald continued. In reference to the Labor party revolt, he said: "It would be far better if all of us go with tight belts and stability of finances, rather than be well fed in the midst of confusion."

Praises American Aid.

The satement caused a wild burst of protest from the Laborites. Henderson, although restrained, frequently leaned forward to interrupt the prime minister.

MacDonald said the proposed economies by the government included a $5,000 reduction of his salary to $20,000, and he appealed to all classes to "go cheerfully with the government over a hard road along which our security, honor and well-being must be found."

MacDonald called attention to "the magnificent helpfulness and good will shown us by New York and other American bankers from the beginning to the end. If this loan had not been made, the pound sterling would have tumbled. It would have been 20 shillings one day and 10 shillings the next. It would have tumbled without control."

The cabinet's victory was greeted with loud cheering by the thousands of persons who were held back by reinforced police lines outside the Parliament buildings.

The majority of 59 votes given the government was considered an encouraging sign, as only about 50 votes majority had been expected. The Liberals and Conservatives voted solidly for the cabinet, but only five Laborites, Maj. A. G. Church, Holford Knight, James A. Lovat-Fraser, Sir Ernest Bennett and S. T. Rosbotham, joined the Labor members of the cabinet in supporting the motion. With the seven Laborite cabinet ministers there was a total of 12 Labor votes cast for the motion. Three Laborites abstained from voting.

Four followers of Sir Oswald Mosley, who resigned from the Labor party to form a new party, voted against the measure, and independent Laborites, including Oliver Baldwin, son of the Conservative leader, voted against it. The House of Commons will resolve itself into a committee on ways and means Thursday to deal with the financial situation.

Bristol, England, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—Relentless opposition to the cabinet's proposed reduction of the unemployment benefits was approved today by the trades union congress, which is leading the fight against Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald's government in its economy program.

Jobless Sing 'Red Flag' As Commons Debates

London, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—A group of unemployed held a demonstration outside the House of Commons tonight while the debate was proceeding.

They sang the "Red Flag" and jeered at a large force of mounted and foot police who were gathered in the neighborhood. No organized attempt was made to enter the Commons. One man who attempted to do so was pushed on by police. There were shouts of "Down with MacDonald!" and a number of members of the group sold pamphlets denouncing the government.

Man Reporting Robbery Recants Story to Police

Reporting to Park Police Sunday night that while walking in Potomac Park near the White House, he was held up at the point of a gun by three men who robbed him of a bonus check and a small amount of cash, Francis Cole, a war veteran of 722 F street northeast, yesterday denied the incident and signed a statement declaring his story to be fictitious, according to the Park Police.

He gave no explanation for his act, but declared he had lost his bonus check, amounting to $28.95, and feared it would cause him trouble. His story, however, caused the detention of two men, Roy S. Byrd, of Roanoke, Va., and Horace G. Walker, of 933 Ninth street northwest. They were released yesterday when Cole failed to appear in Police Court to prosecute them.

91 Theater Musicians Idle During Dispute

Philadelphia, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Officials of the Musicians Protective Association said 91 musicians employed in Stanley Warner Co. theaters in Philadelphia did not report for work today as a result of the failure to reach a new agreement with the company concerning the number of men to be employed during the coming winter.

Maryland Women Asked To Transfer Affiliation

Charging that the General Federation of Women's Clubs "has taken on activities not wholly in the cause of women but for the advancement of a political party," President Virginia Peters-Parkhurst, of the Susan B. Anthony Foundation of Maryland, yesterday invited the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs to affiliate with the foundation.

The invitation, directed to Mrs. J. Enos Ray, director of the Maryland Federation, asked members of the group "to disengage themselves from insidious propaganda and to come over in a body to the Susan B. Anthony Foundation of Maryland, a nonpartisan and educational organization, where their membership will not be exploited or sold out for political prefrence, but where honesty of purpose will prevail, both political parties being allowed equal opportunity at any and all meetings to send speakers."

Hongkong, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—A semi-official Central Press message today from Canton, South China center, said the United States was strongly denounced at a mass meeting in Nanning, Kwangsi Province, for interference in China's domestic affairs.

Speakers criticized the American Government for "acting as agents for the Nanking government" against which South China is in revolt, and the meeting urged a general boycott of American goods.

or intelligence" in the selection of the tests and examinations he made of the revolver and the projectiles fired from the murder gun and taken from the body of Mary Baker.

He charged that Goddard did not measure or compare the bullets removed from the body with the barrel of the revolver, and that he did not properly compare the width of the lands and grooves on the test bullets with the markings on the fatal bullets.

It was further alleged that the ballistics expert "enlarged the photographs either of the test bullets or of the fatal bullets a greater or less number of diameters, whereby the said major markings made by the lands and grooves of one were made to coincide with similar markings on the other."

Campbell claimed that if Goddard had not enlarged the two sets of photographs a different number of diameters the marks would not have coincided.

Claims Photographs Misleading.

These various tests, according to the notice to be served on Goddard today, "resulted in the defendant making a false, untrue and malicious report to the authorities by whom the plaintiff was held in custody, or to the newspapers of the country, or to both, that the plaintiff's gun had fired the fatal bullets."

It was also alleged that Goddard in making the photographic enlargements threw a strong cross or side light upon the bullets, "placed in such a manner as to disguise the ridges and marks upon each." In this manner, Campbell charged, Goddard procured "false and misleading photographs."

In conclusion, Campbell charges that as a result of Goddard's evidence "he was compelled to undergo a long and arduous incarceration, that his life was put in jeopardy, that he sufferd a loss of great gains and profits in his business, that he was compelld to incur great expenses in attorneys' and other fees, and that he was compelled to incur great costs and expenses in and about procuring his liberty, and in and about defending his life."

Says Nervous System Shattered.

He charged he "underwent great mental and physical pain and anguish and that his nervous system was shattered by anxiety and worry."

The second judgment, for $250,000, is sought on the basis of an interview published in a Washington newspaper, quoting Goddard as saying that Campbell's revolver fired the shots that killed Mary Baker.

The expert was quoted as saying he was "absolutely positive" of this statement. The article was published, according to the notice, September 25, of last year, while Campbell was under indictment for murder and awaiting trial.

Mary Baker's body was found in an out-of-the-way Arlington County culvert April 12, 1930.

Campbell, Virginia real estate man and operator of a miniature golf course, was arrested in connection with the murder July 24, and acquitted after trial November 1 of last year. The murder has never been solved.

Women Gain as Men Lose In Gainful Workers' Ratio

(Associated Press.)

A material decrease in the proportion of men gainfully employed, and a decided increase in the percentage of women so occupied, was reported yesterday by the Census Bureau on 1930 totals.

There were in the United States 48,832,589 gainful workers—38,053,795 men, 10,778,794 women.

These male gainful workers represented but 76.2 per cent of the male population 10 years of age and over, as against 78.2 per cent in 1920, 81.3 per cent in 1910, and 80.0 per cent in 1900.

As the male percentage declined, more women got gainful jobs, 18.8 per cent of females over 10 years of age being at work in 1930, 23.4 per cent in 1910, 21.1 per cent in 1920, 22.1 per cent in 1930.

Domestic service still claimed the greatest number of women wage earners, 3,149,391, with manufacturing second in importance, and professional service, principally teaching, third.

Manufacturing and allied industries claimed the greatest number of men, with agriculture second and trade third.

District of Columbia led in percentage of females over 10 years of age gainfully employed—40.2. Domestic and personal service was in the lead, with the thousands of Government workers listed under "public service" coming second.

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—After touring the country, Maj. Gen. George S. Gibbs, vice president of the International Telephone & Telegraph Co. said today he felt "profoundly optimistic" over the general business outlook and the ability of communities to cope with unemployment in the coming winter.

PRIME MINISTER SOBS IN PLEA FOR SUPPORT

into a sardonic grin as he looked across at his old colleagues on the Labor benches.

On Mr. MacDonald's right was the former Conservative prime minister, Stanley Baldwin—honest farmer Baldwin to his friends—who had taken grave political risk by agreeing to serve in a cooperative government under Mr. MacDonald. Mr. Baldwin also was unhappy and kept brushing his hand across his eyes as though something were bothering his vision.

Next to Mr. Snowden sat J. H. "Jim" Thomas, for a generation the genial friend and helper of railway workers. Mr. Thomas, too, has read himself out of his party by standing with Mr. MacDonald.

Scattered about the house were famous figures. There was Lady Astor, looking trim and alert, and Winston Churchill, with his puckish face sunk in his huge winged collar, plotting the witty and bitingly sarcastic speech he was to deliver later.

There was Mr. Henderson, sitting among his followers, his face flushed and his eyes alert. Only one more figure was needed to make the picture complete and that was the Liberal leader, former Prime Minister David Lloyd George, who was home recovering from a severe operation.

Mr. MacDonald spoke first and he labored under great stress of feeling. It was a heart-stirring moment when he arose and, for the first time in his life, faced as the opposition that party which he himself had helped create and raise to a position of power.

There was no question but that he was speaking to them and to no one else. For the most part they gave him respectful hearing, but there was a distinct hostility in the air.

Once he broke down altogether. He was explaining the difficulties the nation had faced when the new government was formed and was in the midst of the phrase, "the country had to," when a Laborite interrupted with the taunt, "get rid of you."

Mr. MacDonald paused and looked about helplessly. He forgot where he was in his speech. Then the little iron chancellor leaned forward, touched his chief on the arm and whispered. Mr. MacDonald pulled himself together and finished his speech.

Western Prelates Plan Aid in C. U. Campaign

Los Angeles, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Aid in the campaign to raise $1,000,000 for the Catholic University at Washington, D. C. was pledged at a conference of Western prelates of the church here last night. They ratified plans formulated recently in Atlantic City. Fifteen bishops and two archbishops, the Most Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, apostolic delegate to the United States, and Archbishop Edward Hanna, of San Francisco, attended the meeting.

The papal nuncio expressed the solicitude of Pope Pius XI for the university and said his holiness had hoped for a strong educational center in America.

MOTHER SENTENCED FOR SON'S MURDER

Mrs. De Hall Gets 25 Years After Older Boy Takes Blame to Save Her.

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Despite the attempt of a 28-year-old son to save his mother by confessing the crime with which she was charged, Mrs. Anna De Hall was sentenced today to 25 years' imprisonment for the murder of another son.

The gray and slightly bent woman of 54 was convicted of having slashed the throat of her boy Salvotore, 16, as he lay asleep in their home on November 24, 1930.

Michael Filosa, the other son, a half-brother of the victim, in his effort to shoulder the blame, volunteered a story of having committed the killing while walking in his sleep. He was convicted of the murder, but now he will be released.

Mrs. De Hall, brought before County Judge Alonzo McLaughlin today for sentence, burst into wild hysterical screams. It took two court attendants to quiet her long enough for Judge McLaughlin to inform her in the language of the law that she must spend at least twenty years of her life in prison for murder in the second degree, and (if she lives that long) an additional sentence of five to ten years on a separate conviction for carrying dangerous weapons. Mrs. De Hall then was taken away in a police van to begin her sentence.

Salvatore de Hall was found dead November 24, 1930, in his bed at the home where he lived with his mother and the half-brother, Michael Filosa. Mrs. De Hall's son by a former marriage. Police arrested Mrs. De Hall and she was indicted.

Then, suddenly, the half brother surrendered to police and made a detail "confession," exonerating his mother. He told a weird tale of having killed Salvatore while walking in his sleep—a habit he said he was addicted to.

So convincing was his story of how his mother shook him until he awoke to find a bloody razor in his hand, the police placed him under arrest and charged him with the murder.

He was actually tried and convicted before the authorities began to be suspicious. County Judge Taylor ordered a complete investigation before sentencing Filosa.

A number of flaws in his story were brought to light. Confronted with them, he broke down and confessed he had admitted the crime merely to save his mother. Filosa is still in jail but the authorities said that he would be released shortly.

Forest Fires Surround Athens.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 39

THE second year of the present century, 29 years ago to those who can't remember back that far, was a red letter one for music lovers in Washington.

True there weren't any radios or sound movies, but there was the Rakemann's String Quartet. The members of this quartet who are shown in the above picture were for a time active in the De Koven Washington Symphony Orchestra. This orchestra contained some of the most famous musicians of that time. De Koven was the composer of "Robin Hood."

Herman C. Rakemann, leader of the quartet and its first violin who is on the left, was a pupil of the famous Joseph Joachim, of Berlin, and later of the distinguished Belgian violinist, Ysaye. Mr. Rakemann is still active in local musical circles.

The other members of the quartet are, left to right, Wenceslao Villalpando, of Mexico, cellist; Joseph Finckel, viola; William E. Green, second violinist, and, standing, S. Monroe Fabian. Mr. Fabian is remembered as a pianist of rare ability, and his delightful playing and interpretation of "Chopin" is still fresh in the memory of the Washington's music followers.

HUSTON TO TESTIFY ON AID GIVEN BISHOP

Former Republican Chief May Explain $5,000 Gift to Beat Smith.

(United Press.)

Claudius H. Huston, former chairman of the Republican national committee, is scheduled to be the star witness at the next hearings, probably in mid-October, of the Nye campaign fund investigating committee.

After its hearings the committee will draft admendments to the corrupt practices act, and will submit them to Congress early in the December session. The committee desires that the amendments, which may entail rewriting the entire act, shall be passed well before the 1932 election.

Mr. Huston will be asked to explain the circumstances in which the proceeds of a $5,000 check, drawn against his personal account in the International Trust Co. of New York, went to the North Carolina general staff in the bishop's war against Alfred E. Smith in 1928. Republican leaders had repeatedly denied that they approved, aside from helping, the Cannon fight against Smith.

Bank Requires Subpena.

Investigators of the committee, under Basil M. Manly, have failed so far to obtain the records of the International Trust Co. aside from the one instance of the Cannon check. It is understood, however, that the bank's position is simply that its records must be subpenaed to protect it against possible suit. Hence it is expected that within the next couple of weeks the records of Huston's account will be asked formally in behalf of the Nye committee.

Another witness who will be called is former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, another Hoover leader, who gave $10,000 to Cannon. Frelinghuysen went grouse shooting in Scotland about the time the recent Nye hearings began, but the committeemen believe the grouse season will be over by the time they meet again.

It is uncertain whether the committee will call Edwin C. Jameson, square-jawed Santa Claus of the anti-Smith crusade. However, it was recalled today that the committee subpenaed and obtained, during its last hearings, bank records of Jameson's account in the Lawyers Trust Co. of New York. These were not put on the record except insofar as contributions to Cannon were concerned.

Speculation on Relations.

There has been speculation as to Jameson's relations with Republican leaders, inasmuch as he gave $172,000 altogether to help beat Smith. The full bank records are being studied now by committee experts.

The committee has had no indication whether the Methodist divine himself will return to this country from Europe in time to appear before the committee. If Cannon, as expected, refuses to testify, the committee must decide whether to prosecute him for contempt of the Senate or merely to turn over any possible evidence to the Department of Justice for consideration in respect to the Federal corrupt practices act.

Unless it is decided to prosecute Cannon, in the event he refuses to testify, it is understood the committee is unlikely to proceed against two witnesses who refused to testify at its recent hearings. They are Miss Ada Burroughs, for years Cannon's confidential secretary, and, during the 1928 campaign, treasurer of his anti-Smith Democrats, and the Rev. Sidney J. Peters, a Cannon aid.

JAHNCKE AIDS RACE OF OHIO REPUBLICAN

Assistant Navy Secretary Predicts New Congress Will Make History.

Cincinnati, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Assistant Secretary Jahncke, of the Navy, tonight predicted history would be made in the next Congress, which he saw facing the challenge of fundamental issues.

Mr. Jahncke, appearing at a Republican banquet here, opened the campaign rally of John B. Hollister, Republican candidate for the seat made vacant by the death of Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the House.

"I urge you to take the aggressive at once," Mr. Jahncke said. "Never for a moment permit your opponents to have a breathing spell in their apologies and explanations." * * *

"Demand first of your opponents if they are going to 'play ball' with the Raskob high command of the Democratic party, in its mudslinging campaign against the President, in an effort to handicap him in carrying forward the great constructive program for unemployment relief and economic recovery." * * *

The Democrats were charged by Mr. Jahncke with espousing unemployment insurance similar to the dole system, which he termed "illustrative of the sort of constructive leadership which has distinguished the Democratic party in the hours of economic trial."

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy, who also is Republican national committeeman from Louisiana, pointed to conditions in 1921, asserting they indicated failure of the Democratic party at the close of its administration to alleviate conditions.

Democratic Senate leaders were taken to task for their pronouncements upon the tariff. He asserted the "inconsistency of the whole Democratic position on the tariff" had been exposed by a series of open letters from Republican senators to Democratic senators, asking them to specify some of the rates they would increase.

"The truth of the matter is," Jahncke said, "that if the Hawley-Smoot tariff was high enough in June, 1930, it is not high enough today. If it was too high then—and I do not admit it—it is too low today."

WATSON SAYS TARIFF DID NOT CUT TRADE

World-Wide Conditions Are Given Blame as Senator Answers Democrat.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader of the Senate, yesterday challenged as "wide of the truth" statements made by Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, that the Hawley-Smoot tariff had closed foreign markets to the United States.

In a statement issued through the Republican national committee, Watson quoted Harrison as saying in his Labor Day speech at Tampa, Fla., that the present tariff had "destroyed our foreign trade."

He asserted in reply that official figures showed that the decrease in American foreign trade had been little if any greater than that of foreign countries, and that this was due to the economic depression.

The Indiana senator congratulated Harrison for his declaration against "a government dole policy." He said this stand indorsed the policy of the Hoover administration and took issue with Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national committee, "who has hitherto indicated his clear approval of the dole system under the guise of federal unemployment insurance."

Watson asserted that United States export trade declined only 33 per cent in the second quarter of this year, as compared with a similar period in 1929, before the stock market crash. When the volume of imports is considered, he asserted, the "net decline in our foreign commerce amounted to but 30.05 per cent."

Against these figures, Watson said the foreign trade of Australia had decreased 30.6 per cent, that of Brazil 36.7 per cent, that of Canada 27.9, Germany 16.8, Italy 18.6 and the United Kingdom 17.3.

"These figures," he said, "make it perfectly clear that the foreign trade of all countries have decreased sharply, not because of the Hawley-Smoot tariff law passed by our country, but because of the depression which grips all lands."

The GIRL About Town

THE depression has struck me at last. New York merchants are asking women to abandon their charge accounts and pay cash. How ridiculous! How could I buy anything unless I charged the account to Daddy? All the brides of my acquaintance would feel hampered, too. Some of them just "charge" things for the fun of giving their new names. Whoever thought up that idea of paying cash knew very little about the psychology of women buyers.

In his party was his charming countrywoman, Miss Basri, daughter of the Turkish consul general in New York, who is visiting in Washington.

He is not accustomed to participating in foredoomed failures.

JUDGE LETS CAPONE REVERSE RUM PLEA

Gangster Admitted Guilt on Sentence Agreement Which Jurist Repudiated.

Chicago, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—"Scarface Al" Capone, facing trial on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws and of evading the income tax law, was granted permission today to change his plea of guilty in the liquor case to one of not guilty by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

The ruling was made at an unexpected hearing in Judge Wilkerson's chambers, the jurist recently having announced that the hearing, originally scheduled for today, would not be held until September 10.

In a memorandum which the judge ordered his clerk to file it was explained that the change in pleas was being allowed because the defendant had agreed to plead guilty under a compromise agreement with the prosecution in which the court could not concur.

Withdraws Guilty Plea.

The gang leader was allowed to withdraw his plea of guilty to the income tax charge on July 31, the day he was to have been sentenced. At that time Judge Wilkerson announced he would hear evidence in the liquor case, apparently discrediting the agreement for leniency entered into by Capone and the prosecution.

Under the original agreement with the prosecutors, it had been anticipated that Capone might receive sentences ranging from two to five years imprisonment on each of the indictments, the sentences to run concurrently.

When his case was called for trial, Capone's attorney's stressed this "understanding," only to receive a summary warning from Judge Wilkerson that he would not be bound by any such agreement, and his counsel promptly withdrew Capone's plea.

34-Year Term Possible.

In his memorandum today, the judge said although compromises are legal under some circumstances, those concerned in the Capone case were not arrived at in "the manner prescribed by law."

"The recommendation to be made to the court contemplated that the sentence to be imposed in the conspiracy case, while an independent sentence in form, was really to run concurrently with the sentence in the income tax cases," the memorandum said. "The court has ruled that the plea of guilty must be unconditional and that, in a hearing thereon, there can be no understanding which precludes the court from ascertaining the facts and entering, at the conclusion of the hearing, the judgment which is proper under the facts."

Capone is now subject to a possible 34 years imprisonment and $80,000 fine. Maximum sentence on the liquor conspiracy count is two years. A 32-year sentence is possible under the income tax indictments, which charge delinquencies totaling approximately $2,000,000.

HOOVER SEEKS WAY TO AID COTTON MEN

braced for it. The crop was placed at 68 per cent of normal, as compared to 53.2 per cent on September 1, 1930, and a 10-year average of 56.4 per cent.

Eyes Turn to Texas.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—With the eyes of the entire South upon them, the lawmakers of Texas met in extraordinary session today to attempt to put king cotton back on his throne.

Arbitrary reduction of cotton planting next year by statute, on a basis which could be followed by the other cotton-growing States, was the formula presented by Gov. R. S. Sterling for dealing with the South's economic crisis.

In a message to the Legislature, Gov. Sterling voiced the "prayers" of the State that a solution of the cotton situation could be found and reported that a poll he had taken showed the majority in favor of forcing a 50 per cent reduction in acreage next year.

States Await Action.

Other cotton States, except Louisiana, which has passed a bill to prevent any cotton planting in 1932, conditioned upon similar action of other Commonwealths, today awaited the outcome in Texas before going ahead with plans for acreage control.

Thousands of farmers flocked into the State capital today to press for action by the legislators. A huge mass meeting is planned for tomorrow night. Gov. Long of Louisiana insists that his plan for total prohibition of planting next year should be enacted in Texas and other States.

The first cotton bill of the legislative calendar was the plan sponsored by Gov. Long embodied in a bill introduced by Representative Gilbert, of Cisco. Representative Gordon M. Burns, of Huntsville, introduced a bill calling for 50 per cent reduction in acreage. Several other bills were in preparation, both in the House and Senate, although the upper House spent the afternoon in organization.

Believed Constitutional.

Referring to the question whether an acreage reduction law would be constitutional, Gov. Sterling declared: "Some attorneys of high repute have expressed the opinion that legal restriction of cotton acreage would stand the test of the courts, under the constitutional provision for conservation of natural resources of the State."

Advocates of the acreage reduction plan predict immediate strengthening of the cotton market, in anticipation of a reduction in the surplus, when all the cotton States get together on a curtailment program. They advocate swift action while this year's crop is still in the hands of the growers, so that the producer will reap the expected profit.

Southerners have turned to State action to solve their problems after disappointment with the Federal Farm Board's efforts to support the market and failure of growers to heed the appeals of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and others to voluntarily reduce their plantings.

Long Will Not Attend.

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Gov. Huey P. Long, in a radio address tonight said he would be unable to attend a cotton relief mass meeting tomorrow night in Austin, Tex. The reason, he said, was because Lieut. Gov. Paul Cyr's refusal to sign a promise that he would not attempt to act as governor or take the gubernatorial oath of office during Long's absence.

Gov. Long said he would address the Austin meeting by radio, by means of amplifiers in the meeting hall, and would be personally represented by O. K. Allen, chairman of the Louisiana Highway Commission.

The governor spoke here tonight on his plan for cotton relief legislation.

Savoy Keeps Job Despite Age Limit

Stimson Messenger Plans to Continue Service, if Possible.

Eddie Savoy, chief messenger of the State Department, reached his retirement age on August 31, but has been at work every day since and shows no signs of being willing to quit. Yesterday he was at his post outside Secretary Stimson's door to greet the Secretary on his return from Europe.

Savoy already has had an extension on his time and it is doubtful just what is his real status. But before Secretary Stimson left he told the messenger that he would do what was possible in the case, and that was enough to make Savoy come back to work, although he may not draw a pay check on the next Government pay roll.

The messenger, who has been with the State Department for 60 years, has become acquainted with the many diplomats calling on the Secretary and is well versed in diplomatic courtesies and formalities.

Court Writ Asked To Oust Visitors

Man Claims Wife's Sister and Husband Refuse to Pay Rent.

Charles K. Eilbeck, 2218 Thirty-second street southeast, yesterday brought suit in the District Supreme Court to force his brother-in-law and his sister-in-law, Earl Gordon and Elsie Gordon, to move from the home to which he jointly holds title with his wife.

Eilbeck told the court that his in-laws have resided in the house ever since he and his wife purchased it in 1929. They have paid him nothing for their rent, he said, and they have refused to leave the place. His brother-in-law, he says, has called him names and at one time pointed a revolver at him.

The court was also informed that the presence in the house of the others had caused him some discomfort because his wife failed to cooperate with him in getting her sister and the sister's husband to leave. A temporary order requiring them to get out and then a permanent order are requested of the court. Eilbeck says that unless they leave he will, and will thereby lose the equity he has in the home.

600 National Guards Leave East Texas Field

Kilgore, Tex., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Enforced conservation of crude oil and gas in the rich east Texas oil field settled down to routine today with the withdrawal of nearly 600 National Guardsmen. A regulatory force of 150 remained to administer the State Railroad Commission's proration order in the 600 square-mile area.

U. S. Fails to Solve Importer Mystery

Federal Agents End Probe Into Disappearance of Japanese.

New York City, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The Federal inquiry in the disappearance of Hisashi Fujimura, wealthy Japanese silk importer, from the liner Belgenland on August 14, has been concluded, United States Attorney George Z. Medalie announced today, with the mystery unsolved. Fujimura boarded the vessel on August 8 with his 7-year-old daughter and Mary Von Reisaner.

In announcing conclusion of the investigation, Medalie said every available witness had been examined.

"The Government's interest in the inquiry," he said, "was to determine what evidence, if any, existed to support a belief that Mr. Fujimura was the victim of a murder or that any other crime had been committed on the high seas. A careful survey of all the evidence available fails to furnish any such proof."

Ambassador to Japan To Open Georgia Home

Tokyo, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—W. Cameron Forbes, United States Ambassador to Japan, will sail for Canada September 19. He plans to open a new mansion and farm at Thomasville, Ga.

He will return to Tokyo in November on the maiden voyage of the liner President Coolidge. The new embassy here will probably be completed at that time.

Elsie Janis Composes Film Play in Airplane

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Elsie Janis, erstwhile of the stage and now pursuing a writing career in the talkies, is en route by airplane to Hollywood, typing a story as she flies, it became known today.

Miss Janis, who has a student's pilot license, said she found a plane an excellent place for working. "You get that detached feeling; nobody ever drops in," was her explanation of the preference for the new form of "sky-writing."

Police Force of Chicago May Feel Big Shake-Up

Chicago, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The next 90 days may see a revolution in the personnel and organization of the police department as a result of quiet investigation by Mayor Anton J. Cermak's advisory committee and several surprise night trips around town by the mayor himself.

Reports that John Alcock was about to resign as acting commissioner of police have persisted despite denials by Cermak. They were followed today by rumors that the committee named by Cermak on taking office last March was almost ready to report.

POWERS' BANK BOX PRESENTS PROBLEM

Steps to Be Taken to Force His Attorney to Reveal Removed Contents.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Steps will be taken to compel J. Edward Law, attorney for Harry F. Powers, accused slayer of five, to reveal under oath what he found in Powers' safety deposit box in a local bank, counsel for the estate of Mrs. Dorothy P. Lemke, of Northboro, Mass., one of Powers' alleged victims, said today.

The box was empty when Frank M. Powell, Lemke attorney, opened it after serving attachment papers on the bank. Powell said he was informed by the bank that Law had withdrawn the contents of the receptacle under power of attorney given him by Powers August 28, the day the bodies of Mrs. Lemke and Mrs. Asta B. Eicher, of Park Ridge, Ill., and the latter's three children were found buried on the grounds of the matrimonial agent's garage.

Law declined comment this evening on contents of the depository.

Lemke counsel, acting for the administrator of the woman's estate, seek to learn what disposition was made of money, bonds, and other property valued at upward of $15,000 which belonged to the New England widow.

Investigators who today took Mrs. Powers and her sister, Miss Eva Belle Strother, to the bank where Powers had his account, later quoted the women as saying the accused man transferred approximately $3,600 to his wife's account on August 27, the day he was arrested.

The details of Powers' past continued as much a mystery as ever, with investigating officials running down every available clew. An officer was sent to nearby Gilmer County to look into a report that Powers might be one Dayton Lowther, who disappeared 35 years ago.

A resident of Burnsville, in Gilmer County, said he thought Powers might be Lowther, but officers were doubtful, inasmuch as Lowther was 18 when he disappeared and Powers now gives his age as 42.

Powers' attorney made known that he had written Lawrence Richey, one of President Hoover's secretaries, protesting alleged "third degree" methods employed in forcing a purported confession from the prisoner. A Federal investigation was suggested by the attorney.

(Associated Press.)

Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries, said yesterday he had received a letter from a Clarksburg, W. Va., attorney complaining of rough treatment given Harry F. Powers, who recently confessed to a series of murders in that city.

Richey said the letter had been forwarded to the Department of Justice and that no action on the matter was contemplated at the White House.

FARMER QUESTIONED IN SLAYING OF WIFE

Mack See, 70, Tells of Finding Body in Yard; Fingerprints Are Sought.

Special to The Washington Post.

Moorefield, W. Va., Sept. 8.—Mack See, 70-year-old farmer, has been questioned by State police and local authorities in connection with the unexplained slaying of his wife at their home at Bass, this county, ten days ago, it was learned today. See's finger prints have been taken, also, and forwarded to Washington for examination.

Finger prints found on a post in the See back yard, near where the body was found by the husband the day of the slaying were previously examined in Washington and a return made to the authorities, but no action resulted. See, officers said, denied all knowledge of the killing. He stuck to his original story that he found the body, lifeless, near a wood pile in the yard when he returned from an all-day trip here.

Authorities said he broke down and wept hysterically several times during the examination. They were also pondering his suggestion that the reason why the slayer might have taken the body of the woman from the home, where it was at first thought she had been killed, was that hogs in the yard might devour or mutilate it.

Officers are divided as to whether the slaying took place in the house or the yard. Some believe the original attack was not murderous intent, but that when the woman was hit she fell against some hard object and produced a skull fracture.

Two additional State policemen have been called here to assist in unraveling the murder mystery. No arrests have been made. See said the only known enemy he could think of was a relative, but authorities eliminated her as a possible factor after questioning her.

Several towels are missing from the See kitchen, police said, and they are being hunted also as possible clews.

The slain men were Cecil Pruitt, alias Clarence Pruitt, alias Lyle Berry, whom officers identified as a former prisoner in the Kansas State Penitentiary, and Stanley M. Moore, 21, of Chicago and Charlevoix, Mich., a hitchhiker. Police say Markham told them he and a companion shot Berry "for a very good reason," but only smiled when asked to elaborate.

Man Hurt Stopping Hit-and-Run Auto

Jumps on Running Board to Halt Escapade, but 2 Youths Get Away.

At the risk of serious injury to himself, Leroy Beach, of 813 Sixth street northwest, jumped on the running board of a speeding automobile yesterday afternoon in an attempt to curb the wild escapade of two young boys, who a few minutes before had struck a machine and were trying to make a getaway.

Beach, who was walking along H street near Eighth northwest, saw two youngsters strike the car driven by Frank Moose, of 1830 Rhode Island avenue northeast. He said the boys then tried to escape. He jumped on the running board and succeeded in stopping the car after he severely lacerated his hand on the windshield. The boys, who Beach said could not have been more than ten years old, leaped from the car and disappeared down H street.

Taxicab Driver Loses $3.05; Rider Vanishes

Harris B. Gray, a taxicab driver, was cheated out of $3.05 and his fare yesterday by a colored man who was going around "paying bills," he reported. There the man got out and asked Gray if he might borrow a few dollars in change so that he would have the exact amount of his bill. Gray counted out $3.95.

The passenger returned from the poolroom, got back in the cab and asked to be driven to a house in North Capitol street. The man then stepped out of the cab and said he would return in a few moments, but failed to reappear.

PLANE SPEED MARKS WITHSTAND ATTACKS

Wedell and Miss Tait Fail in Attempts on World and American Records.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—World and American speed records for land airplanes for men and women withstood the assaults of J. R. Wedell, of Patterson, La., and Miss Maude Irving Tait, of Springfield, Mass., at Cleveland Airport today.

Miss Tait failed by only 1½ miles an hour to equal the women's world and American record of 210.64, held by Miss Ruth Nichols, New York society girl, but Wedell fell far short of both world and American marks.

Wedell, flying the Wedell-Williams special speed plane in which he won second place yesterday in the Thompson Trophy 100-mile race, climax of the national air races, averaged 243.290 miles an hour late today in four dashes over the official 3 kilometer (1⅞-mile) course. He made two dashes before a 5-mile wind and two against.

The world land plane record was set in 1926 by the late Adjutant Bonnet, of France, at 278.8 miles an hour. The American record was set the same year by Alford Williams, then a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy, at 266 miles an hour.

Miss Tait, piloting a tiny Gee Bee monoplane built in her home town, averaged 209.12 miles an hour in two dashes, one with and one against the wind.

Lowell Bayles, of Springfield, Mass., who yesterday piloted the "Big Brother" of Miss Tait's ship to victory in the Thompson Trophy race over a 10-mile triangular course at an average speed of 236 miles an hour, abandoned his proposed attempt to shatter the speed records late today. Receiving word that his two mechanics, Nelson Lungren and Harry Jones, both of Springfield, had been injured in a motorcycle crash at Ashtabula, Ohio, he left for the East, announcing he would get a transport plane, return to Ashtabula and take the two to Springfield for treatment. Their condition was said not to be serious.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Lowell R. Bayles, sensational speed pilot, winner of the Thompson Trophy race, arrived tonight from Cleveland. The trip from Cleveland was made in two hours and 20 minutes.

ACCUSED POLICEMAN TO ASK FORMAL CHARGES IN FRAME-UP

sion, which he now repudiates, was wrested from him by allegedly brutal methods.

Commissioner Crosby declined comment when asked whether the Department of Justice had been requested to broaden its present investigation. Corporation Counsel didn't care "to discuss that," either.

The grand jury is considering the challenge flung by Inspector Stoll to indict him if that body believed him guilty of perjury or any other crime in his investigation of the Staples case which resulted in Staples' dismissal from the department in 1928.

Appealed to Hoover, Report.

When the Bureau of Investigation was first interviewed regarding an inquiry into third degree methods, it declined, and undertook the task only after an appeal had been taken to President Hoover by Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer and Corporation Counsel William W. Bride, it is reliably reported.

Mr. Jacobson will make his request for a trial of his client, either today or tomorrow. He will ask that the Commissioners request the grand jury to prefer definite charges against Hunt, so that the case may proceed to a trial board.

Successive moves by attorneys for Inspector Louis J. Stoll and Patrolman Hunt, one designed to bring the case into courts and the other to have it reviewed by a trial board; coupled with the request of Staples that the question of his reinstatement be temporarily dropped, have influenced the Commissioners to bide their time until the legal aspects of the case are settled.

Staples Backs Clean-Up.

In a letter to the Commissioners, Staples said he knew that the question of the disposition of his case is interfering with the concentration of thought in the "cleaning up of the Washington Police Department" and suggests that all plans which involve consideration of his case be dropped. The Commissioners took no action on the suggestion.

Meanwhile Mr. Jacobson, attorney for Mr. Hunt, issued a statement demanding an immediate trial for Mr. Hunt before a duly constituted trial board, and withdrawing his original intention to seek an expunction of the report from the records.

No Action on Stoll.

No action was taken by the Commissioners on the proposal of Henry I. Quinn, attorney for Inspector Stoll, which suggested that the Commissioners request the grand jury to indict any witnesses who perjured themselves before that body and, in event that there were none, to ask the jurors to lay the evidence before th Commissioners upon which they based their report. No official communication from Mr. Quinn has been received by the Commissioners, it was explained.

Mr. Jacobson explained that his client sought trial before a duly constituted board because he did not want to hide behind a technicality such as expunging the record.

In his letter, Mr. Staples pointed out that he felt that the action of the grand jury revealed that he was the "victim of a frame-up" and that his vindication of any wrongdoing is enough at the present time. Further, he says, any attempt to retry him before a civilian trial board would cause him great expense, as well as "suffering and heartache to my wife and family."

Hunt's statement expressed the belief that the expunction of the report from the records would not be sufficient vindication of his 10 years of faithful service on the Police Department.

"Hunt feels, however," the statement read, "that in view of the fact that these charges have been made public, he would not for one moment hide behind a technicality such as expunging the report from the records * * * and welcomes a thorough investigation of these charges before a duly constituted trial board.

Confident of Vindication.

"After such a hearing before a fair and impartial body, he is confident that he will be completely vindicated before the board and in the eyes of the public of the baseless, malicious and unwarranted charges of the grand jury * * * After such trial is completed, then an effort will be made to expunge the record."

Staples declared that his name "has been dragged in the mud" by reason of the "frame-up" which the grand jury in its recent report said was made with "knowledge of or through the incompetence of certain police officials." "Since the police officials permitted a frame-up in my case before, and if those police officials are still members of the Police Department, I am of the opinion that they, not I, should be the object of your investigation."

Would Waive Immunity.

What may likely pave the way for the hearing of the case before a petit jury instead of a civilian board is Inspector Stoll's challenge to the grand jury to indict him for perjury if they believe that he in his investigation of the Staples case, was guilty of perjury or any other crime. Inspector Stoll is willing to waive his immunity under the statute of limitations if the grand jury chooses to indict him.

Several third degree cases are expected to be ready this week for presentation to the grand jury. Agents of the Department of Justice have been working overtime in an effort to have the cases ready for presentation.

The five policemen indicted last week in connection with the third degree investigation will be arraigned Friday before Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat. Patrolman William C. Groomes yesterday posted $1,000 bond in the clerk's office at the courthouse. He is one of the five indicted. The others are: Detective James A. Mostyn and Patrolmen William R. Laflin, William T. Burrougs and George E. Perry.

Arnold Denies Complaints.

E. S. Arnold, head of the receiving home, yesterday said he had received no complaints regarding the alleged ill-treatment of children by police. Director J. HEAD-ON COLLISION ENDS AUTO PURSUIT

Fleeing Motorist Accused of Six Hit-and-Run Crashes and of Being Drunk.

A wild chase, which started at New Jersey avenue and K street northwest and culminated with a head-on crash at Nichols avenue and U street southeast, left an outraged citizenry behind as two automobiles tore through one-way streets the wrong way, through red lights, and over sidewalks, endangering the lives of pedestrians as well as motorists, last night.

Oh . . .

IT'S SO NICE TO GET UP IN THE MORNING

but

IT'S NICER TO LIE IN BED

A cold morning, a cold house, and you have to force yourself out of warm covers to go shivering downstairs to fix the fire. What wouldn't it be worth then to have automatic gas heat, enjoy an extra half hour's sleep, and then get up with a warm house in which to dress?

Shiver-y mornings are just one of the costs you have to pay for putting up with old-fashioned heating. Some of the others are uneven and therefore unhealthful heat, hours spent each week in playing nursemaid to a temperamental heating plant, extra housework caused by basement-generated soot or grime, and downright discomfort because the house is either too hot or too cold. In addition, you have actual money costs—repairs and replacements, severe depreciation, and perhaps the wages of a furnace man.

You pay all this, when a few pennies a day extra would save it all, and give you the comfort and leisure and cleanliness of automatic gas heat.

With a gas rate as low as it is here, and with the heating efficiency of the gas so high, automatic gas heat is not a luxury but an everyday necessity. Call your heating contractor or gas company, get their accurate and conservative estimate of the cost of gas in your home. Then order now, and be ready to enjoy that extra half hour's sleep every morning next winter.

The low rate for house-heating puts Automatic Gas Heat within the reach of almost anyone. In the District the rate works out at around 75 cents a thousand cubic feet. Let us give you a reliable estimate of yearly costs for your particular house.

ARMED BANKRUPTS.

Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy proposed to the League of Nations assembly yesterday that the nations agree to an immediate truce in the building of armaments, to continue through the period of the disarmament conference to be held next February.

The veracious correspondent at Geneva reports that Minister Grandi's proposal "evoked no demonstration of enthusiasm among the delegates."

Why should it? A cessation of armament building in Europe would be an anomaly, not to be thought of so long as there is hope of borrowing money from the United States to finance European peace, after Europe's failure to repay the money advanced for financing the war.

"It is hard to see the utility of adjusting war payments," said Minister Grandi, "so long as the present armaments continue. Let us reduce our war-making weapons and we shall see that economic barriers will lower themselves. It is evident that any new examination of the problem of war debts and reparations depends in great part on the developments of the months just ahead, in the course of which the effects of the application of the Hoover plan will have to be studied."

The chasm that divides the thought of Europe and America remains unbridged. Minister Grandi hints that reduction of armaments in Europe may be followed by cancellation of war debts by the United States. No one in the United States has ever suggested that this country is so anxious for European arms reduction that it will pay a subsidy of $10,000,000,000 to the nations reducing their arms.

President Hoover has very pointedly called attention to the increase of armies and armaments in Europe. It is well known that there need be no discussion of financial aid from the United States so long as European powers spend excessive sums for armaments. But even if armaments should be scaled down, it does not follow that the war debts will be canceled as a reward. Mr. Hoover left nothing to the imagination when he said, "I do not approve in any remote sense of the cancellation of the debts to us."

Minister Grandi's proposal for an armaments truce falls flat. The delegates at Geneva see no virtue in reduction of armaments, although most of their governments are on the verge of bankruptcy. Their attitude may be summed up in this fashion: "We have no faith in the United States. It is still demanding payment of the war debts. Let it show its good faith by lending us the money first, and then we will consider the question of reducing armaments. If the United States wants us to be peaceable, let it pay us to keep the peace."

ROME DISPUTE ENDED.

In the light of the agreement that has been concluded between Premier Mussolini and the Vatican it is difficult to understand how the controversy ever developed to the point of threatening a diplomatic rupture. The row broke out last May when the Catholic Action clubs were accused of engaging in political activities. Premier Mussolini ordered the clubs closed, the Holy See issued a papal encyclical, recriminations were hurled back and forth, and a state of high tension prevailed.

Now the controversy has been settled on a basis that is mutually agreeable and which requires virtually no concession on either side. The Catholic Action is forbidden to take any part in politics. That is entirely agreeable to the Vatican, since it has always maintained that these clubs have never engaged in political activities and did not intend to do so. The right of these clubs to function as religious and spiritual organizations is recognized by the government. Until they were closed by an arbitrary order from Mussolini they had always exercised that right and it was not a point at issue. The actual differences between the viewpoint of the government and the Vatican on this issue were too slight to justify such a bitter diplomatic quarrel.

Underneath the controversy over Catholic Action lay a deeper source of misunderstanding—the education of Italian youth. Evidently the duce thought that the church was assuming too much responsibility for the education of Fascist youth. Mussolini reserves the right to train every Italian youth in unquestioned loyalty to fascism. Reports indicate that an agreement has been reached on this broader subject, under which the civic, physical and athletic education of youth will be undertaken by the government in church as well as state schools, and spiritual education will be left to the church in all institutions. This seems to be a satisfactory and practical settlement of a really difficult problem. It must be admitted that doctrines of the church and principles of fascism are not wholly compatible, but if each is left to its own sphere the dangers of a clash may be avoided.

The fact that the Vatican and Mussolini have been able to agree upon such a deep-rooted issue augurs well for the avoidance of superficial flare-ups in the future.

SELF-RELIANT CITIES.

In sharp contrast with the helpless lament of Gov. Pinchot that Pennsylvania must have aid from the Government to care for her needy citizens this winter is the announcement from Mayor Mackey that Philadelphia is seeking no Federal help. "I will say positively," he wires the New York Times, "that no matter what the situation may be next winter, Philadelphia will take care of her own. She will not put herself in a position to ask any other governmental assistance."

"What that situation will be no one knows," says Mr. Mackey, "but all present indications lead us to believe that business in Philadelphia is rapidly returning to normal. Our observations in the city confirm reports that come from Washington in this respect." Last winter the Lloyd committee expended about $5,000,000 in Philadelphia and other private agencies a like amount. The city at present has available $3,000,000 and, as the mayor says: "When that is exhausted every one in Philadelphia will be anxious to contribute his mite toward feeding our own people. We ask no outside help and those who suggest that are more political than charitable."

From Pittsburgh, too, comes a report from Mayor Kline that the Allegheny County emergency association is perfecting plans to relieve distress and provide work. It has not disclosed its plans as yet, but the mayor says: "I am of the firm belief that a program will be worked out satisfactory to our people." It is evident that the heads of Pennsylvania's two largest cities are not willing to join Gov. Pinchot in putting the people of the State in the category of mendicants.

Mayor Metcalf, of Omaha, Nebr., reports that "relief work will be carried on by local organizations. Omaha will meet its responsibilities in characteristic Omaha fashion without Government aid."

From Hartford, Conn., Mayor Batterson outlines his plan as follows:

> Hartford prefers to handle its own relief problems. Plans for public work for dependent unemployed have been completed. We expect to operate a successful work, not a dole, system this winter. The plan, briefly, governing this is as follows: The total financial relief accorded dependent families is divided into a working-hour basis by using a 40 cents per hour divisor. Having so determined the number of working hours necessary to offset the dole, we expect to provide that amount of work for the dependent. The plan develops self-respect and alleviates humiliation. We do not want any more Federal interference. When the city's resources are exhausted our next step for relief should be through the State of Connecticut.

Such a declaration is in sharp contrast to the plea from Detroit that unless the city tax system is revised to secure revenue from upper wealth brackets, "Federal aid alone can meet the situation." Mayor Murphy complains that Detroit can not tax the many manufacturing establishments in the county, but outside city limits, and yet has to care for many of the unemployed from these factories. Why are not county and State resources and credit facilities in Michigan drawn upon as in other States that are taking care of their own problems?

MAKING CLOCKS LIE.

Within a few days all the clocks in the United States will again record "standard time." The period of daylight saving is ended for another year. If Dr. Marvin, chief of the U. S. Weather Bureau, has his way there will be no repetition of time tinkering which has prevailed in some States and municipalities ever since the war. Dr. Marvin says: "Daylight saving is a nuisance and ought to be abolished. There is no excuse for trying to fool ourselves by tinkering with the clock. It only causes confusion and is a handicap to the Weather Bureau because it interferes with taking accurate meterological observations in different parts of the country. These observations must be closely timed; and the variations of time, because of daylight saving schedules, makes this extremely difficult."

Dr. Marvin's views as to undesirability of varying standards of time are shared by most travelers, who, even within the confines of one State, are bothered, delayed and greatly put out by the variations in time records. The State of New York, for instance, failed to adopt daylight saving for the whole Commonwealth, but many of the cities decreed that during the summer months the public and private timepieces should be set back one hour—taught to lie, as it were. But as the clocks were not uniform throughout the State much confusion resulted. Railroads as a rule continued to operate their trains on "standard time," but their time tables in many instances gave the time of departure and arrival of trains, when local only, according to the daylight saving plan. On the other hand, those trains which crossed State lines always run on standard time.

The Federal Government, as a war measure, adopted the plan of adding an hour of daylight to the workers' day. It was thought that the scheme would enable workers to till their gardens and thus help out the food supply by allowing them to leave their work an hour earlier. But it did not require many hours thus saved to discover that the plan was not popular, especially among the farmers, who save daylight without the aid of legislative enactments.

Daylight saving as a national institution was abolished ten years ago. Washington has been running on standard time ever since and is doing nicely without returning to time tinkering.

CHILE'S REVOLT.

Chile's naval revolt is over. The government has reestablished order in its military forces and apparently has the support of the people. Nevertheless, it was a sad picture that Chile presented, with army airplanes bombing and directing their machine gun fire against the sailors and ships of the navy. Mutiny must be quelled at any cost, but such an example of insubordination would never have occurred except for the precedents recently established in Santiago. When student strikes and street mobs are permitted to overthrow the federal government with virtually no attempt at resistance, and sessions of the national congress are dominated by demonstrations from the galleries, the sailors are not to be blamed for believing that their grievances can be remedied in like manner.

Chile suffered, as have many Latin-American republics, from the harsh rule of a dictator and felt there was no way to get rid of oppression, except through revolt. This happens so repeatedly in some countries that they can not complain if the world wonders that they do not profit by experience and questions whether they are temperamentally fitted for democracy. The overthrow of dictators by patriots, who become equally tyrannical rulers as soon as they achieve power, is witnessed in too many cases to be considered exceptional.

What is the cause of this? Education in the duties and responsibilities inherent in the republican form of government is deficient. Respect for civil authority is lacking. Too many Latin-American countries fail to realize the necessity of submitting to the will of the majority. The tendency following an election too often is, not to organize for victory at the polls next time, but to seek immediate, personal and violent revenge for political defeat.

Chile was sorely tried, but the successors of the dictator find some problems of the depression as difficult as did the deposed president. Peru has witnessed a procession of governments since Leguia was overthrown, but at last approaches a national election. In Argentina, Uriburu has been as ruthless in authority as his predecessor, canceling elections and suppressing opposition. A new revolt has several times seemed imminent, but now, with elections only two months away, it is hoped that Argentina may set a worthy example of adherence to orderly rule of the people by the ballot.

NAVAL ECONOMY

From the Chicago Tribune.

Rumor from Washington, ominously persisting, gives warning that the President's economy planning includes reductions for the Army and Navy. Why a weakening of the national defenses should be considered while the theory of an increase of public works as a relief for depression is in the foreground of the administrative policy we can not understand. Any examination of the present conditions of national defense shows solid reasons why reduction of expenditure in this field is less justifiable than in any other. If in the name of economy we are to reduce expenditure it should be accomplished in other ways than by the reduction of expenditures on the Army and Navy, which already are below the minimum which prudent policy would demand. But if because of the depression we are to increase expenditure upon public works, there is no public work for which expenditure is more expedient than upon our national defense establishment.

The naval situation especially challenges the inconsistency and impolicy of retrenchment. The present Government has explicitly declared the policy of parity with Great Britain, and after the London Treaty took credit for having procured its formal acceptance in principle. But this is a fallacious and mischievous assumption if it is not supported by a program and course of action which will realize parity. Yet the facts, as analyzed by Navy League specialists, are that at the close of 1930 our fleet was 13 per cent below treaty strength, and it is estimated will be 20 per cent below by the end of 1931 in spite of current building and because of the obsolescence of ships under treaty definition. By the time the treaty expires, the end of 1936, the fleet will be nearly 50 per cent, the league estimates, below the effective tonnage fixed by treaty stipulations—unless a compensating replacement and upbuilding program is promptly started and consistently carried out.

To resort to further reductions in the face of these conditions could be accounted for only on the assumption that the administration's devotion to parity with Great Britain is a sham. If the President and Congress are not bent upon adopting a policy not of naval parity but of permanent naval inferiority they will proceed without further postponement to realize our much advertised treaty, and not only check our rapid loss of relative naval strength but build it up in accordance with the policy which they both have theoretically approved and which, apart from pacifists and apologetic Americans, the Nation demands shall be realized.

When Secretary of State, Chief Justice Hughes said: "It is essential that we should maintain the relative naval strength of the United States. That, in my judgment, is the way of peace and security. It will be upon that basis that we would enter in future conferences or make agreements for limitation, and it would be folly to undermine our position." That wise opinion undoubtedly had the support of the American people, with the exception of the individuals referred to. But it has not been respected. We have fallen steadily behind in relative strength, and unless we change we shall find ourselves in a condition of hopeless disadvantage in all future conferences. We were at a disadvantage at London in 1930. We shall be at a disadvantage at Geneva in 1932. We have not maintained the relative naval strength of the United States as a basis on which to enter future conferences or make agreements for limitation, although our Government is constantly using its influence to bring about new conferences and new agreements for limitation. We have committed what Secretary Hughes rightly called the folly of undermining our position while our Government is persistently using its influence to create new situations in which our position will be challenged and, if experience teaches anything, will be still further weakened. We have ignored Secretary Hughes' wise counsel and clear warning, and, if persistent report be true, our Government is now planning on the eve of another conference not to maintain our relative strength but still further to reduce it, not to strengthen our position but still further to undermine it.

Anyhow, We Got Our Share!

POST HASTE.

The Chilean fliers, under orders to miss the rebellious vessels with their bombs, scored numerous direct hits. There may be a lesson in this.

Senator Borah makes contributing by the rich to relief a real pleasure by the threat to take it away from them as taxes if they don't.

Secretary Doak says prosperity will return before long. That's a short time. Now the exact date can be fixed by definitions. How short is long? And how long is short?

The Police Ball Team lost to the Firemen, but some of their best sluggers were out of the game.

There has been a lot of speculation as to how the British might feel about including the surrender of Cornwallis in the Yorktown celebration, but how much of DeGrasse's fleet and Lafayette's army are to be included so the French won't feel slighted?

The British king will cut the royal household expenses by $2,300,000, or 10 per cent. Twenty per cent would have been a better match for George the Fifth.

A German government agent is coming to buy 500,000 tons of wheat from the Farm Board. And probably bringing his ships with him!

There are 7,053 islands in the Philippine group, but some of them are only divided two ways on the question of independence, so after Secretary Hurley completes his visit to all of them he ought to be able to sort out the consensus of opinion by March 4, 1933.

The votes of Cuba and Salvador just managed to nullify those of the United States and Great Britain in the last world court decision, so Mexico is going to be taken into the League of Nations.

While Gov. Murray sprayed a Chicago audience with alfalfaisms on Labor Day his Oklahoma constituents took advantage of his absence to bet thousands of dollars on a turtle race. Did he take the militia with him?

If China's devastating floods make her forget she is in the midst of three or four revolutions they will not be an unmixed calamity.

We fight overconsumption of prohibited liquor. Portugal is worrying about the underconsumption of her unprohibited wine. What's the use?

Can't winter relief be provided for a lot of bridge sufferers by invoking the primary law to prohibit contract conventions?

Bill Borah, Bill Murray and Jim Reed, among other Labor Day calamity howlers, unloaded their usual broadsides of pessimism. It didn't scare any one but the New York Stock Exchange, whose nerves are all gone.

A BABY.

A baby is a comedy, a tragedy and art,
It's everything there is in life to grip the human heart
And only those who've had them know the multitude of things
To make life interesting which a little baby brings.
A baby comes here laden with demands of many kinds
A baby adds to labor, but no mother ever minds
And something curious happens. Folks with babies world-wide o'er
Find more to hold their interest than they've ever known before.
There's something new each morning to discover with delight,
There's something new to laugh at when you get back home at night,
There's something new to fret you. Life with purpose fairly hums
And there's no such thing as boredom when a little baby comes.

The Proudest of Men Would Groom a Horse That Carried Him All Day

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THIS is addressed to boys and girls yet in their teens who resent the slow coming of maturity and independence.

You regard sportsmanship as the chief of virtues. You resent treatment that seems unfair. You despise those who aren't "square."

Are you quite sure that you give as much as you demand—that you observe the nice standards of sportsmanship, for example, in dealing with your parents?

When you visit the home of a friend, you see your hosts at their best. In your presence, and because of your presence, they are reluctant to correct their children or deny any reasonable request. Certainly they do not correct you or limit your freedom, for you are a guest.

Does their conduct fool you? Are you so unfair as to compare their treatment of you with the treatment you receive from your own parents? Are you so unfair as to judge them by the way they deal with their children in the presence of a guest, while judging your own parents by the way they deal with you in the privacy of home?

And do you go back to your home and say to your parents: "Gee, Bill's mother and dad are great old sports. They don't nag at him or treat him like a kid." Or, "I'm foolish about Dot's mother. She has such a sweet voice, and she lets Dot go everywhere, and she's a perfectly darling sport."

Your parents can't argue their own merit, but they know the comparison is unfair to them. They have done and are doing all they can for you. Is it sporting to repay them by telling how much more highly you regard other parents?

Consider another item. You resent every effort to instruct, guide or restrain you. You say you have a right to live your own life.

That is only partly true. Nobody can be wholly free, for everybody is under some obligation to others. Is it sporting to take and not give? Even kings must work early and late to serve those who support them. How can you live your own life if you don't earn your own bread? Doesn't common fairness demand loyalty to those who care for you? Is it good sportsmanship to declare yourself free and independent except when you need something?

You can't be a good sport if you don't play fair, and you can't play fair unless you give as much as you take.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

A Filipino Protectorate.

Portland Oregonian.

Secretary of War Hurley goes to the Philippines to learn native opinion about independence under political conditions very different from those that existed under former administrations. Idealist advocates of independence have been reinforced by those who favor independence in the interest of trade and by others who wish to restrict immigration of Filipinos to the United States. All officials, led by Secretary of State Stimson, who have had a part in government of the Philippines say the Filipinos are unprepared for independence and that withdrawal of American control would be disastrous to them and would injure American commerce and American influence in the Orient.

Ties of commerce and of mutual interest between the United States and the Philippines are already so strong that they can not be severed without loss to both parties. If a joint commission of Americans and Filipinos should be appointed to work out a plan, it would likely decide on a protectorate rather than independence. Under the plan the Filipinos could enjoy domestic autonomy with American control of defense, foreign relations and finance. Then they would have the substance of independence without its heaviest burdens. Transition to full independence would thereafter be fixed by events.

False Economy.

New York Herald Tribune.

Representative Will R. Wood, of Indiana, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, has come out of a conference with the President convinced that the Federal Government must cut down its expenditures. He would begin with the Army and the Navy, as becomes a certain type of Middle Westerner traditionally inclined to regard the nation's military establishment with jealousy and suspicion.

Congress tossed away more for the bonus in the last session than the combined total of Army-Navy budgets. The Federal Government has authorized the expenditure of vast sums for public works with the sole purpose of reducing unemployment. Why, then, with the other hand should it feed the flood it is trying to stem? Soldiers and sailors are surely less costly to maintain than an army of laborers at union wages. In any event, its first duty to the country and to itself under the circumstances is to avoid economies which deprive large bodies of men of their jobs.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

President Hoover's Efforts to Mitigate the Depression, Says Writer, Will Place His Name Among America's Greatest.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: No greater tribute could be paid to the high qualities of statesmanship of President Hoover than the diatribes of small-sized politicians which appear so frequently in the public press. It is simply an instance of political whelps barking at the heels of a great American. In no other way could these "little fellows" make themselves known and gain the publicity they so much desire. Some of them, through their effrontery, have forced themselves into high public office where they show their incompetency and lack of common sense.

Thanks to an intelligent American public, little heed is given to the utterances of these demagogues. The American people have respect for and faith in President Hoover. They realize the tremendous task imposed upon him in dealing with the present economic and industrial depression, and with feelings of deep gratitude they view his heroic efforts to overcome the obstacles in the way of a return of national prosperity. All honor to our Chief Executive!

But President Hoover is not alone in being subject to vilification and abuse. Every great President from Washington down has been subjected to similar treatment, only to be idolized by future generations. So will it be with our own beloved President. May he continue, undismayed, in giving his best thought and talent to the performance of the duties devolving upon him as the head of this great Nation. His reward will be an overwhelming indorsement at the polls in November, 1932, by the patriotic and liberty-loving citizenship of the country, and the handing down to posterity of a record of efficiency and patriotic service unexcelled in the annals of this great republic.

DECENCY.

Correspondent Fears That Crooks May Benefit if Private Citizens Are Denied Firearms for Their Protection.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Newspapers have devoted considerable space recently to the subject of firearms. The crook, by whatever name designated, will always be able to procure firearms, regardless of what laws are enacted. When the decent citizen is unable to procure them he is at the mercy of the crook.

Every home, office and store is entitled to protect its property. The promiscuous carrying of small firearms should be discouraged, but there is no reason to become radical in the matter and make it impossible for the respectable citizen to procure them for legitimate purposes.

Many crimes have been committed with clubs, pipes, ropes, razors, knives, &c. Why not prohibit the sale of these articles also?

The prohibition law was passed to stop the consumption of alcoholic beverages. Did it do so? Certainly not. Instead it is responsible for a large portion of the crime today. Radical firearm laws will accomplish the same result.

Whenever the good citizen is allowed to protect his or her property and life with the same weapons as the crooks have in their possession, just that soon this reign of terror will cease. Let us have a sensible registry law, but not a prohibitory law governing firearms.

E. EMERY.

Horace Mann and Jefferson Are Quoted on Evils of Intemperance.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: At least two outstanding citizens of the United States who lived in the eighteenth century bore strong testimony against the use of alcoholic beverages. Horace Mann, father of the common school system, said: "Intemperance carries ruin everywhere. It reduces the fertile farm to barrenness. It suspends industry in the shop of the mechanics. It banishes skill from the cunning hand of the artisan and the artist. It sinks the ship of the mariner. It spreads sudden night over the solar splendor of genius. But nowhere is it so ruinous as in the school and the college, as upon the person and character of the student himself. Creator of evil and destroyer of good, it sends its votaries upon the career of life to suffer where they should have rejoiced, to curse where they should have blessed."

Thomas Jefferson said: "The habit of using ardent spirits by men in office has occasioned more injury to the public and more trouble to me than all other sources. And were I to commence my administration again, the first question I would ask respecting a candidate for office would be, 'Does he use ardent spirits?'"

POLITICAL PARTIES HIT BY HARD TIMES

Smaller Donations Reported by Republicans as Rivals Borrow $30,000.

(Associated Press.)

The Republican National Committee is feeling the pinch of hard times, together with its Democratic opposition.

The report of the Republicans for the last three months filed with the Clerk of the House yesterday showed a balance of $14,324 on September 1, as compared with a balance on June 1 of $53,062.

Joseph R. Nutt, the treasurer of the Republican committee, collected $33,719 for the period but expenditures amounted to $72,662.

The principal contributors to the Republican fund were William C. Chamberlain, of Chicago, $5,000; Orlando F. Weber, of New York, $5,000; Julius Frostmann, of Passaic, N. J., $5,000; George M. Moffett, of New York, $2,500; Roy O. West, Chicago, $1,500; and $1,000 each from Percy B. Eckhardt, Chicago; John Hays Hammond, Washington; Emory W. Clark and Charles B. Vandusen, of Detroit; B. H. Kroger, of Cincinnati, and Donald R. McLennan, of Chicago. George S. Jackson, of Baltimore, gave $500.

Meanwhile, the Democrats went $30,000 further in debt to Chairman John J. Raskob, who advanced this much in loans for the same period.

Farm Groups Organize To Seek 'Debt Holiday'

Moscow, Idaho, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Nearly 400 debt-ridden farmers were organizing a "moratorium committee" today to protect themselves against impatient creditors. G. H. Mix, master of the Moscow Grange and lieutenant governor of Idaho, said the grange would organize the "Vigilantes" next Thursday.

Recalling the panic of 1893, when a committee of angry farmers prevailed upon the district judge here to shut down on mortgage foreclosures, Mix declared that hard-pressed farmers were in much of the same position today.

Radio Antitrust Case Continued in Delaware

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—When the September calendar was called in the Federal District Court today, the case of the United States against various radio concerns, headed by Radio Corporation of America, was continued. The case involves alleged violations of the antitrust laws.

It is understood here, the case is not likely to come to trial soon. Due to its importance it may be tried before the three judges of the Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia.

Jugoslav King Honors Inventor in New York

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—King Alexander today conferred the order of the Crown of Jugoslavia, first degree, on Nikola Tesla, New York electrician and inventor.

Mr. Tesla has been a resident of the United States since 1884 and is a naturalized citizen. He is responsible for numerous inventions and discoveries in the field of electricity.

Ireland Gives Flood Victims Aid.

Dublin, Irish Free State, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The Free State government today subscribed $10,000 to a fund for the relief of flood victims in Dublin and Bray.

Submarine Nautilus Back at Spitzbergen

Advent Bay, Spitzbergen, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—The Arctic submarine Nautilus, carrying the Sir Hubert Wilkins expedition, arrived here at 1 p. m., after more than two weeks along the fringe of the polar ice pack.

The Nautilus, which was out of communication with the outside world for almost a week, causing wide alarm here, appeared to be badly damaged as a result of her journey into the ice fields.

Italian Predicts Severe Temblor

"Self-Made Seismologist" Says Euro-Asian Area Is in Danger.

Faenza, Italy, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—A warning that violent earthquakes will shake the Euro-Asian frontier tomorrow was issued from the world-famous carpenter shop of Rafael Bendandi, Italy's "selfmade seismologist," tonight.

Bendandi, who studies the distant tremblings of the earth from a home-made laboratory under the shop where he labors as a cabinet maker, said "secondary repercussions" of the quakes would be felt in America.

The Italian cabinet-maker has become famous for his predictions of earthquakes, many of which occurred as he foretold. At present he believes the earth is passing through a critical stage and severe quakes may be expected to occur regularly, especially in the South American Andes region.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"VIRGO."

IF September 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:10 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 1:45 p. m. to 3:20 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger hours are from 11:20 a. m. to 1:10 p. m., and from 3 p. m. to 7:35 p. m.

Many unexpected changes, both business and domestic, are foretold by the astrological indications of September 9. The business changes will bring in their train success and advancement. The domestic changes are liable to cause disappointment and grief.

A child born on this September 9 will be vivacious, bubbling over with enthusiasm, and there is nothing that it will not try. Failure will never discourage it. It will have self-esteem, assurance and perseverance. It will be witty, humorous and extremely affectionate.

You, if born on September 9, are both pessimistic and cynical. There are times—alas! altogether too many—when you can see no beauty or cheer in anything, and association with you on such occasions is most depressing. You are never disposed to say or to think that "it might have been worse." Your one thought is that "it couldn't be worse." This mental attitude reflects on your physical condition, and many of the illnesses from which you suffer would be cured, or, at least, alleviated, if you took a more hopeful view of things in general.

You are too analytical for your own good. Too great analysis and overmuch meticulosity destroys naturalness and spontaneity, and thereby life is robbed of half its charms. You are, also, too critical. If your criticism were constructive, and not simply destructive, much good could be accomplished by you. Life is very rarely one sweet song. On the other hand, it should not be a continuous dirge.

Your horoscope predicts a considerable degree of success, but not much happiness. You could have both if, figuratively speaking, you would quit wearing smoke-colored glasses. You are studious, your probity is beyond question, and your plodding ability is recognized by all. As a mate, if you ever marry, you will not be much of a "wow." Your character lacks the essential ingredients of congeniality and "simpatia."

Successful people born on September 9:

Eleazer Lord, financier and author.
William Cranch Bond, astrologer.
Maurice Thompson, author.
Elliott Coues, scineitst.
Richard Riker, lawyer and politician.
Joseph Leidy, physician and naturalist.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

PLAN TO OVERCOME LAST SPRING'S MISTAKES.

HOW plainly we can now see the mistakes we made in our gardens last spring or even last fall. There were so many things that we completely overlooked. The time to study our garden is when the plants are actually growing.

Now we can see how the masses of yellow marigolds clash with the scarlet geraniums to such an extent that we are tempted to pull them up. How we wish that we had planted them in front of the larkspur. If we are wise we will not depend on our memory to keep us from repeating this mistake. We will jot down the fact in the column of don'ts in our garden diary or make the change on our paper garden plan, which, by the way, every gardener should keep.

When you analyze effects you may find some perennials which are not getting enough sunshine. Or you may find that a tree has been damaged to such an extent that the sunshine is admitted to some spot where in the past only ferns or shade-loving plants would grow. In our garden notebook we should enter the fact that we could plant almost anything in this spot next year.

At this time errors in color arrangement are visible. When we planted the seed last August or in the early spring, or set out young plants this spring, we were so desirous of filling up space and getting our garden started that we overlooked many things. As a result, as soon as the plants came into bloom we longed to make changes.

Then, early in August we so often find that we have plants in our borders that are too tall or too short to give a proper grouping. For example, our Canterbury bells completely hide our stocks. We know now that our hollyhocks would have made a much better showing had we planted them along the cream-colored wall of the garage than they do in the circular bed. This fall we shall have ample opportunity to make such a necessary change.

This season if your double white poet's narcissus came what the growers call "blind" (meaning that they set no buds) you may be reasonably sure that they are planted in too dry a place. In order to have flowers next spring you will have to change their location this fall unless you have them in the only location available. In such a case, plant them twice as deep as you usually do and in the future give them plenty of water while their foliage is ripening.

(Copyright, 1931.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Charming coat-frocks of brown velvet, cut to show the green satin slip beneath and banded with beige-dyed ermine. (Courtesy of Mirande, Paris.)

TIEN, tien, you'll have to excuse me today if I cut this column a little short because I have to dash out of here—my airplane is waiting!

Knowing that time and space are only illusions, it shouldn't strike you as strange that I'm here in Deauville, and have to fly to England to give a lecture. And I have to change too. Well no, everyone doesn't dress for flying, but then, look who I am—who am I, by the way? Oh, only another Fashum Cricket hopping around, trying to get along—and for all I care Queen Marie can wear her priceless polls when her private train full of baggage cars pulls into the Gare St. Lazare, but I'm only a poor working goil and have to dress to my part.

So I have to wear an airplane costume when I fly for any longer than an hour. And I like 'em too, and I'll tell you why. First of all it's always cold in an airplane, and secondly, limbs to the contrary, I for one would just as soon know what the people on the ground floor will not get an eyeful of.

Anyone who has ever taken an airplane trip knows how tricky it is getting in and out of the plane—knows too that flying fields are usually located in the wide open spaces with plenty of breeze, both natural breeze and the none too gentle breezes manufactured by the propellers.

These are all reasons why I like to dress for flying, quite apart from the really main reason, which is that special airplane costumes have been designed by several of the leading Parisian couturiers, which are delightfully flattering and chic. And an airplane costume has, quite rightly, a trouser-skirt which is sometimes disguised as a skirt and sometimes doesn't even attempt to be; then it has a cardigan or pull-on for warmth; an extra jacket; and, last of all, the very necessary top coat which you can wear over all or only some of the other pieces that make an airplane costume.

• • • •

With coats getting more and more original and beautiful as the days grow colder, even frocks are stealing their good points and coat-frocks now are both smart and delightful. I have illustrated a coat-frock from Mirande today—a very charming one of brown velvet which is open in front to show glimpses of the vivid green satin slip beneath. The waist and hip incrustations mold this frock closely to the body, and the shoulder and upper sleeve incrustation gives the jaunty shoulder width that characterizes our smartest autumn clothes. And as a final note of perfection, the sleeves are banded with beige-dyed ermine and there's a very unusual collar of this same lovely fur.

• • • •

Coat frocks are so becoming to lovely ladies! Be sure to keep your eye out for a smart one when you're buying your autumn wardrobe.

• • • •

Lovely warm ivory and brown shades depict the spirit of autumn days perfectly—even in accessories! The bracelet sketched today is of gold quartz and old ivory, and the T strap sandal which makes an ensemble of deep beige with mahogany triangles inset.

• • • •

There's lots more to this fascinating fur game than just taking your millyun-dollar note in hand, walking up to the first pelt you meet, and buying him! You can make sad mistakes if you don't know what's the best fur for your own particular type, for your figure, for the occasion when you're going to use it most! And this gentle art of getting the best effect from your furs may be used if you simply send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's leaflet. It isn't only for fur buyers, either—it tells just what to do with your old furs to make them most becoming to you.

Women find much interest in Dare's weekly letter in The Sunday Post.

Company to Carry on Experiments of Burbank

Philadelphia (U.P.).—The seed and bulb experiments of the late Luther Burbank will be continued by W. Atlee Burpee Co., seed dealers, an official of the company recently announced.

Through an agreement with the "plant wizard's" widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Burbank, the company has leased the Burbank property at Santa Rosa, Calif., and has received the famous "treasure chest" in which Burbank placed packets of what he considered his most valuable seeds for preservation.

"Christian" Still Progresses.

London (A.P.).—In response to an urgent request from New Guinea, the Religious Tract Society has published "Pilgrim's Progress" in Tubetube, one of the Papuan tongues. This is the 123d language in which the society has printed Bunyan's classic.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

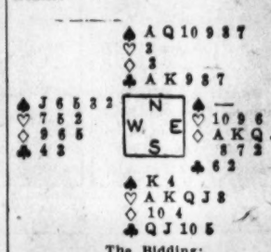
PENALTIES OR PREMIUMS.

"To play for penalties or to play for premiums," as Hamlet might have said but did not, is one of the "ruba" of Contract Bridge. It can be laid down as a safe general principle that it is generally better to accept the penalty equivalent of what you expect to make at your own bid, rather than attempt to squeeze an extra trick out of the hand.

The reason for this is plain. Played at your own declaration, the opponents' insignificant trumps may make pygmies of your giant Aces and Kings, and while the reward for making a certain game has been definitely determined, penalties may be even richer than you anticipate. It is, of course, foolish to accept a paltry penalty of 200 points, rather than a sure game. Such hunger for penalties is losing Bridge and there is no easier opponent to face at the Contract table than the player who doubles too early and too often. On the other hand, it is equally unwise to stretch the trick-taking possibilities of your hand too far and refuse to accept a sure and substantial penalty rather than an uncertain game.

The hand below, played in a rubber game, gave to the North and South players, both of whom were experts, a nice problem in choosing the preferable course—a sure Penalty Double or a try for a doubtful Slam. Inexpert players should have chosen the safe Double, as that reward was sure, and even experts could not have been criticized had they followed that course.

North and South vulnerable. East and West not vulnerable. South Dealer.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♡	Pass	2♠ (1)	3◇ (2)
3♡	Pass	4♠ (3)	Pass
5♣	Pass	6♠	6◇ (4)
Dbl. (5)	Pass	6♠ (6)	Pass
Pass	Dbl. (7)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—North's Forcing Takeout is obvious. His hand contains 3½ honor-tricks and two long suits.

2—East has 7 tricks with diamonds as trump. Even in the face of the strength shown by North and South, his bid is justified as laying the foundation for a possible bidding defense against North and South's almost certain game.

3—North completes the showing of his two-suited hand.

4—East decides that the penalty he suffers will not be as great as the probable loss if opponents make their Slam, which from the bidding he feels certain they can do. He hopes, however, that West has strength in spades and that by bidding six diamonds he had closed the only safe road to a Slam.

5—South has two losing diamonds and only two spades. North has never rebid the spades, so South fears the loss of a spade trick and probably 1 diamond trick. The sure penalty appears more desirable to him that a questionable attempt at a Slam in spades. The bidding has shown that a Grand Slam is not possible, otherwise North would have disclosed that there were no losers in the diamond suit.

6—North's bid of six spades is open to question. However, he feels reasonably sure that South holds the spade King and his extra length in the spade suit would seem to make it reasonably certain that if South holds that card, there is a good chance to make the Slam contract. South's rebid of the heart suit would seem to place a high honor in spades or diamonds in his hand.

7—West's Double is bad, as it marks the location of the spade honor. However, this would have been disclosed on the first play of the suit in any event.

In the play, East opened with the diamond King and followed with the Knave which North trumped. North now led a spade to South's King and when East failed to follow, the unfavorable distribution of the trump suit was disclosed. South's last trump was led and the finesse taken. The Ace of spades was laid down in order to shorten West's trump holding. Then North led the Ace and King of clubs after which he put the Dummy in with a heart and hearts were continued, upon which North discarded his clubs. West was helpless. He followed suit to hearts three times, but his apparently safely guarded Knave of trumps never made a trick. Thus, North and South scored the premium for a vulnerable Small Slam, together with 100 points for their contract and 180 additional points below the line as a result of West's unsound Double. North's bid of the spade Slam was made after a close weighing of the respective probabilities of a worthwhile set of the adverse contract against the likelihood of the spade Slam. It was a close decision with a fortunate outcome.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The Forcing Takeout has aptly been termed the backbone of the Forcing System. A Forcing Takeout is made when one player has opened the bidding and partner responds with a Jump bid in another suit. This Jump bid must be below the game level.

In response to an Opening bid of one, a Forcing Takeout shows the possession of 3 honor-tricks as a minimum and the practical certainty of a game in the hand, provided the best declaration is selected.

As with the Opening bid of two in a suit, a Forcing Takeout commits both partners to keeping the bidding open until a game contract is reached.

Lydia E. Pinkham's VEGETABLE COMPOUND

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

PERNICIOUS ANEMIA AND CLIMATE

THERE is considerable evidence that climate and season have something to do with pernicious anemia, and these facts suggest some additions to present methods of treatment.

Dr. C. A. Mills shows that the prevalence of pernicious anemia in the different States varies greatly. Mississippi has least and Iowa most. Giving Mississippi a rating of 1, he rated Iowa at 10. In order to avoid mistakes he grouped together the eleven Southern States and rated them as 2; the six western plateau States, 4; while twenty-five Northern, Central and Pacific Coast States were rated at approximately 7. Wisconsin, Vermont, New Hampshire, Michigan, Minnesota, and Iowa were rated above 9.

The rating of twenty counties varied from Ceylon with one-third of 1, to northern Ireland and Scotland with nearly 11. The United States had a rate of nearly 6, and Canada of more than 9.

Let us agree that in the far Southern States some pernicious anemia is called malarial anemia, and that the dark skin of the colored races causes the disease to be overlooked at times, but even after allowance for that it must be evident that something down there works to protect against pernicious anemia, just as something in Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, New Hampshire, and Canada tends to provoke the disease.

Drs. H. Laurens and H. S. Mayerson have found that the factors which protect us against this disease are least active in the winter and most active in the spring. Other observers have noted that rickets and pernicious anemia are somewhat linked. Wherever and whenever there is much rickets, there and then one must be on the lookout for pernicious anemia.

Dr. R. E. Levine connects up this group of facts and uses them as a basis for some conclusions that can be applied to treatment as well as prevention. Sunlight and ultraviolet light have something to do with protecting us against pernicious anemia. Too little of them tends somehow to cause it, and plenty of it may be of service in curing it, or at least holding it in check.

We know that the corpuscles carry the coloring matter of the blood. It seems likely that these cells are of some importance outside of their hemoglobin carrying. There are methods of increasing blood cells that do not directly increase hemoglobin, and ways of increasing color without directly increasing cells. In pernicious anemia the principal trouble seems to be with the blood corpuscles; the deficiency in hemoglobin is secondary. Sunlight and ultraviolet are of service especially in promoting the welfare of the corpuscles; the effect on hemoglobin are secondary.

As far as we can conclude from what we now know, a person with pernicious anemia should pursue the following plan: Depend on liver and stomach wall as the standard remedies; maintain the mouth in a high state of cleanliness; follow the best possible health habits; spend the late autumns and the winters in the far south, or take untraviolet light treatments, and use cod liver oil, ergosterol, and radiated foods.

SALTED PEANUTS.

S. S. H. writes: For the last two months I have been eating a handful of salted Spanish peanuts in the middle of the morning, and another handful at bedtime. I find this has improved my elimination to such an extent that I have two or three bowel movements a day. Is there any danger of upsetting my digestion or gall bladder later on if I keep up this regime? I am 69 years old, and healthy.

REPLY.

Peanuts are a very good article of diet though a rather rich one. Your plan is open to three objections. First, you are probably getting more salt than is good for you. Second, you are eating between meals. (That is not wise.) Third, you are taxing your stomach just as you retire. People of 70 or thereabouts should eat very little at night.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

The Father's Place.

PAGING the fathers. A reader named "Disgusted Mother," wants to know just what is a father's place in the home. Is he a star boarder whose personal preference decides how strong the coffee should be and whether or not the hamburger is made with onions? Or does he have certain definite parental responsibilities toward his offspring beyond furnishing them with clothes and shelter? "What about these lords of creation, anyway?" demands the mother whose judgment in choosing a mate must have been a wee bit weak.

In the sixteen years we have been parents, he has never volunteered the least assistance in disciplining or guiding the children. Naturally, he is very popular with them. I am the crab. I am the one who has to say "No" and mean it. I am the one who cramps their style. He is the calm, easy-going good fellow who says, "It's all right with me, but ask your mother." There is always a groan when that phrase is used. And a few complimentary remarks concerning poor mother. I am tired of all this. After all, if they get drowned shouldn't he feel it as much as I? Shouldn't he think of such contingencies the same as I do, and explain as I do, that they can not go off with groups to swim and sail boats and otherwise risk life and limb? Isn't he just a coward of a currier of favor when he takes that liberal princely attitude of "it is all right with me?" Why should it be all right with him? Aren't they his children? Doesn't he know the dangers of young people off by themselves in all sorts of places? Even our daughter has become secretive toward me. She is just 16 and "in love." Does he care? He seems to think it is all my personal business. She goes riding with boys. Does he correct her? He does not. That job is for mother—the family goat. I am sick of this. I want to know what a father is for. To decide how much rent to pay? Or has he a few duties toward his own sons and daughters?

DISGUSTED MOTHER.

So we are paging the fathers. Let those sheepish souls trot right out and answer for themselves. What, if any, excuse have they for the reprehensible conduct that characterizes their view of a father's duty? What makes them quail before the tears of sweet sixteen? What makes them seemingly oblivious of the dangers of the swimming hole? Are they cowards? Or do they secretly exult in the tendency of their offspring to risk all for adventure? Do they see in these youthful ventures the reflection of fires too long quenched in themselves ever to flame again? Speak up, gentlemen, before sentence is pronounced. What have you to say?

And while we await their shame-faced defense, let us assure mother that from the dawn of parenthood it has been always thus. If the dinosaurs did not dine on Willie it was because mother had the sense to keep him inside the cave. Never would it have occurred to his father to speak to the child. So this star boarder's attitude goes back a lot farther than sixteen years. Indeed, it is not likely that man will ever share woman's fears or her anxiety for her young. In fact, if father can be depended upon for the graver emergencies of life, it seems about all that woman can expect of the strange being that is her mate. Which accounts for mother's disgust and son's pride where father is concerned.

Pennsylvania Towns Put Curfew on Radio

Shamokin, Pa. (U.P.).—Councilmanic ordinance set 11 p. m. as the curfew hour for all radio sets within Shamokin borough.

At that hour all sets must be turned down so that they can not be heard outside the house and all windows must be closed when the radio is playing.

Shamokin was not alone in seeking to place restrictions on radios playing late at night.

At Wilkes-Barre police announced that they would respond promptly to any complaints against excessively loud radios and would direct set owners to cut down the volume immediately.

Roads Ease Police Work.

Manila, (A.P.).—Thirty posts are to be abandoned by the Philippine constabulary, improved roads having made it feasible to concentrate the troopers at fewer, but more strategic, points. Some of the old posts were established 25 years ago.

POLICEMEN'S CASE HEARING DELAYED

Riverdale Woman Fails to Appear Before Board in Prince Georges.

The hearing before the Prince Georges County commissioners on charges against four policemen made by Mrs. Katherine Layne, of Riverdale, was postponed until next Tuesday, when Mrs. Layne failed to appear yesterday.

Chief J. J. Crowley asked the postponement when Mrs. Layne failed to appear before the board at the time scheduled for the hearing. He said he wanted the charges thoroughly aired and all witnesses heard so that no fault could be found with the verdict of the board. Mrs. Layne appeared last week, but all witnesses in the case were not present, and the hearing was then set for yesterday.

Mrs. Layne was arrested on liquor charges and asked for a jury trial. She claims the four officers returned to her home after the raid and ate food from her icebox, meanwhile drinking the evidence they had seized.

Samuel Wyvill, clerk of the board of election supervisors, appeared before the board at its regular meeting yesterday and asked for new registration books for about twenty election districts in the county. The cost will be about $1,100. The expenditure was approved when he said the books would be needed before next May.

The commissioners changed parts of lots 30 and 31 in block 6 in Bladensburg from residential to commercial zoning, on the request of Mrs. Mae McFarlane, the owner. Judge T. Van Clagett headed a long list of names of Marlboro citizens who asked for the widening of Main street in Marlboro by 5 feet.

Schools of Montgomery Open Today for 11,000

Approximately 11,000 children will return to school in Montgomery County, Md., today. This is the largest enrollment in the history of the county school system.

The county schools have been repaired and painted where needed in preparation for the children and school buses also have been reconditioned. The school system is looking forward to one of the most successful years of its career, according to Superintendent of Schools Edwin W. Broome. County teachers met Monday at Rockville to plan the curriculum and yesterday passed the day in the classrooms preparing schedules and the rooms.

PRINCE GEORGIANS FAVOR BOND ISSUE

16 Residents Indorse Plan to Raise $800,000 for Park Development.

An $800,000 bond issue, for the development of parks in Prince Georges County, is favored by sixteen residents of five communities who have met to consider road and park construction in the area between Branchville and Glenn Dale.

The bond issue would be made to take advantage of the Cramton act, which provides that the Federal Government will add 50 cents to every dollar raised by the county for park development. In addition, the Federal Government will lend up to $800,000 without interest for the purpose of inaugurating the program. An act of the last Legislature allows the Prince Georges commissioners to take advantage of this offer at any time.

The meeting, which was held at Berwyn Heights, also resulted in an indorsement of a county road from Branchville through Glenn Dale to the Defense highway. Another meeting will be held at the Berwyn Heights firehouse on October 1.

Towns represented at the last meeting were Berwyn, Berwyn Heights, Branchvile, Glenn Dale, and Daniels Park. Those present were W. F. Mulligan, who presided; Charles Stein, W. N. Mercer, J. E. Weaver, S. H. Moyer, Henry Myer, M. C. Johnstone, D. S. Washburn, J. F. Gravely, D. N. Prosser, J. A. Appleton, A. J. Thomas, J. Cipriano, J. F. Anderson, J. A. Bonnell and T. Rucco.

PLAN TO SUE COUNTY ON AWARD DROPPED

Low Bidder Threatened Move as Montgomery Found Offer Form Wrong.

The Macey Co., of Grand Rapids, Mich., has abandoned its threatened action against the Montgomery County commissioners, it was announced yesterday by Lacy Shaw, president of the board. The company, through a Baltimore attorney had threatened to sue to compel the commissioners to award it the contract for the furnishing of the new courthouse at Rockville. The company submitted the lowest bid but failed to comply with the stipulations accompanying advertisement of the bid, county officials said.

Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel to the board, informed the commissioners that the company had abandoned its cause when it asked the return of the certified check for $984 which accompanied the bid and by this action accepted that the award would go to a competitor, which filed a bid complying with the regulations. Capt. Cissel, at the time the Macey Co. protested, informed the commissioners they were within their rights in awarding the contract to the other firm.

The commissioners awarded the contract for construction of storm drains on Second avenue in Woodside to Daniel Marine of Baltimore, Md., whose bid of $2,918 was the lowest submitted and was approved by County Engineer Harry B. Shaw. The construction of drains is a step in the improvement of Second avenue, to provide an outlet to Sixteenth street extended. Actual construction work on the street has been approved by the county commissioners and the plans have been forwarded to the State Roads Commission in Baltimore for approval.

The depository bond of $30,000 for the First National Bank of Sandy Spring was approved by the commissioners. This bond was posted in accordance with the law requiring bonding of banks holding county money on deposit.

The commissioners authorized creation of a committee of three to determine what injuries, if any, will accrue to the property of George H. Lamar on the northwest corner of Washington street and Commerce lane as the result of the widening and improvement of streets adjacent to the new courthouse. The board named George C. Fry, of Rockville, as one member, the second member to be appointed by Mr. Lamar and the third to be appointed by the first two members named. The committee will recommend any adjustments necessary.

St. Charles' Catholic School Opens With 200 Enrollment

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The St. Charles' Catholic School at Clarendon opened yesterday for its tenth year with a total enrollment of 200. Indications are that the enrollment this year will far exceed that of last year, which reached the 200 mark.

The county public schools will open next Monday morning with the exception of the Jefferson Colored School. The delay at this school is due to additions being made to the building.

According to the county school superintendent, Fletcher Kemp, additions are being made to the building to provide high school facilities for colored school children.

C. B. Rosenberger, of Clarendon, a candidate for membership on the county board of five, stated yesterday that he is opposed to advertising billboards in Arlington County, and will, if elected, make every effort to have them outlawed.

Mr. Rosenberger further stated he favors no Sunday blue laws.

55-Pound Drumfish Landed byHerndon Man

A Labor Day fishing trip was brought to an abrupt end when Dave Aud, of Herndon, landed a 55-pound drumfish after a half hour's struggle early in the afternoon.

A party of five men from Herndon sailed for The Haig, Va., several miles below Fredericksburg, for an all-day trip. Their luck was bad and they were disgusted when Dave Aud, the only one using a rod and reel, got a bite. From then on all other fishing in the vicinity of their boat stopped to watch the battle.

Worker in Montgomery Courthouse Dies in Fall

Anderson Neal, colored, 45 years old, of Charlotte, N. C., was killed almost instantly yesterday when he plunged three floors in the new Montgomery County Courthouse Building at Rockville to the bottom of the elevator shaft. The man was helping to erect a scaffold on the third floor when he stepped backward into the open shaft. He suffered a broken neck and other injuries and died in a few moments.

This was the first serious accident in the construction of the building, which is expected to be completed in a few weeks.

COMING RADIO SHOW TO EDUCATE PUBLIC

Refinements Also in Electrical Equipment Seen as Instructive.

In the opinion of H. A. LaFount, Federal radio commissioner, Washington's first annual radio and electric show, which will be held at the Washington Auditorium during the week from september 21 to 26, inclusive, should play a large part in educating the public to the convenience and practical benefits which they derive from radio and electricity, as well as acquainting them with the latest refinements in radio receiving sets and electrical equipment.

Mr. LaFount emphasized the day by day utility of radio communications exercised in behalf of the general public, but with which they have little familiarity. As an example he mentioned the two-way radio equipment installed on planes of the Eastern Air Transport operating between Washington and New York and by means of which pilots may constantly talk with stations along their route and ascertain the weather and other condtiions which may lie before them. As he explained, such radio business is conducted in the field of the low-wave length and therefore does not interfere with the programs of entertainment which the radio listener most desires to receive.

The assigning of appropriate channels for various types of radio communication, he revealed as one of the most perplexing problems of the Federal Radio Commission and one which is now comp'icated by the approaching era of television.

Television broadcasting, as Mr. LaFount explained requires a very broad band of operations and the greatest difficulty in the path of more rapid development in visual radio trans'ission is this feature which would very conceivably play havoc with the existing radio set-up if not properly controlled.

On the other hand, Mr. LaFount pointed out that the ingenuity displayed in the creation of apparatus that will be exhibited at the forthcoming show gives promise that all difficulties will eventually be ironed out to the benefit of all concerned.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IN contemplating New York's distant scene as well as may be through the medium of the public prints, it occurs to this column that the barrage of condemnatory invective laid down around Doctor Earl Carroll and the lewd vulgarities of the ninth production of his "Vanities," with which the new theater bearing his name garnered a record-breaking gross in its first week, may be merely the result of misplaced zeal in attack.

That eminent lexicographer, Professor Percy Hammond, has committed himself to the statement that Mr. Carroll is a blameless entrepreneur whose perception of the difference between right and wrong, cleanliness and filth, decency and depravity, is so nebulous as to be virtually nonexistent. Others profess to hold the same opinion. It seem hardly a tenable view.

Earl Carroll has been around a long time now, beginning as an usher in Pittsburgh and progressing through the vagaries of song-writing to a prominent place among the big-time producers. His long and varied contacts with the theater-going public, especially in New York, surely could not have left him so ignorant of mass amusement taste as some of those whose vitriol now tinctures his daily cup would have us believe.

Is it not just barely possible that Mr. Carroll entertains a pretty cagey view of what the public wants and is willing to pay for? A first week's gross that crept up toward the $75,000 mark would seem to intimate some such remote contingency.

Perhaps, after all, it is the New York public—or maybe it were better said the Broadway public—that has not heard about the difference between purity and putridity; or that there is one.

During a recent interview with Joe E. Brown, now engaged in a week of personal appearances at the Earle Theater, frequent mention was made of a West Coast organization known as "The Masquers." Its membership embraces practically all of the stellar luminaries of the motion picture colony, as well as some of the lesser lights who are only featured.

Why no one ever thought of it before I'll probably never know, but in a burst of inspiration RKO-Pathe executives warily approached the board of directors of the Masquers with a view to having the entire membership take part in a series of short subjects, and were no less than knocked completely groggy to have their proposition accepted.

The first release in the series has already been completed and bears the none too intriguing title of "Stout Hearts and Willing Hands," which sounds suspiciously like a paraphrase of Bob Fitzsimmons' famous melodrama. It will be shown at the RKO-Keith Theater beginning this Friday, September 11, and already has Manager Meakin hopping around like a chicken with its head cut off in his excitement over the prospect—and no wonder.

In addition to 100 stars—you count 'em, I have fallen arches—the old Mack Sennett Keystone Kops come back to life in this comedy. Yes, sir, Mack Swain, Ford Sterling, Jimmy Finlayson, Chester Conklin, Cyde Cook, Bobby Vernon and Hank Mann all are back in the old-time uniforms and cockeyed caps.

Add to all this, direction by Bryan Foy, eldest son of the late Eddie Foy, the man who made the first all-talking picture ever released, and the stamp of the Masquers, and you have something—or should have.

Next Tuesday night, by the way, September 15, Mr. Meakin is tossing a preview party on Fifteenth street, at which time, also, will be unveiled the tablet in commemoration of the regular attendance at the Keith house of the late President Woodrow Wilson during his occupancy of the White House.

And would it interest you to know that Joe E. Brown on both Saturday and Monday cracked the Earle's house record, just set up by "Bought" and Joe Penner, and bids fair to beat it on the entire week . . . That he never answered Bert Lahr in that famous controversy because he feels that anyone who admits that not only his methods but his personality COULD be stolen is—well, you know what . . . That you had better watch the ads closely to determine what the Ambassador is going to play, because some early-weeks it will play day-and-date with the Metropolitan—as it did this week—and others with the Earle, at least for the time being . . . That "Pardon Us," coming into the Palace on Saturday, is the first feature-length picture in which Laurel and Hardy—Stan and Ollie to you—have been starred, although they were in Lawrence Tibbett's "Rogue Song" and a revue or two . . . That E. M. Newman and Burton Holmes both are to be heard in a series of travelogues at the National this winter, Holmes in five, beginning November 1; Newman in an equal number, beginning January 24, both on Sunday afternoons . . . That over at the Rialto, while they haven't a print of the picture showing the happy ending, they are drawing the stage curtains just as Myra kisses Roy good-bye, after promising to marry him, and before that bomb explodes, which amounts to the same thing . . . That Sidney Lust, president of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of Washington, who recently underwent an emergency operation at the hospital of that name, will be discharged in three days, well along the road to recovery . . . That Fred McKay is in town, singing the praises of "Cherries Are Ripe," "Private Lives" and Arch Selwyn . . . That three dots are a great help to a columnist—all right, a guy writing a column, then—in a hurry?

Well, I didn't think it would, so it's all right with me!

Edison Declared Steadily Failing

Some Conditions Causing Collapse Not Improved, Says Physician.

West Orange, N. J., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Dr. Hubert S. Howe, personal physician of Thomas Alva Edison, who collapsed August 1, today said the noted inventor is slowly and definitely failing.

Accompanying the physician's comment was a statement by Charles Edison, a son: "Father is not quite as well as he was a week or two ago." Both declared that there is no reason for immediate concern.

Dr. Howe said that while some features of Mr. Edison's condition have improved, the uremic poisoning, the worst of the four diseases from which he is suffering, has settled in his kidneys. He is also afflicted with diabetes, ulcer of the stomach and Bright's disease.

HUNDREDS ENJOYING BEACH ADVANTAGES

Property Post Offers Proves Solution of Summer Problem for Many.

Did you find a postcard in your mailbox recently advertising the possibilities of happiness at Woodland Beach? Have you taken advantage of the chance to have a summer home as outlined on this card? If not you are overlooking a bargain which, if you don't investigate, you may regret missing for a long time.

Woodland Beach is a summer home development on the South River in Maryland. It is being offered to the residents of Washington and vicinity by The Washington Post as the solution for the long-felt problem of "where to go each summer?"

Prices at Woodland Beach are so reasonable that no family budget will be disturbed through the purchase of property there. Lots are only $93, which is a small enough price in the first place. But better still, the amount does not have to be paid in cash. Put down $9, together with the cost of a subscription to The Post, and you are entitled to select the location of your summer home. Then pay the rest at the rate of $3.50 per month, all the while enjoying the advantages of the Beach.

Where else can you find a spot where there are swimming, boating, fishing and a hundred other summer recreational facilities at this price? Scores of cottages now dot the Beach property and several hundred other Capital residents have bought there and are planning to build in the near future.

Join this group now and grow with the community. You will find that an investment in Woodland Beach property will give you big returns in happiness and contentment.

Motorists, Remember the Children!

EVERY man and woman shrinks from the very thought of harm coming to children. To protect them from danger in any form is a common human impulse.

Although children are being better safeguarded each year, thousands of youthful lives are still needlessly sacrificed annually in street and highway accidents. Last year this sacrifice included fully 5,000 boys and girls—as dear to their parents as your own—and of this number around 700 were occupants of cars.

Since most children live in a realm outside the world of realities, others older need to watch over them. The driver of an automobile, for instance, never knows when he may suddenly come face to face with the stark actuality of a child darting out in front of him, either along country highways or in business and residential sections.

There's a twofold reason for motorists to remember the children: First, that their lives may be spared, and secondly, to set before them a good example of conduct.

BANKING INSTITUTE DINES NEW FACULTY

Dr. Harold Stonier Speaks on Advantages of Education in Modern World.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Declaring that in some sense education is now considered to be the answer to practically every problem which confronts the world, Dr. Harold Stonier, New York, educational director, American Institute of Banking, said last night that Washington chapter of the institute had ever been a leader in recognition of this truth.

Addressing the semiannual education committee and faculty dinner of the local chapter at the Raleigh Hotel, Dr. Stonier reminded the assembly that Washington chapter has enjoyed the support of the personnel of the banking institutions of this city in a marked degree and its rapid growth in numbers and in influence has been the result of the efforts put forth by the banks in behalf of banking education.

"As you travel about the country," said Dr. Stonier, "you are impressed with the fact that the average business man and farmer is more satisfied to be himself than at any time in the last five or six years. Many politically minded people are casting about to make some economic laws through the enactment of the legislatures which will relieve conditions. The average person realizes that economic laws are not made but are discovered. These laws are already in existence, but it takes time, study and the process of trial and error to find them out.

500 Farmers Study.

"I attended a meeting recently of 500 farmers who were in an institute to study new ways by which power could be applied to farming. They were enrolled in a tractor school. In many sections of the South where politicians are urging the State Legislatures to pass laws prohibiting the planting of cotton, the average American farmer realizes in those same sections that the legislatures can be of no permanent help to them. It is foolish to think that the mere prohibition of the planting of cotton will do anything constructive to relieve the cotton situation. Much political capital can be made of the attempt to remedy an economic situation by the enactment of a statute. When the average American is himself, and not an optimist nor a pessimist, he knows he is his own salvation so far as his economic plight is concerned.

"Last year the American Institute of Banking had its greatest year in point of number enrolled and work done. The institute feels its responsibility for developing leadership in the banking profession. It has now been 33 years on this task. Education is a slow process. It can not be unduly stimulated, but the effects of it are certain and definite.

Two of these dinners are held each year and the chapter's educational program is outlined at them.

Richard Norris Presides.

Richard A. Norris, Lincoln National Bank, chairman of the local chapter's educational committee, presided at the meeting. There were talks by Aubrey O. Dooley, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., president of Washington Chapter; Raymond B. Dickey, dean of the local chapter's faculty; President Edward J. McQuade of Liberty National Bank and the District of Columbia Bankers Association; Secretary Frederick P. H. Siddons, American Security & Trust Co., and Elmer Louis Kayser, George Washington University, new members of the chapter's faculty; Henry F. Kimball, American Security & Trust Co., chairman of the chapter's membership committee, and J. Earle McGeary, W. B. Hibbs & Co., chapter's chief counsel.

The dinner was attended by officers of the chapter, members of its faculty, board of governors and board of consuls and committee chairmen.

Many persons visited yesterday the American Security Building at 728 Fifteenth street northwest, handsome new office structure that will house part of the main office of the American Security & Trust Co.

Guests See Building.

Guests were received by bank officials and escorted through those portions of the building to be occupied by the institution's expanding activities. A wealth of autumnal flowers brightened the tasteful marble, rich wood paneling, spotless tile and artistic metal work of the bank's interiors.

The board room has the dignity of a hall of state and the dining room and kitchen for employes is ultra-modern in its convenience and equipment. The bank's business will be conducted in a subbasement, basement and on the first, second, third, tenth and a part of the fourth floors of the new building.

The rental of office space on the remainder of the floors is progressing rapidly, but there still remain some very excellent suites. Terry B. Simms is leasing agent for the company, with offices in the new building.

Remodeling of the old main banking house of the company at Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest has begun and its completion is expected by May 1. The banking department of the company will return to that building when its renovation is complete. The vaults of the institution are now permanently located in the new building.

HAROLD STONIER,
educational director, American Institute of Banking, principal speaker at the educational dinner of Washington Chapter of the institute last night.

Architect's Sketch of Washington's Latest Talking Picture House—CRANDALL'S UPTOWN THEATRE NOW UNDER CONSTRUCTION AT CONNECTICUT AVENUE AND NEWARK ST. N.W.

THE romance of the motion picture business has generally been one of great interest; it is very fascinating and has grown by leaps and bounds far beyond any one's fondest expectations. Starting as somewhat of a novelty and rather a seasonal business, today it has become a part of the daily life of millions of people, due to the latest inventions of cooling systems which make the theatre just as comfortable in the Summer as it is in the Winter and which increases the profits to a great extent.

In the last two years we have experienced in this country probably one of the worst depressions known and yet it is proven that one of the few industries that has not suffered to any great extent is the motion picture business, and in Washington less than any other place, since the District of Columbia is naturally nearly depression-proof because of the fact that it is the seat of our Federal Government.

Picture at left is a photographic reproduction of architect's sketch of the first of the new Crandall chain of moving picture theatres, to be known as Crandall's Uptown Theatres, with a seating capacity of 2,500, located on Connecticut avenue at Newark street northwest.

Building operations are now in full swing, steam shovels are on the job and dirt is flying for the foundation of this the first of the new chain of Crandall Talking Picture houses. Drive out and watch your UPTOWN Theatre grow.

Opportunity Knocks Once More—

A ROMANCE started 24 years ago, in the year 1907, when Mr. Harry Crandall opened a moving picture theater at Fourth and East Capitol streets, in a former grocery store, seating 86 people. Believing at the time that the business was more or less a novelty, Mr. Crandall disposed of his "theatre" at a handsome profit. He soon realized his mistake, and three years after the opening announcement of his first venture started an open-air theatre at North Capitol and New York avenue, with a seating capacity of 250 people.

After 3 years at this location, Mr. Crandall's star of destiny directed him to Ninth and E streets, where he built the popular Crandall Theatre, and with this, the first of Mr. Crandall's year-round theatres, the romance really began so far as amazing profits are concerned. Out of this popular theatre the Crandall Circuit grew, theatres being located in practically every section of Washington and surrounding districts.

In October, 1925, Mr. Crandall merged with the Stanley Company of America, disposing of his vast theatre properties for $7,500,000.00. When you realize that this fortune had its start with an investment of $5,000.00, you will be quick to grasp the marvelous opportunity in the moving picture industry—one of the youngest and fastest growing industries in the world.

In 1925 Mr. Crandall signed a contract that did not allow him to go back into the motion picture business until October, 1931, and now the man who made such a success and who made hundreds of thousands of dollars for his stockholders is about ready to re-enter the field with a chain of modern, up-to-date motion picture houses.

Many people who bought in on the ground floor when Mr. Crandall first started received several times their original investment, plus their dividends, due to the growth of the business, split-ups in stock, etc., and we feel that another splendid opportunity is presented to those who want to purchase stock in this company, which is just about ready to begin operations.

The talking pictures brought many changes to the business, and by entering the field at this time Mr. Crandall has the advantage of all the latest and most modern equipment and can really and truthfully say that each house built will be up to date in every respect, including the latest invention, namely, the talking motion picture, and from the standpoint of acoustics will be the last word. Mr. Crandall's first new enterprise will be located on Connecticut avenue at Newark street northwest.

Mr. Crandall has in mind other sites, but can not announce them at this time, but those who buy stock now will participate in earnings of every house that follows, as there is to be only one company, namely, Crandall Theatres Corporation. A strictly local corporation, WASHINGTON OWNED AND OPERATED.

In order to interest the Washington public in this enterprise, to the end that they may share in the opportunity now presented, the Crandall Theatres Corporation is offering, subject to change without notice, blocks as follows:

5 shares 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, par value $20.00, and 2 shares common stock, no par value, for $120.00. Terms if desired.

STOCK PRICES DROP IN LARGER TURNOVER

Rails, Utilities and Steel Lead Losses; Latter Is Lowest Since 1921.

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Returning to action after a three-day shutdown, the financial markets found an accumulation of pessimism that induced heavier selling of stocks.

Equity issues, according to the Standard Statistics composite, lost 3.3 points net, the largest decline since July 29. Trading was active in the morning and although it was relatively dull for the rest of the day, sales totaled 2,013,560 shares, considerably larger than the recent average.

Weakness was especially evident among the rails, utilities and steels. Some covering at the close reduced extreme losses of 2 to 8 points in an assortment of representative issues; that there was any recovery appeared due to short covering and the fact that Western Union directors declared the regular quarterly dividend in the last few minutes of the session's life.

Rails Hit By News.

Earlier in the day, the cut in New Haven's quarterly payment, although quite expected, helped soften the rails, most of which were weak. New York Central whose directors meet for dividend action tomorrow when a reduction is expected, broke to 60⅜, a record low for the present shares. The final sale was at 61¼, making the net loss 3⅜. Atchison dropped to 125 before rallying to 127½ where it was 5 points lower. Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley, Lackawanna, Missouri Pacific preferred, Canadian Pacific, Pere Marquette and New Haven also felt the gloom.

General Motors lost more than a point under active selling coincident with the August sales report which reported a decline from July and from August last year. U. S. Steel, at 80⅜, made a price that had not been duplicated since 1921, and finished only a fraction off the bottom, the day's loss being 2⅜. Youngstown Sheet & Tube flopped 8 points when the dividend was omitted but recovered 2 of its decline.

American Telephone acted as though the market expected another revision in Western Electric's payment; action by the latter company's board was deferred a week. American & Foreign Power, American Water Works, Consolidated Gas, North American, United Corporation, Standard Gas & Electric and International Telephone, losing a point or two net, reflected the current state of speculative sentiment.

Oils Close Lower.

Declaration of the regular dividend by Kennecott Copper failed to help the metal issues, while oils, led by Standard of New Jersey, were soggy. American Can, Radio, General Electric, Sears Roebuck, Vanadium and Woolworth, 1 to 2 lower.

Market circles had hoped that by Labor Day definite signs of a good seasonal upturn in business would be evident. The approach of fall, however, finds the heavy industries, especially steel, less confident of a normal gain. It is expected United States Steel's backlog declined in August, indicating that the volume of new business was unable to absorb production even at the low rate of operations.

Freight car loadings for the week ended August 29 rose slightly more than 15,000 cars. This was a good gain compared with the increases of the past two weeks, but still somewhat under expectations. The figures were made public after the market had closed.

Cotton Market Breaks.

The Government's cotton crop estimate, placing the September 1 indicated production at 15,685,000 bales, or a little larger than the August 1 figure, which caused so violent a break, was received with a flurry of selling and prices made new lows, but covering checked the decline and futures closed with net gains of 1 to 3 points.

Wheat, reflecting an increased visible supply and good Northwestern harvesting weather, sagged ¼ to ¾ net, while corn reacted more substantially under large offerings, off ¾ to 1¾.

Foreign exchanges were quiet and somewhat irregular. Sterling held fairly steady as the House of Commons met to consider the government's economy program. The Canadian dollar rallied on receipt of a $2,000,000 gold shipment—the first since July—from Montreal.

Curb Review

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Heavy selling pressure, covering on the utilities, sent the curb market substantially lower today, in the most active trading since the middle of July.

The turnover approximated 400,000 shares, or nearly double the turnover of last Friday, and several prominent issues lost 1 to 5 points. The turnover was the largest since July 15, when 480,000 shares were traded.

American Gas and Electric and Electric Bond and Shares each lost more than 2 points, the latter coming within little more than a point of its bear market low. Associated Gas "A" declined a point to a new low, and such issues as Middle West, United Light "A" and Utilities Power Light sagged fractionally in fairly active trading. North American Power and Light was again weak, selling at 44, off 4 and a new bottom.

In the industrials and specialties, U. S. Radio and Television, a comparatively inactive stock in this market, appeared at 25, off 7 points from the last deal. Aluminum Co. dropped 7, then reduced its loss to little more than 5. Mead Johnson dropped 3½ to a new low, and Parker Rust Proof recorded a similar loss. Issues off a point or two included Technicolor, Walgreen, Swift International, and U. S. Playing Card.

Oils were lightly traded, but participated in the general decline. Gulf sold off about 5 points, then recovered more than a point of its loss. Plymouth and Humble each lost more than a point, and Indiana and Cities Service sagged minor fractions. Natural Gas issues were also heavy, United Gas losing ½ point in active trading.

In the investment trusts, Goldman Sachs Trading, which has moved rather narrowly for some time dropped 1¼ points to a new low at 3¾, then recovered to 4.

BONDS CLOSE LOWER IN HEAVIER SELLING

Turnover Is $11,890,000, With Rails and Foreigns Leading Slump.

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The bond market declined irregularly today, and sales aggregated $11,890,000, the largest total for a full session since July 15, when the turnover amounted to $13,286,000.

Losses were more marked among foreign and railroad issues than in the other groups. The decline in the latter issues was simultaneous with a general slump in carrier stocks.

Net losses ranging from 1 to 3⅝ points were recorded in such active bonds as Chesapeake & Ohio series A 4½s, St. Paul 5s of 1975 and of 2000, Chicago & Northwestern series A 4¾s, Canadian National 4½s of 1957, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s of 1955, Erie 5s of 1967 and of 1975, Missouri Pacific series F 5s, New York, Chicago & St. Louis 4½s of 1978, St. Louis, San Francisco 4½s of 1978, Union Pacific 4s of 1947 and Southern consolidated 5s.

A large number of rail loans lost fractions also. A good example of what high investment quality in a bond means was afforded by Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe general 4s which were active. They rose at one time to 100, the highest level in several weeks, and although they receded subsequently the final sale represented a net gain. Atchison 4½s of 1948 dropped to a new low at 110 which reflected the slump of the stock into which this issue is convertible.

Many of the individual losses in foreign obligations were as large as those in the rail group. The downward movement in them was not uniform, however, and many of the large losses occurred on a relatively small volume. Chilean obligations, for instance, scored both wide and narrow gains and declines.

United States Government bonds were generally lower on a moderate volume.

Public utility and industrial issues, as a rule, kept close to Friday's final prices.

An offering of $1,650,000 of Scranton-Spring Brook Water Service Co. 5 per cent bonds is being made today at 92.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—S. B. Robertson, vice president and general manager of the Pacific Goodrich Rubber Co., has been appointed vice president and general manager of the tire division of the B. F. Goodrich Co.

Arrangements have been made for the sale of a New York Curb Exchange membership at $67,500, a decrease of $7,500 from the previous sale.

P. L. Smithers, for 15 years vice president and general manager, has been elected president of Booth Fisheries Co. to succeed K. L. Ames, elected chairman of the board.

Offering is being made of a new issue of $1,000,000 City of Atlantic City (N. J.) 5 per cent tax revenue bonds, priced to yield 3.50 per cent, by M. M. Freeman & Co. The bonds are dated September 1, 1931, and are due September 1, 1932.

An offering of $20,000,000 of 3 per cent debentures of the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks is being made, it was announced today by Charles R. Dunn, fiscal agent for these institutions. The debentures, which will be dated September 15, will mature in two, six, nine and twelve months. Prices for them will be given upon application. The debentures are secured by loans and discounts representing advances for the production and marketing of crops.

Gross sales of the J. C. Penney Co. for August amounted to $13,257,257, a decline of $1,141,361 from August last year. Gross sales for the first eight months of 1931 aggregated $103,394,289, a loss of $11,064,359 from the comparative period of 1930.

Western Union Telegraph Co. declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2, payable October 15 to stock of record September 25.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. has omitted the quarterly dividend on the common stock due at this time. Three months ago a quarterly dividend of 50 cents was paid.

Steel production in the Youngstown district has slumped to approximately 28 per cent of capacity, largely as a result of the Labor Day shutdown, Dow, Jones & Co. reports. The current rate compares with 37 per cent last week and based on raw steel output represents a 9-point low.

Directors of Kennecott Copper declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, payable October 1 to stock of record September 18. The meeting of directors of Western Electric Co. to act on the dividends has been postponed until September 15. American Car & Foundry Co.'s dividend meeting, originally scheduled for today, has been postponed until tomorrow. Willys Overland Co. directors have postponed their meeting for action on the preferred dividend until September 15.

Steel Output Drops To Lowest Since 1917

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—August steel plant operations fell to 31.13 per cent of rated capacity, the lowest figure since this tabulation was started in 1917.

The percentage, reported today by the American Iron and Steel Institute, compared with the revised figure of 34.15 per cent for July, and 58.80 per cent for August, 1930. Production last month amounted to 1,719,462 gross tons, an approximate daily output of 66,133 tons for the 26 working days.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Faced by blackboards showing a fall in securities, with United States Steel at new bottom quotations grain pits witnessed a general decline today. Corn suffered the most, September delivery showing 2¼ cents a bushel setback. Reports from Germany that grain crops were rotting in the fields failed to bring about any decided rally.

Corn closed nervous, ¾ to 1¾ cents down; wheat, ½ to ¾ off, and oats at ⅜ to ¾ decline; provisions finished 2 to 12 cents up.

Downswings of grains came after an early show of strength that was associated with European reports of heavy rains and of unseasonable cold. There were also indications that export demand for North American wheat was of at least fair volume, that Germany was inquiring for a 3-year credit purchase of 17,000,000 bushels of United States Government financed wheat, and that estimates of Russia's exportable wheat surplus had been reduced to 80,000,000 bushels compared with recent forecast of 120,000,000 bushels.

Attention of traders, however, soon focused on the bearish action of securities, United States Steel in particular, and on a simultaneous selling movement in corn with the principal owner of the Chicago stock of corn giving seeming evidence that he was selling a considerable part of his holdings.

Week-end behavior of the corn market was in contrast with the fact that a heat wave West and Southwest had hoisted temperatures to 100 degrees or above for three successive days, and that damage to late-planted corn in Nebraska and Kansas was reported. The downward course of values developed in the face also of news that the Farmers' Grain Dealers Association of Iowa was fostering a movement for a moratorium on further selling of corn and oats until prices returned closer to cost of production. The association announced that 30-cent corn and 15-cent oats did not permit a farmer to realize enough from his entire crop to pay taxes and the interest of a fair-sized loan on his farm. Oats followed corn.

Provisions sagged with grains, but were afterward jerked upward as a result of packers' buying.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The Government crop report placing the indicated cotton production as of September 1 at 15,685,000 bales, or slightly above average expectations, was followed by liquidation which sent prices into new low ground for the season. The decline was checked, however, by trade buying or covering which caused later recoveries.

December closed at 6.88, or a point above last Friday's closing quotations, with the general market closing steady with net advances of 1 to 3 points.

The opening was steady 1 to 2 points lower under over-holiday selling, which was said to include some hedging by the South. This was in comparatively small volume, however, and offerings were absorbed by further prebureau covering. October sold up from 6.62 to 6.69 and March from 7.14 to 7.22 on this demand, but the bulges met liquidation which seemed to be coming partly through Wall street sources and the market eased off a few points before the market closed to receive the Government report.

Liquidation or reselling when the market reopened 15 minutes after the publication of the crop figures, sent October off to 6.50 and March to 7.00, or about 14 to 16 points net lower. The market then steadied on covering, which became a little more active toward the close when no Southern selling of consequence seemed to be developing. October closed at 6.66 and March at 7.19 or at advances of about 15 to 19 points from the lowest.

The report of the Census Bureau showing 565,160 bales ginned prior to September 1 was a shade above some of the recent private estimates, but small enough as compared with last year's ginnings of 1,879,919 bales for the same period, to reemphasize the lateness of the crop. The increase in the official crop estimate as compared with the August 1 indication was attributed to less than average abandonment of acreage since the beginning of July. According to today's preliminary figures, abandonment this season has been only 1.5 per cent, or less than half the 10-year average. The weather news was considered generally favorable but came in for very little comment.

Liverpool cables said covering had been supplied by Bombay selling in that market. Exports today 16,602, making 311,065 so far this season. Port receipts 12,892. U. S. port stocks 2,759,243.

ATHLETICS' 8-RUN BLAST IN 7TH BEATS NATS, 10-1

JONES POUNDED OUT AS GROVE REGISTERS 28TH WIN OF SEASON

Foxx, Williams Get Homers as Macks Bunch Safeties.

Cronin's Error Hurts; Grove, in Command, Fans Seven.

By BILL DOOLEY

Baseball Writer, Philadelphia Record.

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Sept. 8.—An eight-run bombardment of Sam Jones in the seventh inning, combined with the pitching of Lefty Grove, king of pitchers, served to give the Washington Nationals a very hapless afternoon of it in the opening clash of the two-game series with the Athletics today. The score of the Washington downfall was 10 runs to 1. Until the big explosion the Nats were making a game of it. And, truth to relate, a wild throw by Joe Cronin played a large part in the Mack eight-run uprising, for a good heave would have retired the champions with two runs in this stanza. So a costly mistake it was.

Over the first six innings, the champions' edge was only 2 to 1. Dib Williams clubbed in both runs when he hit a homer into the left field seats with Jimmy Foxx on first in the second stanza.

Singles by Bluege, Jones Give Nats Run.

Singles by Bluege and Jones, with an infield out sandwiched in between, gave the Solons their lone tally of the day in the third inning. From that round until the sad seventh, Jones battled Grove mightily, holding the score down to the one run difference.

Jimmy Foxx later to conclude the scoring with a home run with two on base, opened the seventh by singling. He was forced at second by Miller, but then Dib Williams dropped a double in right for his third straight hit, sending Miller to third. Jones followed this by retiring Rommel on an infield pop and seemed well on his way to escape the round without being scored upon. Alas, for Sam, Grove singled down the first-base line, Kuhel making a desperate effort to get the ball, scoring both runners. McNair followed with another one-ply blow and then Cramer grounded to short. This was the ball that Cronin threw wild to first. Instead of making the third out, it went through Kuhel, allowing Grove to score, McNair to take third and Cramer second.

A bit later Mickey Cochrane dropped a single back of first that Harris just missed, admitting two more runs. Dykes walked and Foxx poled a home run inside the grounds, his twenty-sixth homer of the season. It was a drive against the top of the bleacher wall in center, bounding back so far toward right field that Jim circled the bases before Rice and Harris could catch up with the elusive pellet.

Grove Did Not Need Such A Big Lead.

Comfortable, however, as these eight runs made the Athletics feel, it is doubtful if they needed them, for Mr. Grove, working with great determination for his twenty-eighth victory of the season against three defeats, held the Nationals to six hits.

Incidentally it was Grove's sixth triumph of the season over the Nationals in seven decisions. There was a time when it looked as if Lefty would not win six games from the Nats if he pitched until he was old as Methuselah. But those days seem gone forever.

In the Wake Of the Game

Philadelphia, Sept. 8.

This two-game series gives the Nats and Athletics their last look at each other for the season. The combatants were tied away at ten wins apiece when they took the field today.

Grove was crossing the Griffmen up in the first two innings with a change pace ball. He fanned Manush to end the first round and picking up right where he left off, struck out Cronin, Harris and Kuhel in the second. All four were set for a fast ball on the deciding pitch and were caught flat-footed when the Maryland mountaineer pulled the string, as the noble athletes put it.

A sparse scattering of less than 5,000 took in the exercise. Alas, for the crowd that might have been had the Nats clung a little closer.

But the most noticeable difference between the fans of Washington and those of Philadelphia is that in the Capital they howl at Simmons and in the Quaker City they yelp at Cronin.

Along this line it may be interesting to observe that personally, Joe Cronin is very popular with the Mackmen.

The Athletics' press box is ready for the world's series. Desks have been installed to take care of 300 newspapermen that come from all over the country to cover the annual big show of baseball.

The Athletics' latest makeshift line-up displayed Eddie Rommel in the guise of a left fielder and Rabbit McNair playing second base.

Eddie looked like a regular outfielder when he backed against the wall for Jones' long fly in the fifth stanza.

Sad Sam Jones fooled most of the Mackmen most of the time, but this Dib Williams made Sam miserable, tagging him for a homer, single and double in successive times at bat. Foxx, with a homer and two singles, wasn't exactly kidded, either.

Wood Admits He Tricked Kaye Don

Planned to Beat Gun and Cause Don Also to Violate Rule.

Acted as a Reprisal When Briton Refused Delay.

DETROIT, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Gar Wood today admitted that he deliberately tricked Kaye Don, British challenger into a premature start in yesterday's second Harmsworth race, to disqualify his boat, Miss England II.

Although Wood in his more than a decade of Harmsworth defense never had beaten the starting gun before, he took his Miss America IX across the starting line more than nine seconds ahead of the gun, and Don, apparently fearful that the American defender might get too much of an advantage, streaked after him. The British boat was more than seven seconds ahead of the gun.

Prior to the race Wood had requested a 45-minute postponement to repair a newly discovered gasoline tank leak. This was refused by Don, who explained that it would necessitate his taking his boat back to the boat well, emptying its oil tanks and reheating the lubricating oil.

Often Consented To Delays.

Wood pointed out that he had several times in past races agreed to postponements requested by foreign challengers.

"When they told me I couldn't have it," Wood said, "I made up my mind I would show Don a trick or two. We soldered up the spot hurriedly, but one of my mechanics was hauled out of the hull unconscious doing so.

"I planned the start. I said I would be over that line first if I were a minute ahead of the gun and if Don wanted to follow me that was his business. Everything went off just as we had planned."

Don did not discuss the start. His American manager, William Sturm, however, commented that "Gar Wood evidently knows lots of the tricks in the racing game."

Work of raising Miss England II, which sank in 20 feet of water 2 miles from the premature start, was started this morning.

Don's Backer Satisfied.

Don received a cablegram this morning from Lord Wakefield, who financed the Miss England II. The message expressed satisfaction that no one was hurt and added, "Nothing else matters."

Questioned regarding the strategy of Wood in leading him over the line to disqualification, Don remained firm in his refusal to answer comments or questions regarding that phase of the race. He discussed freely the accident that resulted in the sinking of the challenging boat.

Lone Boat Finishes Race, Claims Victory

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—A lone hydroplane circled the Harmsworth Trophy race course today and upon completing three laps, or 15 miles, its driver made formal claim to the honor of having kept the plaque in America.

Protesting the "no contest" announcement of the racing commission after yesterday's disqualification of Gar Wood and Kaye Don for beating the starting gun, George Wood, who had piloted Miss America VIII in the first two heats, demanded the right to appear for a third heat.

George Wood contended that as his boat had finished third in the first heat and finished alone in the second, it had not been disqualified and was entitled to a chance to win.

Morty Wilner to Coach Northern A. C. Eleven

Morty Wilner, former Central High and Penn State football star, will take his first coaching job Sunday morning when he grasps the reins of the Northern A. C. unlimited semi-pro team in that organization's first drill.

Wilner, who was prominently mentioned as successor to Ty Rauber at Central High, is emulating the former Washington and Lee star in taking the Northern job. Rauber's first coaching task was with the Apaches, local professional champions.

Wilner will have a group of seasoned sandlotters to experiment with. Among those expected to report are Davis, Hensby, Fox, Webb, Gass, Timmons, Price, Buckhead, Anderson, Davis, Monroe, Barry, Collier and Kelso.

TRICKED BRITON

GAR WOOD.

Gar Wood Sportsman

Gar Wood admits that he deliberately tricked Kaye Don into making a premature start in the Harmsworth Cup speedboat race at Detroit thus disqualifying both his boat and the British challenger.

And Gar Wood, that illustrious American sportsman, whose name has been a legend in speedboat racing for two decades, stands judged as the author of the blackest mark against American sportsmanship since the Chicago White Sox of 1919 "threw" the world series to the Cincinnati Reds.

Honestly beaten by his British unblushingly tells how he planned to beat the starting gun in the second race and how his ruse also to trick Don into disqualification suceeded as he had hoped. He called it outsmarting Don. True sportsmen have a word for it.

Don into disqualification succeeded as he had hoped. He called it outsmarting Don. True sportsmen have a word for it.

Wood had little hope of winning the second heat, a true test of the boats had proved the day before. The Englishman's craft had demonstrated its superiority in a fair race. But Don failed to reckon with Wood's apparent creed of "Anything to Win." He looked for no deliberate foul on the part of the veteran of American speedboat racing and was easily taken in by Wood's maneuver in beating the gun.

Hailed as the medium for further promotion of international good will, the Harmsworth Cup race through Wood's machinations was transformed into a travesty on American sportsmanship.

If the boat race was a contest between sharpers then Wood is to be commended for his extreme good strategy. But the conception of the Harmsworth Cup race is that it is a sporting venture. If that is so, Wood's creed is indeed strange with sportsmanship not among its precepts. If Wood could not win, he would not permit Don to do so. The newest version of the dog in the manger.

British Press Classes Wood's Trick 'Outrage'

London, Sept. 9 (Wednesday) (A. P.).—Most London newspapers this morning merely recorded the news of the admission of Gar Wood regarding the start of his race at Detroit against Kaye Don, British speedboat champion, and the comment from the American press.

The Telegraph, however, says Wood did an ill service to the traditions of American sport by "outraging the most elementary instincts of sportsmanship."

"He violated," says the Morning Post, "none of the written rules of the game, but only the rules of fair play, which can never be written. We sympathize with Americans in the reflection he has cast on their sportsmanship."

Fight Cause Of Upheaval On Cubs

Wilson Stood by as Malone Attacked 2 Sportswriters.

Outfielder on Verge of Suspension by Hornsby 4 Times.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—Hack Wilson is an exile from the Chicago Cubs and Pat Malone's days seems numbered as a result of a strange series of episodes which came to light today.

Wilson, major league home run leader last year, was suspended Sunday for the balance of the season without pay, and Malone, Cubs' right-hand pitcher, was fined $500, one-thirtieth of his salary.

Wilson's suspension was the outgrowth of repeated violations of the training rules, and his part in an attack by Malone on two Chicago spoprts writers Saturday night in Cincinnati.

"Wilson started out breaking training rules at Catalina last spring," said Hornsby. "He has been on the verge of suspension four times this season. Two weeks ago I decided to suspend Wilson. But I relented when he promised before the entire team he would mend his ways. Malone's attack on two baseball writers was one of the most disgraceful I have ever encountered in the game."

Attacks Reporters In Station.

Just before the train bringing the Cubs back to Chicago departed from Cincinnati Saturday night, Harold Johnson, Chicago American baseball writer, and Wayne K. Otto, Chicago Herald-Examiner scribe, approached Wilson and Malone in the station.

"I've just had a chat with Mordecai Brown," said Johnson. "Did you ever hear of him, Pat? He was a great pitcher in his time."

"You can't get away with that, Malone," Otto yelled, and Malone switched his attack to him.

Wilson stood by and refused to help pull Malone off Otto, and it was not until other members of the Cubs' party arrived that hostilities were halted.

"Malone must pay the doctor bills of the writers he assaulted and his future with the club depends on how he conducts himself," said Hornsby.

Neither Will Appeal To Landis.

Although Wilson and Malone have the privilege of appealing their cases to President John Heydler of the National League and Commissioner K. M. Landis, neither will make an official protest.

"I got a bum deal," said Wilson, but refused to enlarge upon his grievances.

There is little doubt but that Wilson will be traded or sold during the winter, and Malone probably will be disposed of unless he convinces Hornsby that he will turn over a new leaf. Wilson has removed all of his belongings from the Cubs' clubhouse and is preparing to leave for his home at Martinsburg, W. Va., Friday.

Throughout the ups and downs of the Cubs this season Manager Hornsby has been backed to the limit by William Wrigley, jr.

District Pin League Names Schroth Head

Norman Schroth, local bowling enthusiast, was elected president of the District Duckpin Bowling League last night at the annual meeting of the organization. On the same ticket were elected Walter E. "Reds" Megaw, for 15 years one of the city's outstanding bowlers, who was named vice president, and Ben McAlwee, who was chosen secretary, treasurer and official scorer.

Frank Bowden Wins Over Davis Cup Ace in Five Sets.

Hughes, British Star, Also Defeated; 16 Gain 4th Round.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 8 (A. P.).—The upper crust of the lawn tennis world took another severe beating today in the third round of the national championships at Forest Hills as two Davis Cup stars fell before opponents so obscure they scarcely have been heard of outside their home districts.

Sidney B. Wood, jr., blond young New Yorker, was the day's outstanding fatality as he fell before the smashing strokes of Frank Bowden, an unheralded New York youngster, in five furious sets. Wimbledon champion that he is and member of this country's Davis Cup Team, Wood today was not a match for the inspired Bowden, who never before had defeated a major opponent. The scores were 2—6, 6—0, 6—8, 6—3, 6—3.

Hughes, British Cup Star, Is Beaten.

George P. Hughes, the towering Irishman who played on Great Britain's Davis Cup Doubles Team, was the second international star to find the door slammed in his face by a player who was not supposed to belong on the same court with him. Robert Bryan, of Chattanooga, Tenn., who like Bowden, has never had his name on a national ranking list, sent his noted opponent down in defeat by scores of 2—6, 6—0, 6—3, 8—6.

Today's upsets were even more sensational than those of yesterday when Berkeley Bell and Bryan Grant, jr., turned in victories over Wilmer Allison and Jacques Brugnon, respectively. As a result of the dizzy way things have gone the last two days, the surviving field of 16 players tonight was evenly divided between seeded and unseeded entries.

Favored stars who survived today's round included Johnny Doeg, Ellsworth Vines, Frank Shields, George Lott, jr., Clifford Sutter and Johnny Van Ryn, of this country, and Frederick J. Perry, of England, and Christian Boussus, of France. All got by without great difficulty, although both Doeg and Vines were forced to go four sets, as was also Boussus.

Wood-Bowden Match Draws Large Gallery.

The Wood-Bowden match, the last of the day, was replete with thrills. So little did the tournament fathers think of Bowden's chances against his illustrious opponent, they staged the bout on an obscure court. Before it was over, most of the 4,000 spectators had deserted the big stadium and packed themselves ten deep about the surprise party. They cheered lustily after every point of the final set.

Wood, apparently certain of victory, ran off the first set with ease, but he received a jolt when Bowden, ranked no higher than 18 in the Metropolitan district, took the second set at love. Wood took the next, however, and enjoyed a 2—1 lead at the intermission. In the final set, Bowden, a big, husky fellow, stormed the net to force Wood into repeated errors.

There was a report that Wood turned his ankle in the third set and was handicapped from there on, but it was not apparent to the observer. He was up against a player who, for the hour, simply was unbeatable.

Merlin, French Star, Beaten By Gregory Mangin.

Gregory Mangin, of Newark, provided another defeat of a seeded player when he eliminated Andre Merlin, of France, 6—3, 6—2, 6—1. The result scarcely was an upset, however, as Mangin is the country's sixth ranking player.

Frank Shields, lanky New Yorker, gave an impressive performance in eliminating Bruce Barnes, University of Texas star, 6—0, 6—3, 6—1. Shields, who heads the lower bracket, was stroking brilliantly and never gave Barnes a chance.

Ellsworth Vines, the tournament's first seeded player, took things easy in eliminating Lenoir Wright of New Orleans, 6—3, 6—3, 6—8, 6—2, but Doeg, the defending champion, had a merry battle before he put out E. T. Herndon, of New York, 10—8, 6—8, 10—12, 6—3 and they are offering fancy odds he is about to lose his crown.

Robins Win to Sweep Series With Braves

Brooklyn, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The Robins hit hard against three Boston pitchers today to gain a clean sweep in their three-game series by winning the final game 10 to 6. The victory gave them an even break in their 22 games for the season.

Johnny Frederick and Babe Herman contributed while Bobby Reis rookie third baseman, hit a single in the eighth that started the winning rally off Harold Haid. The Robins got four runs in that frame.

Babe Phelps, Brooklyn's starting pitcher, was driven to cover with none out in the first. Austin Moore pitched well for the remainder of the game.

Haines, Cards' Box Ace, May Be Out of Title Set

St. Louis, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Jess Haines, St. Louis Cardinal pitching ace, has a torn muscle in his shoulder and may not be able to pitch again this season. Dr. Robert F. Hyland, Club physician, who examined Haines in Chicago yesterday, said today he wanted to make a more complete examination to determine extent of the injury "but right now it looks as though Haines will not be able to pitch any more this season."

Fighting Siamese Fish Likely to Give More Work To New York Ring Body

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—And now come the Siamese fighting fish to appease mankind's lust for vicarious battle. The Siamese fighting fish, which are on exhibition at the American Museum of Natural History, are said to have an intensely romantic nature and a jealous disposition.

Imposing on the tender emotions of the fish, the Siamese peasants place the males in two bowls close together and place their wagers on the impending fight. Up to this time the two fish, being total strangers, have nothing against one another. But when the money is all down a bowl of good looking feminine fish is placed between the two bowls containing the susceptible males.

The gentlemen fish now begin to make themselves as attractive as possible, showing their muscles and performing fancy dives until they become suddenly aware, from the divided attention of the fair sex, that competition is rife. This causes mutual resentment and one fish remarks to the ladies: "Pardon me, but if that fish over there is annoying you, just let me know."

Their anger now reaching a certain stage, one fish observes that but for the presence of ladies he would be glad to settle the matter, fish to fish. At this point, the cynical Siamese peasants remove the bowl containing the sirens and dump the two males into a bowl.

It is said that they attack instantly, and that in a few minutes one or the other is dead.

This is clearly a foul abuse of the love motive in a sporting contest, and I doubt that chivalrous American sportsmen will approve the Siamese fish fight unless some other method can be found to arouse the fighting instincts of the fish. Even the moose call has been frowned upon by the better class of sportsmen because when the guide puts the horn to his mouth and yodels into the wild, that call, to the bull moose, is intended to sound like a lady moose singing "Body and Soul."

It must be that lady moose have very husky voices like some actresses, for otherwise the bull moose could not be deceived by the voice of a guide yelling through a horn. At any rate the more honorable type of sportsmen contend that when the horn is used at all, the guide ought to be compelled to say, "This is a party of New York sportsmen with big rifles out hunting moose."

This might frighten off the moose, but with not a few of the city sportsmen who go into the woods this would be quite all right, too. It is an acknowledged fact that the greatest fear of some moose hunters is that they will find a moose or vice versa.

In none of the contests between men or animals is the heart interest of the contestants exploited for the destruction of one or the other of the principals.

The prize fighters fight for guarantees with the privilege of a percentage, the dogs in the pit fight because they have been starved, and the roosters gouge one another in the

Sands Point Four Listed In Debut

Open Champs Most Impressive of Six 32-Goal Teams.

Hopping, Internationalist, to Direct Sands Point.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The Anglo-American Hurricane Four, open polo champions of the United States, ride out in title defense tomorrow against A. Charles Schwartz's Sands Point Four in the opening match of the 1931 championship play.

With Winston Guest at No. 2 and the Irish master, Capt. C. T. I. (Pat) Roark, at No. 3, the Hurricanes present the most impressive team of the six competing with a handicap total of 32 goals, one more than Lewis Lacey's Hurlingham Team from the Argentine.

Hurlingham originally was scheduled to open the tournament with Sands Point, but a new draw was made when the Miles brothers, John and David, were injured. It was hoped they would recover in time to play next Tuesday in the second round against the winner of tomorrow's match.

Earle A. S. Hopping, American internationalist, will direct the play of Sands Point from No. 3.

The first of the two invaders from South America will swing into action Saturday when Manuel Andrada leads his Santa Paula Four against Roslym. The winner of that match will meet Thomas Hitchcock, Jr.'s Greentree Team in the semifinals September 16. The final will be played September 19.

The teams will line up tomorrow as follows:

LINCOLN FIELDS RACE TRACK, Chicago, Ill., Sept. 8.—An overnight handicap, which is fashioned for 3-year-olds and upward, at the 7-furlong distance, will headline the program at Lincoln Fields tomorrow. The feature attracted six top-notch sprinters to contest the $1,700 purse. An allowance affair for juveniles will support the main event. This contest will be decided over the 6-furlong ground and six have been named in the overnight list.

Of those scheduled to start in the main attraction, fifth on the card, BATTLESHIP, W. J. Salmon's consistent Man o' War colt, following his brilliant victory last start, is at the peak of his form at present and should carry his 115-pound impost to an easy triumph. The Knebelkamp and Morris color bearer, PITTSBURGHER, is in receipt of six pounds from the Salmon star and under the conditions figures to force the pace. MY DANDY, from the W. E. Reickert string, may falter at the distance but should last to gain the minor award.

In the secondary feature, GIVANNA, a steady juvenile from the J. W. Marchbank string, has turned in several splendid performances in recent outings and should hold his five rivals safe in this 6-furlong dash. OSCILLATION has raced with the leading 2-year-olds and is selected as the contender. NEWGRO is moving up a notch here but is given the show call. OH DAVE will prove dangerous over a heavy track.

FIRST RACE—WATER HEN from the Cold Stream Stud reeled off five panels in 0:1 4-5 in a recent workout and at the 6-furlong distance of the opening number should graduate from this field of maiden juvenile fillies. LAZY MARY has been close up on several occasions and is given the place call, with PUPPET favored for the short end of the purse.

SECOND RACE—A limit field of maiden 3-year-old and up platers will contest the 6 furlongs of the second. GRASSLANDS, from the J. Greenbaum Stable, appears best of this poor lot and should enter the winners' circle. LIQUIDATE turned in a fair effort last start and is the one to fear. BUGS LEARY has been freshened up and in this field may prove troublesome.

FOURTH RACE—A. Pelleteir's consistent sprinter, FIDDLER, a recent winner at this track, appears well suited by the conditions of the fourth event and should score. TELA has shown rare courage over a route and at the mile test may offer the opposition. DARK SEA is favored over SEGURO for the show.

SIXTH RACE—VERMICULITE appears the class of his six rivals in the mile and an eighth of the sixth race, which is fashioned for the older platers. DABSTER has raced well at a distance and in this group must be accorded the place, with GALAHAD, from the T. J. Moran Stable, as a money possibility.

SEVENTH RACE—In the concluding number, a test over the mile and an eighth route, a field of ten 3-year-old and up fillies and mares will contest the purse. BRUSH displayed a high turn of speed last start against the same company and figures to improve enough to gain the honors. ENGLEWOOD has disappointed in recent efforts but is capable of a better performance and may finish in the runner-up position. THUNWIN will have PRINCESS EDITH to beat for the minor award.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DIS DAT, $4.64, $2.84, $2.48; ZODE, $4.48, $3.98; PRINCE HERBERT, $16.48.

DIS DAT, much the best and having fine speed, drew into decisive command gradually and won with speed in reserve. ZODE, fractious at post, began slowly, saved some ground when improving his position and closed well. PRINCE HERBERT, well up throughout, weakened, but outstayed SWEEPMAR. Latter held on fairly well. RUSSCENES was knocked back shortly after the start. MEDICINE BOW had early speed. BONNIE BRAE was outrun. DON'T TOUCH had early speed and bore out when tiring badly in the stretch.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:48. Off at 2:48. Winner, Nevada Stock Farm's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VOLTA GREEN, $4.60, $3.12, $2.38; HIGH TOM, $5.28, $4.24; MAD CAREER, $5.56.

VOLTA GREEN began fast, but was taken under slight restraint to permit HIGH TOM to make the pace, worked her way up gradually on the outside after reaching final five-sixteenths and, holding on well, outstayed HIGH TOM in a long drive. Latter raced into command with a rush, saved ground after first quarter and, regaining the lead in the final eighth, failed to last. MAD CAREER began slowly and closed with a rush on outside. BURGOO raced well. SISTER MARY weakened in the final sixteenth. RUSTY had no mishaps.

THIRD RACE—One mile (out of chute). Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:16½. Off at 3:21. Winner, R. Gallet's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LIEUTENANT RUSSELL, $59.78, $34.80, 14.30; BILL LOONEY, $16.26, $6.94; FINNIC, $3.66.

LIEUTENANT RUSSELL, improved and reserved out of it for a half mile, responded strongly when called upon, crowded his way through at stretch turn and, standing the drive gamely, wore down BILL LOONEY. Latter had speed from the start, easily raced BAG SMASHER into submission and held on well in the drive, but was not good enough. FINNIC, rated along up close the opening three-eighths, dropped back slightly at the turn, was forced very wide entering stretch and closed resolutely. DRASTIC DELIGHT began slowly.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,600; allowances. The Morton Grove Purse. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:49½. Off at 3:50½. Winner, J. CHIEF JOHN, slow to find his best stride and lucky, obtained room on inside when moving up after reaching the final three-eighths and, closing with a rush, quickly disposed of the leaders for an easy win. SISTER ZOE bettered her position fast on the inside after reaching the turn, came to the outside in the stretch and weakened in the final sixteenth, but outfinished BROWN WISDOM. Latter had good speed, bore out slightly in stretch and weakened in the drive. STREET SINGER raced well.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PLAYBIRD, $9.88, $6.48, $4.28; MAJEL, $9.30, $5.00; GREY KITTY, $2.66.

PLAYBIRD, lacking speed and shuffled back, began working her way up after reaching final half mile, stood the drive gamely and, heading the leaders, pulled away in the final strides. MAJEL, improved and a forward factor throughout, held on stubbornly. GREY KITTY, much used forcing the pace, held the lead briefly and went gamely in the drive. ENGLEWOOD lost much ground at the stretch turn and, racing wide thereafter, failed to get up. PHANTASIME quit.

SAN PRESTO began fast, forced the early pace under steadying restraint, easily disposed of KING PIN when ready and, drawing into safe command, won thereafter. KING PIN had speed, saved ground and, holding on well, outstayed BLUE CLOUD. Latter, a keen factor from the start, lost some ground and held on fairly well.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:17½. Off at 5:18. ALEXANDRIA BOYS STAR ON GRID

Virginia City Sends Many Stars to Colleges.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Sept. 8.—Colleges in the mid-Atlantic States will be bolstered for their football teams by the additions of many players from this city who have earned their spurs on the gridiron.

Charlie Armstrong, captain of the freshmen team at Washington and Jefferson College, has left for training at that institution. Armstrong plays tackle and is counted on as one of the "big shots" this season. He has worked hard all summer to keep in condition and will require little training to be at his peak.

Smith 3-Letter Man At Richmond U.

At Richmond University, Marshall Smith will again play end for the varsity team. Smith is a three letter athlete. He completes in basket ball and on the track team. Gene Bode, who starred for Fork Union Military Academy, has gone to Richmond University. Bode once held the boxing championship of the C. M. T. C. at Fort Eustis, Va.

Paul Travers, who flashed real form in the V. M. I. back field last season and won his varsity monogram, has returned to his alma mater. Travers is counted on to help the Cadets in their bid for the conference title. He is a triple threat and was placed on the All-State team while attending the Alexandria High School.

His brother, Hugh, is entering William and Mary College and left today for that institution. Hugh, while attending the Alexandria High School, took part in four sports—football, basket ball, baseball and track—and won his monogram in all of them. A bright future for this youngster is predicted. He plays in the back field and is expected to make the "Little Indians" fresh team with ease.

Moncure May Make Grade With Navy Eleven.

At the United States Naval Academy Sammy Moncure, all-American lacrosse player, is again out for the Middies' football team. Moncure was carried on the varsity squad last season and broke into numerous games.

Herbert Bryant is attending the University of Virginia, and Coach Fred Dawson is banking heavily on him for results. Bryant is a big and powerful youngster. He is expected to make the Cavalier team this year as a back-field man. Herbert plays half back. He is equally as good on offense and defense.

Frank "Jeff" Williams, who starred for Hargrave M. A. last season and won five letters at this institution, is expected to enter Georgetown University. Frank had also considered going to Richmond U., but it is expected he will go to the Hilltop.

Glass and ivory both are more elastic than rubber, which is merely stretchable. They recover their original shape much more quickly after being distorted. Hollow rubber balls bounce well because of the air within them, rather than the rubber itself.

Helene Madison made her twelve new world's records all in the space of one year, and in addition established no less than 28 new freestyle marks for American women. In all she has broken around 50 records, and on one occasion, at Jacksonville, Fla., March 18, 1930, made six new marks in a single swim.

WAR WHITES WIN POLO GAME

Beat Marshall, Va., Four in Thriller by 9 to 7 Count.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

THESE Virginia civilian polo teams are getting to be a real threat to local Army squads. Yesterday Middleburg gave the War Whites a terrific battle before the local officers finally emerged victorious, 9 to 7. The Marshall, Va., team was here last week and furnished real competition also.

Although the statistics yesterday show that the Whites outscored Middleburg, 9 to 4, the latter having a 3 goal handicap, it was a real contest in every period except the second, when the White four tallied four goals.

It is doubtful if the White team has coordinated as well at any time this season as yesterday. Maj. Eager, at No. 1, was always in position when the victors were on the offensive and, as a result, scored once in each of the six periods. His teammates were passing well, and the major wielded an accurate mallet.

Last Two Periods Show Best Polo.

The best polo of the afternoon was furnished in the final two periods when the Virginian entertained the fans with a bit of hard riding and slashing drives, although the latter was more or less wild at times. Mr. Hullburt, No. 4 for Middleburg, electrified the spectators in the fifth period when he snagged the ball from the front of his goal where a hard scramble was on and dribbled field length to score. Hullburt also scored from a free drive after a foul in the final period.

The sixth stanza was sensational from start to finish. The ball moved rapidly from one goal to the other and in their anxiety both teams fouled several times. Middleburg was really threatening at this juncture and were it not for clever blocking and pony manipulation by Maj. Devers the score unquestionably would have been tied.

In this period, Mr. Kirkpatrick was mounted on one of the fastest mounts viewed on the Potomac Park oval this season. Frequently he broke away with a clear field but usually his pony overran the willow.

ELDBROOKE NINE WINS SERIES UPSET

Comes From Behind to Beat Constructioneer Nine.

"WILD BILL" PAYNE sent the old apple cart sprawling yesterday as he hurled the Eldbrooke M. E. nine to an 8-to-5 victory over the Constructioneers in the most startling upset recorded in the week-day championship series to date. Approximately 2,500 fans witnessed the defeat of the Constructioneers, which reduces the preseries favorite's chances of winning the title to practically nothing.

Payne hooked up in a mound duel with Spencer Usilton, each twirler granting only seven hits. Six glaring errors spelled defeat for the latter. The Churchmen played airtight ball, supporting Payne in approved major league style.

Winning Runs Scored In Sixth.

The builders broke the ice in the first inning with a single run and repeated in the second and third; but a big second inning rally by the eventual winners knotted the count. In this inning the first two men, Fuchs and Draper drew free passes and all were safe on "Pie" Custard's bunt. Payne followed with another safe bunt, scoring Fuchs. Usilton forced Draper over the pan by walking Schneider and Custard tallied the third marker on a sacrifice by Thompson.

The winning runs were scored in the sixth by Payne, who doubled and Schneider who got on base through a fielder's choice that turned out to be wrong. The runners were sacrificed around the bases.

The losers rallied in the seventh, Ortel opening the round with a triple. Hamel's hit, and walks to Jewett and Jenkins, sandwiched in with two putouts and a sacrifice hit accounting for the scores. Eldbrooks got two more in the eighth, to put the game on ice.

The series will be resumed today at 4:15 p. m. on the South Ellipse with Commerce meeting Government Printing Office.

GOLF CROWN IS WON BY CONNOLLY

Central Lad Has 158 Card to Take D. C. Boys' Title.

JOHN J. CONNOLLY, 16-year-old Central High School student, one of Washington's most promising young golfers, and a member of the 1931 District team in the national public parks championship in St. Paul, yesterday won the annual boys' championship of the city, held at Rock Creek, with a card of 80—78—158.

He nosed out Robert Bowie, 15-year-old Tech High School boy whose 83—77—160 earned him a silver medal to Connolly's gold one. Third in the running was Jack Keele, 15 years old, and a student of Takoma-Silver Spring High, whose card read 77—84—161.

57 Youngsters Make Up Golf Field.

Fifty-seven boys, under 17 years of age, teed off in the 36-hole play, including Francis Sharkey, 11 years old, of Paul Junior High, who negotiated the 36 holes in 205. George Graham and Henry Cornell, both 12 years old, and students at Congress Heights School, were among the starters.

Connolly, who was runner-up to the District senior championship this year, wavered only twice during the entire day, when he took two sevens on the eighth and ninth holes of the outgoing nine in the morning. He came back strongly however, and played consistently good golf to win.

Jones to Face Burke In Charity Foursome

New York, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Bobby Jones, who retired in 1930 as world's champion golfer, and Billy Burke, the 1931 American open champion, will meet in a charity match over Burke's home course, the Round Hill Club, Greenwich, Conn., on Sunday, September 20.

The match will be a four-ball affair with Jones having John Dawson as his partner and Burke paired with Jess Sweetser.

It will be for the benefit of the Greenwich Social Service League.

Jones has appeared in a number of exhibitions, but this will be his first match with any of his champion successors since the Georgian retired.

Woodmont Golf Team Beats W. C. C. Women

Woodmont Country Club's women's golf team scored an upset victory over Washington yesterday afternoon on the Woodmont course, sending the conquerors of Columbia home on the short end of a 5—4 score. Washington was an easy 7½—½ victor last week when the two teams came together.

Woodmont's third twosome, Mrs. Bertha Israel and Mrs. L. B. Schloff, proved the deciding factors in the match by beating Mrs. J. E. McCabe and Mrs. Robert Lacy, 2½ to ½.

Washington led after the first foursome had turned in their scores, showing Mrs. Y. R. Booker and Mrs. Charles B. Stewart had defeated Mrs. Sydney Strauss and Mrs. Jerome Myer, 2—1. The general foursome was halved.

MILLS WAILS AT WORK OF G. U. ENDS

Candidates Lacking in Size; Coach Irked by Weak Play.

By JACK ESPEY (Post Staff Correspondent).

REHOBOTH, Del., Sept. 8.—Thomas Mills, a squat, almost bald man, encompassed in a pair of dark blue silk football pants, a dark blue sweater and a dark blue frown, called Johnnie Colrick and Frank Leahy, his trusted accomplices, to his side today and admitted, sorrowfully, "I don't know what we are going to do with these fellows."

"These fellows" were the raft of ambitious young men from which will be chosen the 1931 Georgetown University grid team. According to Mills, they had just conducted themselves in the most disappointing fashion they had shown since they arrived in Rehoboth Beach last week to perfect themselves for one of Georgetown's toughest schedules in years.

"There isn't a decent end in the bunch," continued Mills in an inconsolable manner. "Why, the first thing you know the half back and tackles will be knocking them loose leg by leg and arm by arm. I never saw such weak, effortless stuff as they have been showing, and here it is the second week in camp."

Mills Details Faults.

Then Tommy launched into a detailed indictment that accuse the wingmen of every football malfeasance imaginable. One by one Mills took their cases to point out that Georgetown is going to be in a bad way for strength on the flanks, a misfortune that played no little part in the five defeats of last year's Blue and Gray eleven and which, in the eyes of the Notre Dame system Mills employs, is just about as great a weakness a team can suffer.

The ends this year are handicapped physically. None of them measures up to the size, for instance, of Johnny Colrick, whose 6 foot 2, 185-pound frame gave a lot to the success of Notre Dame a couple of years ago. Big ends are most necessary to a team using Notre Dame football, for the wingman must face the defensive tackle alone while on the attack, the aid of a half back as under the Warner system, being misspent effort. On the defense again the Notre Dame end has an unusually heavy assignment and naturally the bigger he is physically the better his playing should be.

STEELE AND CHIEF MEET TONIGHT

Familiar Performers Return to Mat at Ball Park.

THE rassle boys will be at it again tonight at Griffith Stadium, with a host of the regular weekly performers back at the old stand, reenacting their bone bending efforts and otherwise disporting themselves for the city's wrestling fans. The show starts at 8:30 o'clock and will feature Ray Steele in a meeting with the venerable, but still animate, Chief White Feather.

Steele is not expected to suffer a defeat tonight, but the Chief can be counted upon to give the No. 2 ranking Curley cranium crusher a chance to show off his best stunts. White Feather's only claim to wrestling fame is his venomous chinlock, a worthy enough hold, but one whose virtues are rendered null in the face of Steele's all-around cleverness and ingenuity.

Others on the bill tonight are Don DeLaun and Carl Pojello, who promise to steal the show in many respects, particularly straight wrestling; Doc Wilson and Tiger Nelson, whose bout probably will be the most amusing; Milo Steinborn and Son Jennings, the former an ex-strong man from the circus, and George Zaharias against Gene Ledeau, a reformed Bowser wrestler.

Mitchell Again Wins Morgantown Net Title

Special to The Washington Post.

Morgantown, W. Va., Sept. 8.—Dooley Mitchell, Washington Public Parks and Georgetown star, successfully defended his Morgantown Country Club invitation tennis crown when he trounced B. F. Arkle, Wheeling, W. Va., today in a straight set final, 6—1, 9—7, 6—4. Mitchell, who had dominated the men's singles bracket throughout the tournament, was not extended to win although Arkle carried the second set to 9—7 before relinquishing it.

By his win, the Washington player acquired his first leg on the new challenge trophy in competition this year.

The men's doubles final played today resulted in victory for the defending champions, B. F. Arkle and William Abrams, the latter also from Wheeling, W. Va., over Sam Cohn and Aubrey Smith, Beckley, W. Va., 6—3, 6—4, 6—4. Abrams and Arkle defeated Mitchell and W. B. Buchanan, Washington, in the semifinals yesterday.

PEGLER DOUBTS LOVE ANGLE IN FISH FIGHTS

mains of Florida and Cuba because they happen to have disagreeable dispositions. Just why it is that the Tennessee doodlebug fights to the death, refusing to leave the confines of a 6-inch circle scratched on the ground with a twig or match stick until he kills his opponent or is killed himself, has never been satisfactorily explained.

It is hard to believe, however, that there is any love interest in these battles. In the first place, doodlebugs seem to be all of one sex, and, even if there is a fair sex among them, it is doubtful that even a doodlebug would carry much torch for another doodlebug, they being uniformly unattractive.

It is true that when Max Baer, the California heavyweight, was boxing in New York last winter, a love angle was exploited by the press agents of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, but Baer was a young man who used to bang his head against the steel pipes in his dressing room in the belief that when his opponents hit him their punches would seem trivial by contrast. The story of the romance was received with a certain skepticism because one could not be sure whether he was in love or merely goofy from banging his head on the pipes. There are those who hold that the two conditions are almost alike, anyway.

But, notwithstanding some really beautiful human interest copy from the Garden's mimeographs, Baer fought merely as another prize fighter, and not as a lover struggling for a fortune so that he could claim a lady's hand. James Jennings, the house author of the Garden firm, always described the lady in his copy as "the snooty and high-toned society divorcee and belle of the exclusive bon ton set." But press and customers still refused to concern themselves with the boy's personal problems.

N. Y. Fight Body May Claim Jurisdiction.

If the authorities of the Museum of Natural History intend to fight their Siamese fish there will arise a delicate question of jurisdiction between the New York prize fight commission and the fish commission. The prize fight commission has taken over amateur boxing lately, thus providing a number of good jobs for deserving Democrats, and might wish to assert authority over the fish fighting racket, too.

In that case, fish fighting will degenerate rapidly and, of course, some promoter will come along with a Primo Carnera fish and throw it into the water with a lot of docile carp and suckers. And, of course, James J. Johnson will be sure to come up with a fainting Philip Scott fish, but no fish named for Fainting Philip Scott would ever really deserve the name. Fainting Philip discovered some spins and spirals in his diving that no fish could ever hope to equal.

HART ACCUSED OF INCOME TAX FRAUD EFFORTS

Securities and Gems Are Taken From Hotel Safe in Atlantic City.

WARRANT CHARGES PITTS AND WIFE ALSO

Papers Those Government Has Been Looking For, Bradley Declares.

Concealing assets with the intent to defraud the Government of income taxes last night was charged to Henry O. Hart, confidential agent of G. Bryan Pitts, following discovery of $650,000 in jewels and securities yesterday in an Atlantic City hotel safe.

Hart is alleged to have placed the valuables there in collaboration with Patrick J. Clancy, formerly employed by the chairman of the board of the F. H. Smith Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Pitts also were named in the warrant sworn out by Charles B. McConnell, Washington internal revenue agent, who went to Atlantic City to assist in the investigation. Hart and Clancy were held at the New Jersey resort for Federal authorities.

Both men were placed under arrest Monday, while Internal Revenue Bureau agents, on the trail of Pitts' assets to satisfy a $2,000,000 income tax, examined the cache. It was said to contain $500,000 in jewels and $150,000 in stocks and bonds.

Warrants Ordered.

McConnell, in charge of the Atlantic City Internal Revenue office, said the United States attorney's office had instructed him to swear out Federal warrants for Hart and Clancy.

He said he was awaiting a Federal attorney from Washington to take charge of the men.

Collector of Internal Revenue Galen L. Tait, from whose office the investigating revenue agents are operating, last night declined to comment. He said he had just returned from Baltimore to his Chevy Chase home, and was not familiar with recent developments.

Burke F. Bradley, one of his operatives, who was sent to Atlantic City Monday following arrest of the two men, returned to Washington last night. At his home it was stated he was "tired and could not be disturbed."

It was impossible to confirm reports that the jewelry had been removed to Atlantic City to be delivered to Mrs. Gladys T. Pitts, wife of the F. H. Smith Co. official.

Has Not Seen Inventory.

Nor was it stated whether the property was confiscated by Internal Revenue Bureau authorities.

Assistant Attorney General Nugent Dodds said last night he was informed some seizure was made. He said he had not seen an inventory of the property taken.

Hart was forced to give up $189,250 of Investment Building bonds to internal revenue agents here Saturday. He left that night for Atlantic City, where the latest seizure is reported to have taken place.

According to Associated Press dispatches, Internal Revenue agents yesterday checked over bonds, legal documents and jewelry placed in the Claridge Hotel safe by Hart and Clancy.

"The papers are what the Government has been looking for," Bradley was quoted as saying.

Awaiting Outcome of Appeal.

Pitts, former chairman of the board of the F. H. Smith Co., is in the District Jail, awaiting outcome of an appeal from his 14-year sentence on embezzlement charges.

Already internal revenue agents have confiscated Pitts' $500,000 villa, El Lado del Mar, at Palm Beach, Fla. Liens have been filed against him in five States by revenue authorities. His automobiles and other private property have been sold in part satisfaction of the income tax claim.

Hart, with Pitts and three other officials of the F. H. Smith Co., was indicted here two months ago for "aiding in the commission of perjury" at his employer's trial for embezzlement. He was alleged to have given false testimony in Pitts' behalf and to have assisted in the preparation of false evidence in his defense.

Driver and Man He Hit Both Sent to Hospital

An auto striking a pedestrian at Eleventh and E streets northwest yesterday sent the driver to Casualty Hospital, suffering from shock and hysteria, and his victim to Emergency Hospital with a fractured jaw, possible skull fracture and multiple lacerations.

Police reported that David Rich, 27, 703 Shepherd street northwest, became hysterical about an hour after the auto he was driving knocked down John Marshall, 29, 1409 Twenty-fifth street southeast.

Both men were said to be getting along encouragingly early today.

POSTPONED HEARING DENIED IN GAS CASE

Lack of Preparation Plea of Company Attorney, Back From Vacation.

Wilton J. Lambert, counsel for the Washington Gas Light Co., and Arthur Dean, New York attorney for Chase, Harris & Forbes, bankers, who negotiated the sale of the local gas concerns, yesterday called on the Public Utilities Commission and asked that the scheduled hearing on ownership of the Washington companies be postponed.

Following the conference Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, announced that the request was denied on the ground that notices have already been issued and preparations made for the hearing which is to be held next week.

Mr. Lambert gave as one reason for the request that he had just returned from a vacation in Europe and needed more time to prepare a defense. He did not state whether or not he would also represent the Central Public Service Corporation at the hearing, but he said that the Chicago interests were also eager for a postponement.

No question of past accounts were taken up at the conference, according to Gen. Patrick. Vice Chairman Harleigh H. Hartman and William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, were present at the parley.

The hearing on ownership of the Washington Gas Light Co. will begin immediately upon conclusion of the gas pressure hearing, scheduled to open Monday.

Trolley Company Sued For $50,000 by Boy

James Kermit Snyder, a legal infant of 806 Cleveland avenue, Riverdale, Md., yesterday through his father George Snyder, sued the Washington Railway & Electric Co., for $50,000 damages. The boy was struck by a street car while he walked along the tracks near Branchville, Md., April 20.

The suit enumerated permanent injuries that have been sustained. It sought redress of $50,000. Attorneys Welch, Daily and Welch appeared for the Snyders.

TRADE BODY TO AID FIRE PARADE AGAIN

Board Decides to Sponsor Future Events; Three-Day Fete Planned.

The Washington Board of Trade intends to continue sponsoring the annual firemen's parade in Washington, and is already making plans for next year's demonstration, it was announced yesterday.

The Board of Trade sponsored the parade for the first time this year, and the organization is so elated over the success that the plans for next year call for a three-day celebration, it was revealed. Efforts will also be made to have National Firemen's Day celebrated during the three days, which will mean that firemen and apparatus from virtually every State will come to Washington for the event.

Odell S. Smith was chairman of the committee of the Board of Trade which cooperated with the Fire Department in staging the parade last Monday. Sergt A. J. Bargagni, marshal of the parade, was as pleased yesterday over the success of the parade as a small boy at the top of his class. He made the following announcement:

"On behalf of every member of the Fire Department and our visiting Fire Department friends, I wish to thank Washington newspapers, merchants and citizens generally for their aid in making the Labor Day parade the most successful event of its kind in history. The spirit of cooperation displayed again this year undoubtedly will go a long way toward increasing the popularity of the annual parade and stimulating fire prevention work. We are particularly indebted to the Washington newspapers for their thorough and painstaking aid."

Maryland Auxiliary Won Prizes in Parade

Due to an error in the list of awards in the firemen's parade published yesterday in The Post, the name of the winner of the cup and $25 prize for the ladies' auxiliary, presenting the best appearance in line was omitted. The Gaithersburg-Washington Grove Ladies Auxiliary won this event.

Also, the Boy's Independent Band of Washington led the Association of Exempt Firemen in the parade and not Hose Company No. 4 of Harrisonburg, Va. The Post takes this opportunity to correct these errors.

500-Gallon Still Seized.

R. A. Naylor and E. A. Turner, Prince Georges County policemen, last night confiscated a 500-gallon still on the property of a Brandywine, Md., dentist. Included in the haul were 15 bags of rye meal and 50 cases of empty jars. The still was not in operation when discovered, nor was a tender found.

Geraldine Lust, 11, Missing and Found

Child of Theater Man Was First Thought to Have Been Kidnaped.

Police yesterday were working on conflicting reports concerning the disappearance of 11-year-old Geraldine Celia Lust, of 1362 Geranium street northwest, daughter of Sidney Lust, theater owner.

Her parents first learned of her absence at 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning and were immediately under the impression that she had been kidnaped. Later, however, a note written by the girl was found, which stated that she had gone to Annapolis for the day.

Police immediately sent out a description of the girl to local precincts and outlying substations. Late yesterday afternoon, Falls Church, Va., police, picked up the child, who upon questioning, revealed the fact that she was the one for whom the lookout had been sent and she was immediately sent home to her anxious parents.

Fall From Ladder Fatal To Man Painting House

Christian Sauer, 27, died late yesterday at Garfield Hospital four and one-half hours after he fell from a ladder while painting his house at 630 Kenyon street northwest. The victim toppled about 25 feet, his body striking the pavement.

A motorist who saw the accident took Mr. Sauer to Dr. Edwin E. Roberts' office at 3213 Georgia avenue for first-aid treatment, the man later being transferred to the hospital. Death was caused by a fracture of the skull and internal injuries. An investigation was begun by Tenth Precinct police to determine the accident's cause.

18 INJURED IN CAR ACCIDENTS IN AND NEAR WASHINGTON

Girl, 21, Is One of Five Hurt in Connecticut Avenue Auto Collision.

FALLS CHURCH VISITORS BARELY ESCAPE DEATH

Child, 10, Knocked Down by Vehicle, Is Dragged 40 Feet by Bumper.

Eighteen persons were injured, two of them seriously, in automobile accidents in the District and on nearby highways yesterday and last night.

Miss Florence Beale, 21 years old, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert S. Beale, of 1318 Nineteenth street northwest, was one of five injured at Connecticut avenue and Q street when a car in which she was riding, operated by Midshipman James D. Collett, 4100 Cathedral avenue, collided with a sedan driven by William P. Morgan, colored, 21, of 1210 Twentieth street northwest.

The injured occupants of the sedan, which was overturned and wrecked, were all colored and were taken to Emergency Hospital.

Miss Beale was cut about the face. She was taken to her home.

Youths Escape Death.

Three boys from Nashville, Tenn., escaped death when the roadster in which they were riding at a high speed overturned on the Lee highway near Falls Church and plunged down an embankment, pinning them underneath. A fourth youth left the scene of the accident before police arrived.

Those injured are Robert Roberts, 16; James Noland, 10, and Robert Noland, 16. All were treated at Georgetown University Hospital. The boys are said to be visitors in Falls Church.

Struck by an automobile last night as she alighted from a taxicab near Lincoln road and Todd place northeast, Elizabeth Donohue, 10 years old, of New York City, was dragged more than 40 feet when her dress caught on the bumper of the machine. She escaped with slight injuries.

Taken to Sibley.

The child, who is visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gabler, at 1349 Maryland avenue northeast, was taken to Sibley Hospital.

Mrs. Owen D. Morgan and her two children, Owen D. Morgan, jr., 4, and Ann Josephine Morgan, 5, of 814 Delafield place northwest, and Mrs. Francis Forsbeck, of Long Island City, N. Y., were slightly injured in an automobile accident on the Washington-Richmond highway near Fort Humphreys yesterday afternoon. They were taken to Alexandria Hospital.

Miss Ruth London, 23, and her brother, Max London, of Potomac, Va., were treated at the Alexandria Hospital for injuries received in an accident near Fairfax.

Knocked down by a delivery truck as she was attempting to cross Georgia avenue near Lamont street yesterday, Mrs. Rebecca Zumwalt, 42, 613 Keefer place northwest, was seriously injured. She was treated at Garfield Hospital.

James Edmunds, 15, 1034 Evarts street northeast, was struck while riding a bicycle by a car operated by Julius A. Fleischauer, a policeman, who took the boy to Sibley Hospital for treatment.

DR. SHELTON'S TRIAL WILL BE IN SECRET

Elder Avoids Queries About Date for Arraignment of Methodist Cleric.

The trial of the Rev. William A. Shelton, pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church South, against whom charges have been made by his former secretary, will be conducted in secrecy and every effort will be made to conduct the proceedings without the knowledge of the public, it was learned yesterday.

The Rev. J. H. Balthis, presiding elder of the Washington district and official spokesman for the Mount Vernon Church during the present crisis, has indicated that he will preserve a determined silence until the charges against the pastor have been aired in the church trial and the outcome of the case has been decided.

Beyond affirming his innocence and declaring that he will combat every attack made against him, Dr. Shelton chooses not to discuss the case. His friends are confident that he will be exonerated.

Miss Carrie A. Williams, of 5322 Forty-first street northwest, the secretary, has announced that she will not have anything to say until she takes the witness stand. She will be the chief witness against Dr. Shelton.

The trial will be held some time this month, it is expected, at the Mount Vernon Church.

Fight Against Mosquitoes Cost $60,000 During Year

Sanitary Division of District Engineer Department Expended $2,293,522; Total of Sewers in Service Brought Up to 976 Miles During Period.

If you spent the summer in Washington and were not bothered by mosquitoes, you may thank the sanitary division of the District Engineer Department. If you were, you probably can be thankful that there weren't more of them.

At any rate, J. B. Gordon, sanitary engineer, expended $60,000 on mosquito control during the past fiscal year, he reported yesterday to the District Commissioners. The work included cleaning 100 miles of streams and spraying 60 miles of streams and 8,852 catch basins a total of 99,835 times.

This activity was but a small part of the work of the division, however, as a total of $2,293,522.06 was expended during the year. Among other things the section constructed 28,166 feet of sewers, at a cost of $134,293.93. Service sewers constructed under contract and by day labor totaled 93,476 feet, cost $418,164.59, and served 1,390 houses.

The District now has 976.83 miles of sewers, besides a sewage disposal system of 41.27 miles. The value of both systems is $29,886,545.81.

A great portion of the sanitary division's work consisted of inspections and cleaning of sewers and equipment now in operation. The report also details the number of conduits laid by the local public utility companies, which were inspected by sanitary division employes.

During the past year 1,559 complaints were received and acted upon.

Melvin C. Hazen, District surveyor, also submitted his report for the year which ended June 30. He complained against the excessive costs of acquiring land in Washington for public use and recommended that no property be condemned for street or other municipal improvements save "where it is proposed within a reasonable time to improve the streets or alleys to be acquired and open them for the use of the public."

The surveyor said it is unfair to the property owners for the District "to levy assessments for benefits and then to permit the property to lie idle for some time, thus depriving the property owners of the enjoyment of the benefits for which they were charged."

Twenty-eight condemnation suits were filed by the District Government last year, and there were 65 cases on the court docket. The condemnation court confirmed 25 jury awards. Awards as damages, plus court costs, totaled $1,088,844.78, and the sums assessed as benefits totaled $463,662.08.

STATUS OF PERMIT CONTROL CHALLENGE

Legality of Restoration and Revocation Board Is Questioned.

Legality of the new board in charge of restorations and revocations of operators' permits, set up under the amended traffic act, was challenged yesterday in a protest filed with the District Commissioners by Fred A. Maltby, local attorney.

The lawyer charged that the Commissioners do not have authority to designate an assistant corporation counsel to act as their agent, "as the Commissioners are the agents of Congress and not of the District of Columbia, and it necessarily follows that an agent can not appoint an agent."

Even if the law permitted the corporation counsel to act on the board, it would be "contrary to reason and sense," the attorney argued. All the corporation counsel has to do, after he obtains a conviction in Police Court, is to walk across the street to the traffic director's office and revoke or suspend a driver's permit, he charged. An appeal to the commissioners is again referred to the corporation counsel, according to Mr. Maltby.

He asked the commissioners to review revocation of the permit of Christian Otto Middledorf by the board last Wednesday.

3 Boys Injured As Auto Upsets

Nashville Youths, Visiting in Falls Church, Victims of High Speed.

Three Nashville, Tenn., youths were injured yesterday afternoon when a light roadster in which they were riding turned over while going at high speed 2 miles west of Falls Church on the Lee highway. A fourth youth the driver of the car, left the scene before aid arrived, according to Fairfax County police.

Those injured were Robert Roberts, 16, internal injuries, a broken collarbone and possible concussion of the brain; James Noland, 10; shock, and Robert Noland, 16, lacerations of the hip. All three were treated at Georgetown University Hospital, where they were taken in a car. According to Constable Paul Hermann, of Falls Church, the Arlington County Rescue Squad was called, but was a half hour in arriving. The boys are said to be visitors in Falls Church.

AUTOMOTIVE GROUP TO AID TITLING LAW

Will Broadcast Warnings to Motorists; Applications Below Estimate.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

"Remember! No auto title—no 1932 auto tags! Time will not be extended. Act now!"

That message in large, black type is going to confront many a Washington motorist from now until the first of the year. It is to be rubber stamped on every invoice, letter, statement, circular and pamphlet sent out by members of the Washington Automotive Trade Association as the organization's contribution to bringing local car owners into line with the new title law before it is too late.

Unless motorists act promptly to obtain certificates of title—much more promptly than they have since the law became effective July 1—the city's streets will be robbed of a large share of the normal traffic burden after January 1. Untitled cars can not be driven under penalty of a $1,000 or imprisonment for one year, or both.

Officials of the W. A. T. A. have been informed by Traffic Director W. A. Van Duzer that title applications should be reaching the department at the rate of 1,000 daily if the huge task of titling all vehicles is to be completed on time. So far, only about 20,000 out of 120,000 cars and trucks have been titled.

One explanation of the delay in filling out and returning the applications, Mr. Van Duzer believes, is that many motorists are under the delusion that they must pay personal property taxes on their cars when the title is issued. Such is not the case, he points out.

The tax must be paid coincidental with getting license plates and has no bearing upon the title. All the motorist needs to do is fill out the application and mail it with a dollar, the cost of the title, to the department.

Order Against Hackers Interfering Is Sought

Justice Jennings Bailey yesterday signed an order directing Richard C. Kline, 2911 N street northwest, and Harry Vandegrift, 3507 W place northwest, to appear before him tomorrow and show why they should not be enjoined from interfering with the business of three rival hackers who use the hack stand at Wisconsin avenue and M street northwest.

DR. COLIN MACKALL, G. W. U. PROFESSOR, FILES DIVORCE SUIT

Action in Reno Court Claims Artist-Wife Deserted Him Late in 1929.

COUPLE WAS MARRIED IN PARIS AUG. 23, 1923

Chemistry Instructor Served as Officer in World War; Child Involved.

Dr. Colin Mackenzie Mackall, professor of chemistry at George Washington University, officer in the World War and prominent in social circles of Washington and Baltimore, filed suit for divorce yesterday against his wife, the former Marie-Louise de Marsan, according to an Associated Press disptach from Reno, Nev.

Dr. Mackall stated that he was willing to give his wife custody of their 5-year-old daguhter, Marie-Antoinette Caussia de Mauvoisin, with the provision that he be allowed to visit her.

In his suit, Dr. Mackall charged that Mrs. Mackall left him on October 15, 1929.

The couple were married August 23, 1923, in Paris, where Mlle. De Marsan was a portrait painter rapidly forging to the front with her art, several works of which had been exhibited in the better salons.

Dr. Mackall had gone abroad to do advanced study after receiving his doctor's degree at Johns Hopkins University in 1920.

Came to United States.

Shortly afterward, the couple came to the United States and Dr. Mackall joined the faculty of St. John's College, Annapolis, Md., where he remained until four years ago, when he came to Washington to teach chemistry at George Washingotn University.

The chemist, who is 46 years old, is a graduate of Baltimore City College, the University of Virginia and George Washington University, as well as Johns Hopkins. During the war he was a captain in the Coast Artillery Corps, gas officer of the Second Division and held other high posts. The Mackall residence is at 1745 K street northwest.

B. S. Simmons Dies; Eminent Architect

Designer of Several Capital Buildings Succumbs in Hospital.

B. Stanley Simmons, 1627 Lamont street northwest, well-known designer of numerous buildings in Washington, died yesterday at Providence Hospital after a short illness. He was in his sixtieth year.

Mr. Simmons was born in Charles County, Md., and came to Washington when he was about 10 years old. He had been a resident here ever since and had been in the architectural profession for the last 40 years. He was a graduate of Boston Tech, a member of the American Institute of Architects, the Columbia Historical Society, the Elks, and the Knights of Columbus.

Among the numerous buildings which Mr. Simmons designed are the National Metropolitan Bank, the Lafayette Hotel, the Barr Building, the Fairfax Hotel, the Embassy Apartments, the Belvedere Hotel and the Wakefield Hall Apartments.

Besides his widow he is survived by six sons, Thomas L., John S., James L., B. Stanley, jr., William L. and Vincent de Paul Simmons; two daughters, Mrs. Katherine S. Roper and Miss Helen C. Simmons, and two brothers, Dr. Maynard J. Simmons and Joseph A. Simmons, all of Washington.

Tailor Asks Court Writ Restraining Competitor

A Supreme Court order directing Maxwell Sherman, a tailor, of 5300 Georgia avenue, to cease advertising his business as "Sherman Management" was asked yesterday by Benjamin Sherman, tailor, of 5305 Georgia avenue northwest, who says his business is being seriously harmed through the competition.

Benjamin Sherman related to the court that he had employed Maxwell Sherman in his shop for some time. Maxwell left his employer May 1, 1931, and opened up just two doors away. Because of the similarity of names, customers of the first Sherman shop have gone to the other shop, believing it to be the original place, the court was told. Sherman also wants an accounting of all profits derived by Maxwell Sherman through advertising as "Sherman Management."

Police Renew Search For Insurance Agent

Search for Walter Edward Whitcomb, 26 years old, an insurance agent of 210 Sixth street southeast, who has been missing for the past two weeks, was renewed last night after police received reports that he had been seen in his car in the vicinity of Washington.

Mr. Whitcomb was seen in a coupe with a tan top, a greenish blue body and black fenders, police learned. When last seen he was wearing a dark brown suit, brown felt hat, black shoes and a white shirt. His wife, Mrs. Georgia Whitcomb, could assign no reason for his disappearance. She said he had $200 on his person when he left home.

Canning Method Shown To Assist Unemployed

Forty women prominent in club and church circles gathered yesterday in Central High School's demonstration kitchen to take a peach-canning lesson from Miss Emma Jacobs, head of the public school domestic science department, with 20 bushels of the fruit being used in the demonstration. Eight hundred quarts were preserved.

Demonstrations will continue today, tomorrow and Friday at Central High and other assembly places in the city. Other groups will be organized for canning next week. The product will be stored at the old St. James Hotel for distribution to needy families this winter.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

AFTER LABOR DAY.

THE tumult and the shouting dies—
The beach queens and their boys depart—
The sign "For Sale at Sacrifice"
Restores the cottage to the mart;
The hotel hammocks cease to creak—
The outboard motors cease to roar—
The flannel-panted summer sheik
Goes back to selling socks once more.

Far-called, the bathers melt away—
On dune and headland sinks the mob—
Gone are the street pajamas gay,
And faces stained by corn on cob;
The hotel porches cease to buzz—
Gone are the gossips from their chairs—
The Ritzy dame whose posing was
So grand resumes her household cares.
The "hot dawg" seeks a southern clime
To sizzle on a roadside fire—
Lo! all the pomp of summertime
Is one with Nineveh and Tyre!
The ice cream stands fold slowly up—
The shore dinner cooks retreat—
And millions now go home to sup
On food that they can safely eat.

THE summer hotel lobbies are
As silent as a Pharaoh tomb—
Hushed is the poolroom and the bar,
And gone the folks who want a room;
Stilled is the boardwalk's mighty drone—
The ballyhoo man's voice is spent—
When rings the room clerk's telephone
He knows it's all by accident.

The awnings of each cottage drop
The screens are slowly stowed away—
The cottage doors are locked by "pop,"
Who'll open 'em again in May;
The skiffs and dinghies disappear—
As do a million swimming floats—
Gone are the summer tourists queer
Who hop about like mountain goats.

The seaside jazz bands fade away—
The picture postcards cease their flights—
Hushed are the camps where children play
And peaceful are the beaches nights;
The fishermen put up their poles,
Their tackle and their "shiner net"—
And go back home to smudge their souls
With tales of fish they didn't get.

THE lifeguards abdicate and go
Back to their college football teams—
O'er hill and dale the flivvers flow,
Vacation luggage packed abeam;
The summer girls all homeward flee
And one thought fills them with delight:
Each knows for six or eight months she WON'T HAVE TO KEEP THOSE WHITE SHOES WHITE!

They allowed a girl to fly a plane at Curtiss Field recently after 7 hours and 27 minutes of instruction. And people contribute money for safety first campaigns!

Viewing the Wanamaker de luke fishing boat (sports yacht, to you) over at Greenport the other day Paul ("Cookies") Barnett inquired the purpose of the seat aloft used for spotting swordfish and was informed by Mickey Wrenn that it was for the "kibitzer."

Some 400 suspects rounded up by the New York police as a drive against gangsters have all been released again. Well, a good time was had by all, anyhow.

A man who played in the band at West Point for 30 years without skipping a day has retired. His first act presumably will be to go to some news reel theater and see the cadets drill.

R. J. Duffy says that the depression is so general that Scotchmen are now offering a ha'penny for your thoughts.

C. M. suggests that the department stores could give employment to millions by putting them at work picking the pins out of men's shirts.

The country must operate on a war basis to get out of its present predicament, says Mr. Herbert Hoover in the magazine Clubwoman. It wouldn't be bad right now if we only had bands, parades and something like the peach-pit drive to take our mind off realities.

It is said that a certain investment trust has so many frozen assets that it is thinking of operating as a hockey rink.

REFORM.

I'm not rushing golf like I once was,
It seems to me rather a shame
To waste all your time as a dunce does
On something that's only a game:

A family deserves some attention
And little or none mine have had,
And also I really might mention
My children all merit a dad.

Well * * * yes * * * I'm a bit of a dub now * * *
I've slipped * * * you are right in the main * * *
I suppose I would be at the club now
If I could break 90 again!

Skeptical Doctor Unmasks Tearful Pseudo-Paralytic

"I'm paralyzed, boys. Fetch me the police."

Two urchins, whose play at the corner of Ninth and G streets northeast had been interrupted by the man's plea, gazed at him in awe and then lit out for the Ninth Precinct station.

Policemen W. M. Maloney and M. Prestele responded in a patrol wagon, tenderly lifted the moaning patient inside and drove carefully to Gallinger Hospital, sacrificing speed to avoid the bumps.

Orren Tripplett, as the victim later identified himself, wailed that his left side was paralyzed, but three physicians who inspected him were baffled. Then a fourth medico joined the consultation and, despite Mr. Tripplett's protests, began pumping his left arm and leg. They pumped well and it seemed the patient was only fooling.

He was given a ride to the police station and this time his blue-coated custodians were not so fearful to avoid the bumps. Mr. Tripplett was charged with drunkenness. He said he lives in Capitol Heights, Md.
